

OF WHAT IS SHE THINKING? Of the husband detained by a business engagement; possibly away. The day's work done; the babies asleep upstairs. A charming home picture, if a bit lone some.

IT IS OUR BUSINESS to supply those comforts and conveniences which help so much towards happy home life. It is yours to do the rest; and, take our word for it, no investment that you can make will yield the same returns of downright satisfaction as the dollars which you put into your home, lightening and brightening the daily drudgery, and educating your children in an atmosphere of appreciation, for are not their surroundings a constant reminder of sacrifice and love?

WE CALL PARTICULAR ATTENTION TO OUR LINE OF COOK STOVES, STEEL RANGES AND HEATING STOVES—practically an entire representation of the product of the three greatest stove foundries in the country—the "Radiant Home," the "Peninsular" and the "Detroit Jewel" lines.

WE WERE THE ORIGINATORS OF THE "MISFIT" (ready-made) CARPET IDEA. We have over 300 to select from, mostly in the finer grades, in ordinary room sizes; many with borders; also as many Ingrain Misfits. Not old styles, or shop-worn in any particular, but the cream of the market, at a saving of about one-half as compared with roll prices. Bring the size of your room.

Latest Regarding Our Discontinuance of Business Sale

WE HAVE POSITIVELY DECIDED TO CLOSE THE DOORS OF OUR ST. PAUL STORE AT 10 P. M. OF THURSDAY, THE 30th INST., the last day of the month, whether we have disposed of our lease by that date or not.

THIS LEAVES JUST FIFTEEN DAYS OF OPPORTUNITY to those who would avail themselves of the radical price-cutting which will prevail before our doors are finally closed.

- IT'S FURNITURE, IT'S BEDDING, IT'S CARPETS, IT'S RUGS, IT'S DRAPERIES, IT'S STOVES, IT'S CROCKERY. IT'S ALSO ALL THOSE INCIDENTAL ITEMS COMPRISED UNDER THE GENERAL TERM, "HOUSEFURNISHINGS."

OUR DISCOUNTS HAVE BEEN STUPENDOUSLY LIBERAL since we first announced our purpose to discontinue our St. Paul store, but they are NOTHING as compared to what we shall offer during the next 15 days.

We have gone over, and for the last time, every identical article in our entire establishment, attaching thereto a price so ATTRACTIVE, SO TEMPTING AS TO ANNIHILATE HESITATION AND COMPEL A PURCHASE.

TERMS—Strictly cash at time of purchase, or one-fourth cash and the balance in three equal monthly payments, secured by contract, without interest. No goods exchanged. No goods sent C. O. D. No freight allowed.

Statement That the Indians Have Not Been Paid Damages Also Incorrect.

F. L. Vance, Deer River, Itasca county, was in the Twin Cities Saturday last enough to tell a reporter for a morning paper that damming on the upper Mississippi is a failure.

There are five dams, says Mr. Powell, two on the Mississippi, and one each on Leach, Sandy and Pine rivers. They are an essential in keeping up the stage of water below them.

The statement that the government has not paid the Indians for all the loss they have suffered from the lowering of the dams, Mr. Powell says, is on a par with the rest of the story.

"In fact," concluded Mr. Powell, "any one who says that the dams are not a good thing or that they work an injury to anybody simply is very badly mistaken."

Union Depot Loop Ordinance Recommended for Passage Again.

The assembly committee on streets held a brief session yesterday afternoon. The only important matter considered was the union depot loop ordinance, which lacked only one vote of the three-fourths vote necessary to pass the measure at the last meeting of the assembly.

There was very little discussion of the ordinance and only two or three interested parties were present. The members of the committee in attendance were Assemblymen Thompson, Kirk, Craig and Reardon. Mr. Kirk moved that the committee recommend the passage of the ordinance. Mr. Craig, who was absent at the last meeting of the assembly, seconded the motion.

J. McCormick, representing the property leased to Foot, Shultz & Co., and the Ryan Drug Co., said that these firms had given notice that if a single track was laid on Third street below Sibley, they would cease to occupy the property at the expiration of their leases.

Mr. Dix expressed his objection to the ordinance, but the other members of the committee favored the measure and recommended its adoption.

The work on the improvement will be commenced next spring.

The dam will cost about $1,000,000 and will not be completed for several years; in fact the present appropriation is only for $100,000. The dam will be sixteen feet high and will be provided with two locks so that vessels can pass up, and there will be a good stage of water for navigation to Minneapolis. The government has now secured all the flowage rights.

Gov. Clough Beset by Hungry Still-water Politicians.

On top of all the new capitol discussion Gov. Clough is beset by still more trouble. Probate Judge Butts, of Washington county, died Saturday, and already there are a number of candidates for his place who are hurrying around for the coveted appointment which the governor will be called upon to make in a very few days. F. T. Wilson, who was very active in the sound money campaign last fall, was one of the candidates, while E. J. Spindler, secretary of the Republican committee, would also like to be installed on the bench. O. E. Lee, another Still-water lawyer, who has never been mentioned, although it may be stated in justice to him that his candidacy is not possessed of some of the elements of unpopularity which have characterized other seekers after the place, in the shadow of the halls of death.

TARPOON IS BLAMED.

Yacht Club Regatta Committee Passes on Claimed Fouls.

The White Bear Yacht club regatta committee, after patient investigation and much consulting of the yachting authorities, has decided the fouls which occurred between the first-class sloops, Akela and Tarpon, in the regular race of July 31.

In the race of July 31, 1897, two fouls occurred between the sloops Akela and Tarpon. A judge reported the first foul to be that of Tarpon, and the Tarpon protested the Akela on the second.

In the first foul the Tarpon, being on the port tack, was clearly in the wrong in endeavoring to cross the bow of the Akela, the latter being on the starboard tack. The Tarpon, without taking on the Akela, sailed past her.

After thus plainly fouling Akela, Tarpon, having lost her sailing rights, should have kept entirely clear of all yachts still in the race.

Although, therefore, unnecessary, the committee considers the second foul in order to establish a ruling upon a vital point of right of way.

The yachts Tarpon and Akela were approaching the Wildwood buoy close hauled, but from different directions and on opposite tacks. The Tarpon on the port and the Akela on the starboard tack. Tarpon was slightly in the lead, and could have rounded the buoy without tacking. When she reached the mark she altered her helm and bore away across the bows of the Akela in order to round the buoy.

The grounds that she had altered her helm for the purpose of rounding, the evidence shows that Akela might have passed clear of Tarpon's stern, but, instead of so doing, luffed and precipitated a foul.

Held that Tarpon on the port tack could not claim the right over a yacht on the starboard tack even at a buoy. That the onus of keeping clear remained entirely with the Tarpon, and that Akela, as on the starboard tack, had a right to luff as she pleased.

The rights of a yacht to a buoy after altering her helm for the purpose of rounding, when on the port tack, are considered secondary to the rights of the starboard tack as possessed by another yacht.

Held that Tarpon, by Charles A. Stickey, and Regatta Lyon, was the Regatta Committee.
