At the business meeting which folhereafter all exhibits must be entered by number instead of by the photographer's name, so that the work will be criticised on its merits and not upon the reputation of the exhibitor. Any person desiring to enter an exhibit must notify the secretary in advance and will be provided with a number which he shall attach to his work, and a sealed envelop will contain his name and address. After the judges have made their decision, his name will then be attached to his display. Also that any person making an exhibit and who does not care to enter the contest, must notify the secretary to that effect in advance.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers for their services. To the second vice president, M. F. Heinzelman, is special credit due, as he was called upon unexpectedly to preside during the entire session, in the absence of the president and first vice president. That his services were appreciated is evinced by the fact that the convention was unanimous in electing him first vice president.

The judges, Messrs. Varney and Pryor, of La Crosse; and Peterson, of Faribault, then made their report of the markings of the exhibits. These markings were made on a basis of 100 per cent, and included posing, lighting, printing and chemical effect. Tobias Zweifel, of Duluth, easily carried off the honors, his work ranking far above that of any of his competitors. There were eight in the display of portraiture who had a percentage of 50 or over, thus entitling them to diplomas, while the commercial work of Haas Brothers. of St. Paul, was par excellence. ing, but the report was evidently satisfactory to all exhibitors.

This closed the convention, but the members gathered in the exhibition hall to spend several hours in pleasant social conversation and to receive the many visitors, who had called to inspect the artistic display, the hall being open to outsiders yesterday. Most of the photographers left last evening to return to their homes—and to turn out return to their homes-and to turn out a finer class of work at their respective studios than they ever did before. Some of them, however, will remain in St. Paul over Sunday, to view some of the many points of interest in this vicinity.

The third annual convention has proved a splendid success, socially, and from an educational standpoint. The exhibits, while not so many in number as last year, were far more excellent from an artistic view, and show con-siderable improvement over a year ago. The members are enthusiastic in their work, and look forward to even a bigger meeting next year.

Grand Avenue Motoneer Prevents Serious Accident.

Motoneer Peterson, of the Grand avenue electric line, prevented a runaway accident yesterday morning, and undoubtedly saved the life of a little girl. As his car approached the grocery store of George M. Ray, on Grand avenue, near the corner of Cambridge avenue, a horse attached to a delivery wagon in which Alice Hearn was waiting to take a ride with the clerk, became frightened and started to run came frightened and started to run away. By this time the car was close to the animal and Peterson jumped off, catching the horse by the bridle as he ran by. The plucky motoneer was dragged half a block and his clothes badly torn, but he succeeded in bringing the runaway to a standstill without serious injury to himself.

SAYS IT IS UNJUST.

Treasurer Horst Replies to the Investigators.

City Treasurer Horst has an idea that the report of the special council com-mittee appointed to investigate his acmittee appointed to investigate his actions in depositing city funds in the Allemannia bank, did him an injustice. In order that he might be given a chance to explain to the public what he meant when he said he had not been treated fairly by the committee, the Globe publishes the following statement which was prepared by Mr. Horst vesterday: yesterday:

ment which was prepared by Mr. Horst yesterday:

I think in the main the committee wanted the report signed by them to be a fair statement of he facs. But in common fairness, if they thought it necessary to comment on the total deposits for a few days in the Allemannia bank when I took office in June, 1896, they should also have stated the facts. First, that the funds in the treasurer's hands exceeded the amount provided for by the council in accepted bonds to the amount of $259,000, and that that sum had to be deposited somewhere under the provisions of the charter. That soon thereafter we drew at one time $60,000 out of this bank and that when the funds were low the balance in that bank did not exceed $58,000.

The committee seems to lay great weight to the fact that when I wrote my statement I looked up date of bond and date of approval by council, and use it as an argument that because I am able now to figure out the time I must have known of the facts at that time. The same logic is used in coming to the conclusion on the resolution question.

As to my reference to the charter, I would ing to the conclusion on the resolution question.

As to my reference to the charter, I would like to whisper a state secret to the committee in strictest confidence. It is this: "Ignorance of law is no excuse for its violation." The reference to the charter was made because it justified the action of the freasurer in the premises.

Now as to the actual report of the committee of what they found in the treasurer's office on the subject to be investigated.

First—If the report had quoted the heavy drafts on the bank and low balances, as well as picking out the high ones, it would have left the balance as to favoritism shown and hardship worked las I X I-I. The amounts deposited over and above the limit I have already explained are inecessary, on account of more funds being on hand than could be deposited under the bends, and at no time was the limit exceeded when the funds on hand came within the limit.

In regard to the deposits quoted by the committee:

The subcommittee found that on June 12.

hand came within the limit.

In regard to the deposits quoted by the committee:

The subcommittee found that on June 12, 1896, the county treasurer paid over to the city for school purposes a check on the Allemannia bank for $50,000, which was deposited in the Allemannia bank, and that the withdrawals during that day and ten days following amounted to $133,223.89, one check being for the amount of $40,537.75, reducing the balance in this short space of time to $158,329.68. On June 23 the county treasurer again gave the city treasurer a check on the Allemannia bank for $58,500, which was deposited in the Allemannia bank as per custom, and on the same day the city drew on the Allemannia bank for the full amount of interest becoming drease of tunds to the city's financial agent in New York.

The committee reports the deposits from Nov. 1, 1896, to time of failure of bank as being the periods of time in which the resolution was passed. The fact of the matter is the resolution was published Nov. 9, 1896. They may have thought the difference in time and amount was not material, but where large transactions occur like in the treasurer's office, $6,000,000 receipts and the same amount of disbursements per annum a few days means a great deal.

If the Allemannia bank had kept its doors hastened to St. Paul to see what could be done in the matter. Not knowing his sons address, Postmaster Sands called at the police station to learn if the police had been notified of the robbery. Capt. Rouleau informed Mr. Sands that no such case had been reported to the station to his knowledge, and the chances were that the young man was mistaken about the robbery. Mr. Sands seemed quite surprised at this information, and said that his son "Joey," who was seventeen years old, had been attending the teachers' training school at Winona. ation from the amount which it asked, it seems probable that little, if any, reduction will be made in the amount to be used for teachers' salaries. In its division of the money, the ordinance which passed the assembly Thursday night follows the lines suggested informally by Inspector E. O. Zimmerman at the meeting of the school board Monday. This division allots $327,150 for teachers' salaries, $43,950 for other salaries, and $49,000 for school board Monday. This division allots $327,150 for teachers' salaries, $43,950 for other salaries, and $49,000 for general expenses. Mr. Zimmerman's idea is that it is from this third item that the greater portion of the reduction must be made, and his suggestion was made in accordance with that view. There may be some minor reductions in teachers' salaries but view. There may be some minor reductions in teachers' salaries, but he does not think they will be important.

The suggestion is significant, as Mr. Zimmerman is supposed to be close in the councils of the controlling faction in the board.
