

NORTH STAR SOLDIER BOYS AT CAMP RAMSEY

CLOUGH TURNS A DEAF EAR TO THE PROTESTS OF MILITIA AGAINST NEW REGIMENTS

He Holds to the View That the State Should Have its Own Troops During the Absence of the Old Organizations on the Field of Battle—Field Officers Plead Hard but Vainly to Maintain Identity.

The officers of the national guard are considerably torn up over the action of Gov. Clough yesterday morning in authorizing the formation of a new state guard to take the places of the three regiments who have joined the volunteer army.

After a conference with Adj. Gen. Muehlberg, Gov. Clough decided to authorize the following towns to organize state guard companies: to be known as the First and Second regiments of the Minnesota national guard:

- Morris—One company.
Wilmot—One company.
Winthrop—One company.
Worthington—One company.
Savage—One company.
Owatonna—One company.
West Duluth—One company.
St. Paul—Two companies.
Madison—One company.
Fergus Falls—One company.
Park Rapids—One company.
Brown's Valley—One company.
Mankato—One company.
Pipestone—One company.
Albert Lea—One company.
Winona—One company.
Henson—One company.
Minneapolis—Two companies.

Despite the vigorous protest of nearly every commissioned officer of the national guard, who called upon him in a body headed by the three colonels of the new volunteer regiments, Gov. Clough refused to accede to the requests of the officers in his command.

The militia men holding commissions do not relish the idea of stepping aside when they return to make room for some one who is appointed in their stead while they are away fighting for the honor of the nation.

Most of the officers who have been commissioned as field and line officers in the volunteer army have spent years in the state guard, and feel that they are being unjustly treated by having their places usurped while away on duty.

The officers all held that they were still members of the national guard, and should be granted a leave of absence while away.

Gov. Clough looked at the matter in another light. He thought the state should have a national guard at all times, as there was no telling how long the volunteer army might be gone. Besides, in recognizing the guard he intended to give the districts a better representation than had enjoyed heretofore. The two largest cities of the state would be given two companies each.

The delegation met with Gov. Clough shortly after 9 o'clock. After the usual greetings had gone through with Col. Bobleter made known the object of their visit. He suggested that additional regiments might be organized to the satisfaction of all concerned if they could be called the Fourth and Fifth Minnesota regiments of the N. G. S. M.

Owing to the state laws, which provided for only three regiments of the national guard, it would be impossible, Gov. Clough said.

Maj. Mead thought it possible that a number of men who had been fired out of the guard could be organized in while they were gone and greatly detract from the efficiency and discipline of the guard.

Gov. Clough did not see how this could be possible, as Gen. Muehlberg would not restate any man with a bad record.

The governor thought that the state had plenty of good men who would at once take hold of the guard and maintain its present high standard. Any way, he did not think that all the volunteers would want to enlist upon their return from Cuba.

Maj. Bean took a bright side of the question, and said that he thought all officers of the guard expected to secure their old positions back upon their return. Whatever was done, they would go to the front and take their chances upon their return.

Col. Reeve suggested that future legislatures might increase the state guard, so as to be able to meet any emergency. Many states which were smaller in size and population than Minnesota had five and six regiments, and he thought they could safely take their chances upon getting back into the guard on their return, as old members would undoubtedly be given a preference.

The other officers present were thoroughly out of accord with the action and views of Gov. Clough, and, although everything was lovely on the surface, it was plain to see that the governor's position in the matter was a decidedly unpopular one, at least with the officers of the guard.

Gov. Clough told the officers in so many words, if any of them wanted to remain at home, they could do so, as he could easily fill their places with volunteers.

Gov. Clough remained firm and declined to change his position in the matter.

CAPT. SWIGERT IS THE MAN HE IS ASSIGNED TO MUSTER IN MINNESOTA TROOPS

Lieut. Harry Leonhauser is Named Quartermaster and Commissary for the Minnesota Troops—Farbault and Winona Want New Companies Sent on the Second Call—Young Soldiers Promoted.

The first of the Minnesota troops will probably be mustered in tomorrow. Gov. Clough received advices from the war department yesterday that Capt. Swigert, of Lexington, Ky., had been detailed to muster in the Minnesota troops, and would arrive in St. Paul today.

The same message brought the information that Lieut. Harry Leonhauser, of Minneapolis, had been appointed quartermaster and commissary of the Minnesota regiments. Acting in pursuance to a telegram received that he had so far secured six full companies for his Minnesota Bucktail regiment.

Lieut. Rice, who is the hero of many battles and skirmishes in the Civil war, is meeting with great success than his fondest hopes led him to hope for in organizing the fastest regiment of Minnesota hunters, trappers, "sharp" shooters.

The following is the distribution of the companies which have been raised and the names of the party who secured the company: James Collins, Pine City, full company. Rev. W. T. Scott, Paula, full company. A. T. Archer, Kerkhoven, Minn., full company. Ralph Whitney, Stewartville, full company. J. S. Pardee, Duluth, Minn.

One full company raised in response to call for recruits published in Sunday's Globe. In addition to these Lieut. Rice has a company of thirty-five men raised who want to enlist in the cavalry service, inasmuch as a full company has not been secured. Lieut. Rice thinks he can secure a large portion of them for his infantry companies.

He has carried on a brisk correspondence since Gov. Clough authorized him to organize a regiment, and has several towns on the string where companies have been organized as reserve companies in case a second call is received. Gov. Clough assured Lieut. Rice recently that he should have one of the first chances to go to war if a second call was received.

Lieut. Rice intends to make his regiment a regiment of "Bluebeards," armed to the teeth. Only men of large stature and physical strength are taken, and one of the requisites in addition to the physical condition of the applicant is a glowing record of some kind, whether it be as a soldier on the frontier, Indian fighter or trapper.

A large number of the members of the company which has been raised by Lieut. Rice himself, through correspondence, are from the western border. A goodly number come from the northern part of the state, and some from Montana, the Dakotas, and several from the prairie of Michigan.

With Winchester and Colt's revolvers they intend upon the second call of the president to invade Cuba, destroy the ramparts and forts of Moro Castle, and give the cigarette don't care a scare that he will not even wait for his trunk before getting out of Cuba. They will carry the cry, "Remember the Maine," through the devastated sugarcane fields of Cuba and obliterate the last vestige of the Buns, not even leaving a grease spot.

Lieut. Rice's regiment will be able to do all that is claimed for it may be well to judge from the personal appearance of Lieut. Rice himself and the character of the men he has enlisted. Seated in the hold of the Golden Rule department store he over-see the mechanical end of the large establishment, with an eye tested by the long vigils of four years' campaigning in the south. A formidable moustache of drooping and bushy proportions characterizes his personal appearance. His regiment, which was the received late in the afternoon requesting the appointment of two civilian physicians to act with Maj. Harvey in the physical examination of the Minnesota volunteers. Gov. Clough appointed Dr. C. M. Simpson, of Minneapolis, and Dr. H. W. Davis, of St. Paul.

This completes the list of government officials necessary to make soldiers out of the 3,000 or more volunteers now at Camp Ramsey.

From the advices from Washington it has been learned that an order will be issued early next week instructing all muster officers and the examining boards of the several states to push the work of mustering in the volunteers with as much dispatch as possible.

Lieut. Col. McCoy, who was originally assigned by the government to muster in the troops, still remains on duty at the headquarters, but just now, as Capt. Swigert arrives he will join his regiment.

In speaking of the matter, Col. McCoy stated that he was happy to be relieved of the task, as he was anxious to join his regiment.

The men at the camp are anxious to go to the front, and every day of waiting seems like a year to them. Col. McCoy, who is considered one of the best informed men in the regular army on the handling of soldiers, said that this was the best time of the year to try men for the service, as the spring rains gave them a taste of what actual camp life in the army would be. Every day in camp at Camp Ramsey made them better soldiers.

Gov. Clough's part of the preparations for war is nearly over. Just as soon as the men are mustered in the service of the United States his authority as commander-in-chief of the military forces ceases. The new guard to be organized, however, will come under his command.

Aside from the order appointing the muster officer and examining board no further action was received from Washington by Gov. Clough yesterday.

There was the usual number of callers at the governor's office yesterday. Capt. Hart, of Winona, and Senator Stockton, of Faribault, both called in the interest of securing assignments of new national guard companies for their towns.

Gov. Clough yesterday commissioned A. A. Caswell and Irving R. Southard, as first and second lieutenants respectively, in Capt. Patterson's company, of Princeton, Minn. John Donaldson also received an appointment as second lieutenant in Company F, First regiment, to succeed M. D. Garcelon, who was made battalion adjutant.

Dr. Coon yesterday resigned as second assistant surgeon in the First regiment, and Dr. W. H. Rowe was appointed to fill the vacancy. Dr. Rowe's position as assistant surgeon in the Third regiment, was filled by Dr. C. H. Johnson, of Austin, who was commissioned yesterday.

Gov. Clough also appointed the line officers in Capt. Chase's company, of Blue Earth City. H. C. Zingheim was made first lieutenant, and W. J. Taylor second lieutenant.

Adj. Gen. Muehlberg was advised yesterday, by the war department, that flags would be furnished the Minnesota troops as soon as they were mustered into service.

Their places were filled on Friday by Gov. Clough.

Turnverein Made Merry. The West side Turnverein last night celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their organization with a gymnastic entertainment and ball, at Martin's hall. The weather did not seem in anyway to interfere, as the affair was very largely attended.

The athletic programme consisted of twelve numbers, principal among which was the dumb bell exercise performed by eight young ladies, which was well done.

Other features of the programme were wrestling matches, the first between Alex. Black and Alexander Herous. It was a spirited contest, while it lasted, and was won by Herous. The second was between Jos. Groh and Herous, which was very good, and after dancing followed the programme.

Horse Unseated a Hostler. Loren Henry, a hostler in the employ of Barrett & Zimmerman, the Midway horse dealers, unseated a broken leg yesterday afternoon while riding a fractious horse. The animal reared and fell, fracturing the leg leg below the knee.

The injured man was removed to the Transit hotel, where he was attended by Dr. Cobb.

TAMPA TROOPS DELAYED. Only the Tenth as Yet Sent Away From Mobile.

MOBILE, Ala., April 30.—There was nothing but routine in camp near Mobile today, except a division review by Gen. Coppinger, the division being commanded by Col. Simon Snyder, of the Nineteenth.

Great delay was experienced in getting the troops off for Tampa owing to the extraordinary demand for cars on the Louisville & Nashville road, which was called on to transport troops from Mobile and New Orleans, and at the same time to prepare to transport the Third regiment of state troops from Birmingham to Mobile on Sunday.

The agent said he could have met the demand had he had twenty-four hours' notice. In consequence only the Tenth got off on time. The Twenty-second bivouacked for the night and had a disagreeable time of it, many of them having been soaked by the rain of the preceding afternoon. They left in good spirits, however, and fully prepared for the war.

"MARCHING THROUGH CUBA." Although the boys in camp are very busy getting settled, still they have time to vent their enthusiasm in poetry. The following is from the pen of John B. Peviers Jr., and is to be sung to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia."

Over a hundred strong— Sing it with the spirit that Will move the world along. While we go marching through Cuba.

Chorus— Hurrah! Hurrah! We bring the jubilee! Hurrah! Hurrah! Poor Cuba shall be free! And so we'll sing the chorus From the Gulf across the sea.

And so we'll make a thoroughfare For Freedom and her train; One hundred miles in latitude, The Spaniards flee before us.

For rest and a new life we'll be granted, While we go marching through Cuba.
