ON THE BRINK

Of a Lost Opportunity is a Serious Position.

But it is just where intending purchasers of pianos stand today. It will be but little trouble for you to call on the salesmen at 419 First avenue south, Minneapolis, and learn for yourself whether or not the instruments offered are genuine bargains, and bear in mind that a bona fide bargain is one that presents the greatest possible advantage to the conservative buyer, for it is the one occasion in this business world when the seller is not obliged to demand a profit on his goods. The closer the buyer takes advantage of all the favorable conditions.

This piano question is one that must be decided now. Don't put off for future consideration and recall it when it is too late, as many a sad experience has shown that tomorrow was lost today so easily could have been done. So it may be in this case. The pianos on first-class instruments are nervous, its limit and all opportunities forever gone.

FONDA'S VERDICT STANDS.

Judge Willis Denies the Defendant a New Trial.

The St. Paul City Railway company asked Judge Willis at special term yesterday, to order a new trial of the personal injury suit which James M. Fonda brought against the company, and in which he secured a verdict for $17,500. Mr. Fonda was run over by a street car on West Seventh street in August, 1895, and suffered the loss of both feet. The case was called for trial twice. On the first trial the plaintiff's attorney after surveying the jury, dismissed the case. On the last trial the jury returned a verdict for $17,500 in favor of the plaintiff. Judge Willis denied the motion for a new trial.

THEIR ACTION LEGAL

SAID THAT ATTORNEY GENERAL CHILDS WILL SO ADVISE CAPITAL COMMISSIONERS.

HE IS STILL CONSIDERING.

AND HAS NOT AS YET SUBMITTED HIS FINAL OPINION.

MR. LAMBERTON'S POSITION.

Winona Member of the Board Thinks It Will Do as Mr. Childs Suggests.

Attorney General Childs has not as yet written his supplementary opinion which he has intimated he will send to the governor, as to the capital marble matter, but it is expected that he will do so either tomorrow or next day.

It was learned by the Globe yesterday at the capital, on good authority, that the opinion would undoubtedly be that the action of the commission is legal. The act of 1892, under which the commission was created, gave it full power to act. This was a special law, applying to buildings generally in the state, and it is understood that the attorney general will rule that this could not be implication, at least, repeat the former special act or limit the curtail the powers of the board. This view of the law would sustain the action of the commission perfectly.

Commissioner H. W. Lambertson, asked yesterday in Winona in regard to whether or not he had received the letter which it is reported was sent to each one of the capital commissioners. "I have not as yet received any letter," he stated, "and have no opinion to express further than I did when I voted."

"What opinion have you in regard to this law of '95, as quoted?"

"When the commission acted, I was fully acquainted with chapter 397. It was of 1895, referred to did not then think I was violating the law in voting as I did, nor do I think so now. But the attorney general is the legal adviser of the commission, and his opinion in the matter will doubtless govern the future action of the board."

"What do you think of the discussion of this matter as made in the Twin City papers?"

"The discussion in the Twin City papers," was the reply, "are a good deal like county theater sheet from thunder and gunpowder hitting, created behind the scenes to win the applause from the galleries."

"What would be your choice in case the marble had to be rejected after all?"

"As to my action in such a case, I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

The Improvement Bulletin, discussing the agitation, Georgia Marble vs. Home Stone for the Capitol Building, says:

Certain parties directly interested in Minnesota stone quarries are making a desperate fight to prevent the carrying out of the program, decided upon by the commission, for the use of Georgia marble, for facing a portion of the walls of the building. Other parties, some of the editors, are urging them on. Injunctions and all sorts of horrible things are threatened. It is claimed that the use of marble from another state violates a clause in the legislation authorizing the construction of the building. That is a matter of law, which the lawyers and courts will have to decide. It is a long and loud, if the parties persist in their opposition. In the meantime, everything must be brought to a standstill, all contracts, and all contracts be hung up, the many men who have been figuring on employment this winter, will have to whistle a while longer, and in general, it will seriously inconvenience a large number of people and interests. It will be a nice thing for a few lawyers. It is a very unfortunate state of things.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion among architects and others, whose judgment is good and unclouded by local or other prejudice, that the idea of the architect, in the use of marble from another state, is a very unfortunate state of things.

The relatives of Kedell claim that his death was undoubtedly due to having taken three or four draughts of the wood alcohol, and insist that the clerk in the drug store made a mistake in handing him the bottle which he used for external uses, in place of the ordinary kind. A. O. Linscott, son-in-law of the deceased, stated last evening that he intended placing the matter in the hands of an attorney.

Dr. Birch, who attended Kedell, did not desire to have his name mentioned in connection with the case, but said he had seen the bottle, and had taken of the wood alcohol, as he had not taken enough to cause death.

J. J. McMahon, the clerk who sold Kedell the alcohol, said he knew nothing about the case except that he had sold a man ten cents worth of wood alcohol, and he understood the man had since died. He did not know the name of the person to whom he had sold the alcohol, and for further information referred to his employer.

Mr. Reeves could not be seen last evening to his version of the sale, but one of the clerks in the store said the attending physician had made the statement that the alcohol had nothing to do with the death of the man.

GAVE UP HIS GOODS.

A Wisconsin Man Wouldn't Be Bothered With Trouble.

Joseph Roucher, a butcher from Amery, Wis., was arrested yesterday noon by Detectives Morrison and Olberg at his home at Marion and Front streets. The arrest was made at the request of a woman who claimed to be his wife, and who had a warrant charging Roucher with having taken mortgaged property out of the state of Wisconsin. Roucher denied that the articles were mortgaged, and the matter was settled yesterday afternoon by Roucher turning the team, wagon and other property over to the officer from Osceola. The deputy was evidently a very kind-hearted individual, for after the case had been settled, two silver dollars were given Roucher by the deputy, as he expressed it, "just for luck."

ated and taken to St. Joseph's hospital. McCune was arrested on a charge of assault and battery and his case coming to the police court yesterday to Tuesday. TEMPERANCE FORCES JOIN.

Federation and Citizenship League May Co-Operate.

The Christian Temperance Federation of the city will meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building. Among important matters to be considered is the question of assisting the Christian Citizenship league in its fight against the temperance of license. At a meeting of the executive committee of the federation last Friday night, it was decided that a report should be made at tomorrow night's meeting in favor of rendering the league assistance in the fight.

WILL HAVE MORE CARRIERS.

St. Paul's Force to Be Increased Ten Shortly.

The postmaster general has authorized the appointment of four additional carriers at St. Paul on Oct. 1, and six additional carriers on Nov. 1. A Washington special says: Postmaster Smith has also been authorized to look into the question of placing street car letter boxes on the street cars with a view to the more rapid collection of mail.

WHO GETS THE WHEEL?

Portegee as Bail and Legally Goes to the Treasurer.

Duff Hamilton, arrested Thursday night for riding a wheel without having a lighted lamp attached, did not appear in court yesterday. As a result of his non-appearance, the tab showed that his bike, which he had left as bail, had been declared forfeited. Just how the ball in the shape of a bicycle will be turned over to the city treasurer by the clerk of the court is a question. The police say that Hamilton will probably call for his wheel, and if he does, it will be collected before it is delivered.

LET SAMPSKEY GO.

Judge Orr Wouldn't Fine a Man for an Accident.

The case against Joseph Sampskey, who fell over the bluff at South Wabasha and Colorado streets Thursday night and was afterward arrested for drunkenness, came before Judge Orr yesterday. Let all the case go, said the judge, without fine or imprisonment, because he had been punished sufficiently without being fined for the accident, and the court took the same view of the case.

The New England to Go.

Although the New England Furniture & Carpet Company has not yet disposed of its lease, Mr. Harris, president of the company, says, and it is so announced in the New England advertisement of today, on page six, that he has positively decided to close the St. Paul store on Thursday, the 20th inst. It is to be hoped that the mantle of the New England may fall on the shoulders of some one who will continue the same reputable and high grade, as well as aggressive, merchandising methods which have characterized the New England in its four years' direct connection with the housekeepers of St. Paul.

STILLWATER NEWS.

Death of Hon. Edmund G. Batts, One of Stillwater's Oldest Settlers.

Hon. Edmund G. Batts, of this city, who had been ill with consumption for many years, died yesterday morning at the family residence on North Second street. He was surrounded by members of his family when the final summons came, and sank into the arms of his wife. Deceased was an estimable gentleman, and was well known in this community, having lived in Stillwater since 1850. During his long life here he made a host of friends, and although his death was expected, it was keenly felt. He had been a sufferer with consumption for almost twenty years, but during most of the time was able to attend to his business duties. During the past month or two he grew weak rapidly, and on the last day of August was compelled to take to his bed. He realized that he would never again be able to get up, and made final preparations for the end.
