

SUNDAY, JUNE 5

NEW YORK, June 5, 1898.—Rear Admiral Henry Erben, U. S. N., is in command of the mosquito fleet which is today mobilized for patrol duty in New York harbor and Long Island sound.

It's the little things that count in clothing. Little niceties of cut, finish and fit that mark the difference between cheap clothing and such elegant tailor-made suits as are found at The Boston.

Handsomer examples of high art tailoring, $10.00 and more. Young men's pure worsted suits, $5.00 and more.

Boys' suits, as finely made as the men's, $2.50 and more.

Bowley & Co. Boston Sixth and Robert.

Exclusive Agents for Knox Hats.

CAN RAISE THE BATTALION

ENOUGH IRISH AMERICANS READY TO TAKE UP ARMS

Another Meeting Held to Further the Suggestion of Forming an Organization—Will Gov. Clough Accept the Services of a Company or Regiment Is the Question—General Discussion of the Subject.

It is extremely probable that Gov. Clough will be obliged, during the coming week, to take his base in the matter of military politics.

The opportunity will be presented to him about Thursday of retaining to accept the services of at least a company, and possibly a battalion, of men who will be ready to volunteer their services for the defense of the country.

The proposition will hardly be made to the governor for it would take a large number of very necessary appointments out of his hands.

It remains to be seen whether he will have the nerve to turn down a request that will be proffered by a number of the most prominent citizens of this town.

The decision was made at a meeting held last evening in Oxford hall and will be attended by a number of the members of the Irish-American company that will be enrolled next Wednesday evening at the same place.

A meeting of last night had existed a civil organization of the proposed company, but this was altered to a committee.

Next Wednesday evening the committee will meet together to elect a preliminary to the beginning of business.

Last night's meeting was called to order by M. J. Costello, who presided. There was a considerable gathering of the man who are to offer their services to the country, but who prefer to be organized as a company that they will be certain of forming.

The Irish-American company, which is now being organized, is a company of men who are to be organized as a company.

In calling the meeting to order, Mr. Costello called attention to the necessity for prompt action on the part of the members in completing the organization.

"There is a difference of opinion as to whether we should go through with this movement at once and there is no further need for discussing the preliminaries," they have been discussing so far as need be, and when we meet again it must be with the direct idea of making the military organization complete and commencing the work of drilling.

There are now 110 men who have signed an intention of joining the company, and this number is a full company, in spite of any objections for physical causes, but leaves a nucleus for the rest of the battalion that will be formed later.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

It is not a time for dilatory movement. We must act with that promptitude that characterized our compatriots before in time raised the patriotic Irish-American company.

The next meeting the members may come with the expectation that they will begin the work of equipping themselves for life in the army. It is likely that St. Paul will be appointed one company in the forthcoming militia.

pointed now, though it could not perhaps go to the governor until after the company has been organized and the necessary orders issued.

The committee which will probably select will have the power to call a regular meeting of the company. I would suggest that such a meeting be appointed by the chair."

The chairman announced that he had selected the members of the committee, and a battalion, as directed at the last meeting. The committee will be regarded as a permanent institution, at least until the battalion has been raised or there is no further call for troops. The committee appointed consists of:

Hon. J. W. Willis, Col. T. J. Sheehan, Dr. J. J. O'Connell, Wm. D. O'Brien, John J. Field, J. J. McCafferty and Frank H. Grant.

The committee was thought best to increase the number of members on the committee from five to nine.

A question arose as to what could be done with regard to the arming of the company with guns. Said Judge Willis: "After the boys have gone into the school of military instruction, we will have to provide them with arms. Now, can we borrow the necessary arms from the 'Liberalists'?"

A member wanted to know whether the Irish Rifles still had an existence, and the chairman explained that they still existed in fact, though they were not very active. A member of the Rifles said that there would be no difficulty about getting the guns.

At the course of an informal talk that followed, it was said that a good many members of the new organization were already members of the Irish Rifles, and that nearly all of the members of that body would join the new company or battalion. It was also stated, with the assent of the committee, in case a battalion was formed the Irish Rifles would volunteer as a body.

The chairman announced that if there was no further business he would adjourn the meeting and the preliminary organization would cease to exist. He did so adjourn.

It was said after the meeting that the drilling of the new company would probably develop in the national guard. It was formerly a member of the Seventh Illinois regiment, and Judge Willis, who has a good deal of experience in the national guard, said that among the 140 men who have signed the rolls a considerable majority have had military experience, and it is anticipated that the company will be ready for service in a very short time after it is formed.

WILL WASTE NO TIME. Regular Army Recruits Are Hurried to Chickamauga.

A squad of twenty-five recruits for the Third regiment of the regular army, under the command of Lieut. J. H. Miller, of the Milwaukee road. Of the number, fifteen were from the recruiting office in the Phoenix building in this city, and the others from the branch office in Minneapolis.

The party was in charge of David H. Squires, one of the Minneapolis recruits. Squires was formerly a member of Company E, Third infantry, and retired from the service three years ago. Recently he re-enlisted. The recruits will arrive in Chicago this morning and will, after half an hour's layover in that city, leave for Fort McPherson, Ga., where they will be uniformed and equipped. They then forward to join the regiment.

Regular recruits sent from St. Paul last evening were:

Louis Halpin, St. Paul.

William J. Halpin, Minn.

Archie B. Cree, St. Paul.

Ole Eyer, Redwood Falls, Minn.

Edward J. Halpin, Minn.

Walter F. Omand, Minneapolis.

Joseph Kiefer, Minneapolis.

John J. Halpin, Minn.

Frank P. Hart, Clendora, Wis.

Charles G. Schuring, Minneapolis.

George W. Brush, St. Paul.

LOG OF U. S. S. MAYFLOWER

SIX DAYS ON THE SAUCY DISPATCH BOAT

Harry Sabine, the St. Paul man, tells of the Daily Routine—Fleet Gets Together and Runs to Matanzas Without Catching Sight of the Spaniard—Life on Commodore Schley's Flag Ship Brooklyn.

Harry Sabine, the St. Paul man who recently enlisted in the navy and was assigned to the United States steamship Mayflower, finds time to keep up a lively correspondence with his friends in St. Paul. The Globe printed one of his letters Wednesday morning. B. H. Waters, of 383 St. Peter street, received another letter from Sabine and with it was the following written for The Globe. Sabine calls it the log of the Mayflower.

On Board U. S. S. Mayflower, of Havana, May 21.—Same old song, blockading, working the blockade, and getting the word. Dead pig and beans getting monotonous. Am made caterer of the mess, and I am of the opinion our mess is likewise blockaded. Nothing seems to come into it.

May 22.—New York and Havana show up. Blow out flag on water field. Half a day spent repairing it. Mantonian shows up. Blanco has put the light house. "All's quiet along Havana tonight."

May 23.—Formed battle formation. New York Indiana, Mayflower, Wickesburg, Wilmington, Newport, Erieless leave for parts unknown. We are now moving steadily to the eastward. Hottel and Heenan and the rest gone to the northward. Wonder where they are off to. Mail for Mayflower. New Orleans.

The chairman announced that if there was no further business he would adjourn the meeting and the preliminary organization would cease to exist. He did so adjourn.

It was said after the meeting that the drilling of the new company would probably develop in the national guard. It was formerly a member of the Seventh Illinois regiment, and Judge Willis, who has a good deal of experience in the national guard, said that among the 140 men who have signed the rolls a considerable majority have had military experience, and it is anticipated that the company will be ready for service in a very short time after it is formed.

WILL WASTE NO TIME. Regular Army Recruits Are Hurried to Chickamauga.

A squad of twenty-five recruits for the Third regiment of the regular army, under the command of Lieut. J. H. Miller, of the Milwaukee road. Of the number, fifteen were from the recruiting office in the Phoenix building in this city, and the others from the branch office in Minneapolis.

The party was in charge of David H. Squires, one of the Minneapolis recruits. Squires was formerly a member of Company E, Third infantry, and retired from the service three years ago. Recently he re-enlisted. The recruits will arrive in Chicago this morning and will, after half an hour's layover in that city, leave for Fort McPherson, Ga., where they will be uniformed and equipped. They then forward to join the regiment.

Regular recruits sent from St. Paul last evening were:

Louis Halpin, St. Paul.

William J. Halpin, Minn.

Archie B. Cree, St. Paul.

Ole Eyer, Redwood Falls, Minn.

Edward J. Halpin, Minn.

Walter F. Omand, Minneapolis.

Joseph Kiefer, Minneapolis.

John J. Halpin, Minn.

Frank P. Hart, Clendora, Wis.

Charles G. Schuring, Minneapolis.

George W. Brush, St. Paul.

George W. Brush, St. Paul.