Staff Correspondence The St. Paul Globe. CAMP MERRITT, San Francisco, June 7, 1898.—It was not without feelings of envy that the members of the Thirteenth regiment witnessed the departure for St. Paul of the three officers and twelve men detailed to return and recruit the regiment to its full war strength. Not that they were anxious to get back home rather than go to Manfla, but they haturally felt a longing to see their native place again before leaving the Golden Gate. When the order came from Washington to send recruiting officers to Minnesota, there was considerable speculation as to who would be detailed. Maj. Ed S. Bean could have been one of the officers, but he said he feared the regiment would leave Camp Merritt before he would return to it and he did not want to be left behind, otherwise he would have been very glad of such a commission. Maj. Frederick was then selected, and he consented to go, though he said he disliked to fileers and the regiment just as he was getting his battalion into first-class shape.

Special to The St. Paul Globe. CAMP THOMAS, Chickamauga, Ga., 13.—The Minnesota troops are ikely to smell powder in a very short ime, for the news comes from supposedly authentic sources that the entire First army corps has been ordered to prepare to leave immediately. Gen. Brooke has received instructions to rush the equipment of the First army

It is said here that the First corps will leave for Porto Rico within ten days. Both the Twelfth and Fourteenth Minneseta regiments are included in the

The case of David Kemp, of Company A, Fourteenth, who was tried by court martial for being asleep at his post, has been completed, and is now before the reviewing officer. While inembers of the court are sworn not to disclose anything in connection with the finding and sentence until the iatter is formally approved and published, it is rumored that every member of the court signed a petition recommending elemency, and it is now thought that the sentence will be an extremely light clemency, and it is now thought that the sentence will be an extremely light one.

Mrs. J. M. Lichtenburger, representative of the St. Paul and Minneapolis Red Cross societies, visited the camp today and was the guest of Dr. Cole, of the Fourteenth. Mrs. Lichtenburger took dinner with Company L. She gave out the following letter to A. S. Talmadge, of St. Paul, and Dr. McDonald, of Minneapolis:

I have visited the Fourteenth regiment today under the sanction of Dr. Cole and from him received the following list of articles needed in the hopital: A large amount of malted milk, evaporated cream, a small amount of brandy and port and sherry wines, fruit juices, Whitman's chocolate, Phillips' digestible cocca, rags, soft towels, Leibig's beef extract, Curtis' soup, consomme and bouillon, small granite drinking cups, spoons, knives, forks, slippers, stockings, light wool underwear, cracked wheat, oatmeal flakes, six pillows, six rubber pillows with colored cases, ginger and Jamaica ginger. Money is also needed to purchase ice and milk. Ice will cost $2 and milk $1 per day. The health of the men is excellent, and everything possible for their comfort is being done.

The regimental hospital is now in charge of Lieut. Rowe, Twelfth regi-ment, Capt. W. H. Caine having been advanced to the divisional hospital. The action of the commanding officer in giving Dr. Rowe charge of the regimental hospital is looked upon as a great compliment to the doctor, and officers and men alike rejoice at the advancement of both him and Dr.

Caine.

The men of the Twelfth Minnesota and the South Carolina regiments are becoming very "chummy." The action of the Minnesota officers in dining the officers of the South Carolina troops when they arrived at Camp Thomas, tired and worn out after a long trip, has been appreciated by the troops from the Southern state, and since then a friendship has sprung up between the troops and the southern states and since the southern states are the southern states.

then a friendship has sprung up between the two regiments which will be remembered with pleasure by all of the boys in years to come.

A general inspection of all volunteer infantry at this camp is taking place, in accordance with an order published by Gen. Brooke. The work is being vigorously pushed by three inspectors of the United States army. There are forty-three regiments in the field, and from this it may be seen that it will be about ten days before the inspection will be completed.

RED CROSS IN CAMP.

Supplies to Be Sent South to Soldiers at Once.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Preparations are being made by the Red Cross authorities to send supplies at once to the three army camps—Camp Thomas, Camp Alger and the one at Tampa. The committee having the matter in charge has been waiting until the appointments of the three assistant field appointments of the three assistant field agents were made before sending off the supplies, and as these have been made it is probable that the work of distribution will be begun within a week or two.

The starf of the Red Cross hospital selected Dr. E. Winfield Egan, of Boston, to represent the Red Cross at Camp Thomas; Dr. Charles Gill, of Brooklyn, and a recent recruit to the Red Cross hospital, to take charge of the work at Camp Alger, and B. H. Warner to go to Tampa. These will be all known as assistant field agents, and it will be their duty to distribute the supplies, which will be shipped immediately. The surgeons in the different camps, when in need of anything for the sick are instructed to make requisition on the field agents. All three of the assistant field agents were ordered to leave for their respective stations within twenty-four hours.

The trial has now taken the form of an obstructor of public business, for it is known that there will be a great number of jurymen examined, and the consequence is that all of the jury cases in other courts have been postponed until sometaing definite is done in this one case. It was intimated yesterday by a court filelal that there would probably be an extra venire off-durymen issued for the purpose of expenditing-business.

Suspected That She Intended to Take a Shot at Edward Slocum, Whom She Accused of Slander-Charge Failed, and It Was Feared She Intended Taking the Law in Her Own Hands.

Mrs. Addie C. Moore, living at 1212 Hennepin avenue, Minneapolis, created a lively scene about the court house yesterday noon. She had a revolver concealed about her person, and it was concealed about her person, and it was thought she intended to shoot Edwin Slocum, a Minneapolis law student whose arrest she caused on the charge of slander, and who was discharged by Judge Hine.

the county jail to stand trial today on the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The trouble Mrs. Moore and young Slocum grows out of an allegation on the part of the woman that the young man slandered her. She had Slocum arrested in Minneapolis, where, on a hearing of the case, he was discharged. The alleged slander is said to have been uttered in this city at the state capitol, where Slocum took an examination for admission to the bar, and Mrs. Moore immediately had him arrested here. The trial was set for yesterday, and, after hearing the testimony in the case, Judge Hine discharged Slocum on the ground that what he had said of the woman was in the nature of a privileged communication to refute charges which she had made against the young man.

This action highly displeased Mrs. Moore, and, when her attorney, E. J. Darragh, and Prosecutor Hall refused to address the court upon what she considered an unfair ruling, the woman jumped to her feet and vigorously denounced Slocum, the lawyers in the case and a number of prominent Mill City individuals, clalming that undue influence was directed in Slocum's behalf.

When court adjourned, the woman remained about the room, pressing into the group where stood Slocum and several friends. Her manner was suspicious, and Slocum's attorney advised him to leave the room. The attorney informed Bailiff McMahon, Mrs. Moore had in the meantime gone out of the court room, and it was several minutes before she was located on the first floor of the court house. McMahon caught up with her, and, diving his hand into her dress pocket, found her grasping the revolver, which was loaded and cocked. The weapon was a new affair of blue steel. During the excitement, Slocum disappeared.

Mrs. Moore will be given a hearing in the police court today.
