It is a marvel of aesthetic beauty and a sensation in art, according to those who saw it the other evening, and is bound to create more astonishment than any large canvas among the lot brought over in the past ten years. It is unlike any picture hitherto publicly exhibited, and will cause unbounded astonishment at the marvel-ous skill and vigorous imagination of the painter in delineating the beauties of Countess Zichy, who was the model for the work. Almozo will be publicly exhibited for some days at 389 Wabasha street, near Sixth.

Linda O'Malley and Winnie Sexton Are Close to the 200 Mark This Morning.

The school girls' voting contest starts off with a list of 105 contestants. The school girls of St. Paul are taking a deep interest in the voting contest inaugurated by the Globe. first coupon was printed in Wednesday's Globe, and at the end of the first four days, as will be seen by the list below, the votes have been brought in at a lively rate and already the white ballots have accumulated in thousands. It is evident that this will prove to be the most successful and most interesting "election" of this sort ever held in the Northwest.

The people in passing Newspaper Row all pause to look at the dainty, the handsome and the rich presents which will be given the winners. These articles are on exhibition in a window of the Globe counting room, and every one in turning away speaks warmly of the Globe's enterprise in giving the contest, and also speak admiringly of the magnificent rewards for the lucky girls receiving the most

In the contest thus far, three of the girls are very closely matched for first place, Miss Stella Vervais leading with 229, Miss Nellie Ahern with 224, and Miss Francis O'Brien with 200. Miss Linda O'Malley makes a strong showing with 188 to her credit, as does also

Miss Winnie Sexton with 178. It is not yet clearly understood by some, that the coupons will be printed only in the papers delivered to subscribers; they are not in the copies on sale on the street or at the Globe counter, nor are they even in the papers furnished employes. A number of inquiries have been made at the counter for papers in quantities, in or-der to obtain the coupons, hence this

SENSATION IN ART.

'Almozo," the Famous Painting, to

Be Exhibited Here

An arrangement has been elected with Baron Arpad Paszthory, who went through St. Paul last Sunday on his way to the West, to give a public exhibition of his remarkable painting, "Almozo," the story of which has attracted so much attention in this country and in Funne. The painting has try and in Europe. The painting has never before been seen in public, and was never seen at all in the United States until last Tuesday evening, when a number of critics viewed it privately at the Metropolitan hotel. It is a maryel of aesthetic beauty and Need More Teachers.

Two hundred children were in attendance yesterday at the Relief Society Inductial school. The children were gathered from the poor homes of the city and invited to attend this worthy institution. Mrs. T. L. Blood was in charge of the teacher corps. The size of the class, however, proved that there were not sufficient teachers, and volunteers are called for. The class meets every Saturday morning for two hours.

Salvage Corps Election.

The stockholders of the St. Paul board of fire insurance underwriters, which has in charge the salvage corps and fire patrol, held their annual meeting yesterday and elected the following directors: W. G. Strickland, Benjamin F. Knauft, J. Quincy Haas, J. C. Shandrew, H. James Weed, A. W. Perry and John Townsend; president, J. C. Shandrew; vice president, A. W. Perry; secretary and treasurer, W. H. THE RICHEST WOMAN

The richest woman in the United States lives in Texas. She is richer than Hetty Green, and her name is Mrs. Richard King. She is a cattle queen and the owner of the largest ranch in the world. Figures convey but indistinctly the extent of Mrs. King's domain. For instance, unless you are a surveyor, you will probably fail to realize the greatness of her possessions from the simple statement

2,000 square miles of land. It may convey the idea more clearly to say that her ranch is larger than some of the New England states, and that her front gate is thirteen miles from her front door, as the crow flies. She has forty miles of water front, and her barbed wire fences stretch out over 300 miles. She could drive in a 30 Cloths, worth $6.50, $8.00 straight line sixty-five miles without trespassing on the property of her neighbors or leaving her own ranch. This vast estate, over which Mrs. King is absolute monarch, is located in that southern point of Texas which seems to project down into Mexico. Her seacoast lies along Corpus Christi bay. Should Mrs. King ever wish to secede from the Union, she could anchor a big fleet off her possessions. She already has a standing army of 300 cowboys, who are supplied with 1,200 ponies for their sole use. The cowboys, however, are employed in the peaceful pursuit of looking after Mrs.

When she wishes a change, she moves down to Corpus Christi, a city just on the edge of her domains, where she has another palatial residence. She built the branch railroad which has its terminus in Corpus Christi. pus Christi.

Mrs. King is a widow and is now about sixty years of age. She is a daughter of the late Rev. Hiram Chamberlain, a missionary, in estab-lished the first Presbyterian church south of the Rio Grande, and who went there with Bible and staff to preach to there with Bible and staff to preach to the Indians. When a young woman, she met and married Capt. Richard King, who was one of the pioneers of the great Southwest. He was born in 1825 in New York state, and when a boy of ten ran away from home to be-come a sailor. In 1847 he appeared on the Rio Grande as a pilot and later became a boat owner.

Capt. King was an adventurous speculator. He foresaw the possible future of that great country, and, with the profits of his steamboating business, he purchased the Santa Gertrudes ranch, then in itself a vast possession. By shrewd management and daring busi-ness ventures, which turned out successfully, he was able to add to his possessions from time to time until at his death he had acquired a hig slice of this part of the Long Steep. to attract widespread attention to these lines:
