Fortune smiled while nature frowned on the St. Paul Base Ball club at Lexngton park yesterday afternoon. When after a hard up-hill game, the Saints at last got a lead of one run n the Columbians, the clouds which had been overhanging for hours massed right over the diamond, and it was so dark that Umpire Sheridan could not fast ball that Denzer was see the fast ball that Denzer was pitching.

The Columbians chafed a little under this manifest dispensation of a benign divinity, and were wont to suggest that the umpire had been hypnotized, but before they could pile their traps into the bus they were overtaken by a coud burst, which made the boulevard from the main gate down resemble their beloved Scioto, and drove them into shelter forthwith.

other in the midnight gloom that overhung the eighth inning.
Denzer and Wolters were the opposing pitchers, and the visitors batted Roger around with a familiarity that signified the utmost contempt. Wolters on the other hand, was not pounded until he was black in the face, but he had other symptoms of defeat about him when the rain drops fell.

It was a sharp, snappy game till the seventh. The weather was hot and the players had no stiff joints.

Spics' foul off Wolters' stick, Geier's catch on Butler, and Glenalvin's throw of Frank's sharp grounder that nearly cut Denzer's leg off, sent Columbus out in order.

Burke and Miller failed to explore further than the infield, and Glenalvin gave Knoll a fly.

Miller had taken Tebeau's fly, and Gillen had thrown Genins out, when Hulen and Knoll entered a pair of base hits to Denzer's discredit, and Roger drew a black mark through the account by a base on balls for Buckley, which Glenalvin a mild tonic, and Denzer was pulled out of a bad hole, even thus early.

Glasscock's fly to Butler was the sold beyond the bases.

Wolverton opened the third with a sharp one to Shugart. The latter fielded it cleanly and threw, promptly to Glasscock, but Sheridan declared the third baseman safe.

The throw was long one but the decision was close Roger gave Butler a base. Frank sac-rificed. Tebeau put a nice drive through the strip of sand that Shugart usually paws up, but Shugart was not there just then. It scored two runs, and the next two were retired on outfield flies, Geler making a particularly sensational one-handed catch on Hu-

Three Apostles failed to teach the ball any foreign geography, the base lines being an Ultima Thule. Columbus did no better in the fourth. After Wolters threw Burke out, Miller made the Saints' first hit, a fine line drive down the left foul line, but Glenaivin forced him out, and Glass-cock gave Wolverton a pop-up. Wolverton gave Gillen a fly, and Butler gave Geier a long one. Shugart threw out Frank. Geier put a ground-er through Genin's section, but threw it away on a trial to steal. Shugart flew to Knoll, after which Gillen's two-bagger down the left foul line was wasted, Wolverton throwing Spies out.

Geler made a nice run under Tebeau's fly in the sixth, and Genins beat a bunt. Hulen and Knoll, however, flew out. Genins had thrown out two at first, when Miller was presented with a base by Wolters, and stole second. He scored on Glenaivin's single to right field, before Glasscock gave Tebeau a field, before Glasscock gave Tebeau a Buckley flew to Shugart, and Wolters to Gillen. But Wolverton put a single through Shugart, and Butler sent one over his head. Frank hit to left for two bases, but sharp fielding kept the score down to one. Tebeau struck out.

It was the lucky seventh for St. Paul beyond a peradventure. Geier opened with a line drive over second base. Shugart hit to Wolverton and was thrown out, although it looked to many as though Tebeau did not have his foot on the base when Shugart landed or at any time immediately previous thereto. Wolters walked Gillen, and Spies was hit in the upper arm. That filled the sacks. Denzer ferced the catcher out at second, but one run came in and Roger beat a double play. Then Burke bunted, and his daring was rewarded by Wolters' rattled play. One more run there and that tied the score, and Wolters gave Miller another base, filling the sacks again. Glenalvin had a chance to make it a cinch, but a foul fly to Tebeau ended an inning, which, long as it was, Wolters had tried to prolong in the hope of getting the rain to come.

Shugart caught Genins' fly, and Glenalvin went under Hulen's. Knoll put a good hit back of short, but was left on the sack when Sples caught Buckley's high foul.

alvin went under Hulen's. Knoll put a good hit back of short, but was left on the sack when Sples caught Buckley's high foul.

It seemed pretty dark to play ball then, but Glasscock distinguished remote objects sufficiently to bat one of Wolters' best clear into center field. Geler popped a foul to Buckley, but Shugart seemed to like the semi-twilight and poked a hard one into right field. Almost any old thing would score Glasscock from third then, and it came soon in the shape of a passed ball by Buckley on a fast inshoot across Gillen's collar. Hulen threw out the next two, but Jack would have scored without the battery error.

It was so dark then that Tebeau sought to bamboczle Denzer by putting Sullivan in to bat for Wolters, but it was of no avail. Sully only gave Sples a pop-up. The first ball that Denzer pitched to Wolverton came so near tearing a button off Sheridan's vest that he decided that it was too dark to play.

And the clouds broke before the crowd could get out of the stand. The score:

These Will Be the Pitchers in Today's Contest.

The St. Paul and Columbus clubs will play the St. Patal and Columbus crims will play the third of their present series of four games this afternoon at Lexington park, game being called at 3:30 p. m.

Fricken will be in the box for the locals, while Friend, formerly of Chicago, will do the twirling for Columbus.

Geier promises to come up to the front of the bunch in batting yet. That catch on Hulen in the fourth, too, was a "wehm baby" in the expressive parlance of the bleachers.

Tebeau put out nearly two-thirds of the ocals at first base.

If there were more dark days they might improve the batting of Glasscock and Shugart. The last inning seemed to suit them exactly. Roger Denzer's luck has changed.

It is evident that Loftus has accumulated something of a galaxy of hitters.

The fair sex turned out in large numbers, but many of the women hurried home when the clouds promised disaster to their finery.

Miss Juliette Atkinson Retains the Championship and the Wissahickon Special Cup by Defeating Plucky Miss Marion Jones. Daughter of the Well Known Nevada Senator-Other Winners.

PHILADELPHIA, June 17. - Miss Juliette Atkinson, of the Ladies' club, of the Staten Island Athletic club, this afternoon again won the lawn tennis championship of the United States by defeating Miss Marion Jones, of the Southern California Lawn Tennis asso-ciation, and daughter of United States Senator Jones, of Nevada. This is the third time Miss Atkinson has won the lawn tennis championship. has won the lawn tennis championship. The Wissahickon special cup now becomes her personal property. The cup has been in dispute for twelve years. The match today was one of the most exciting ever seen here. It took five sets to decide it. The contestants were very evenly matched, but experience and endurance told. Miss Atkinson was much the stronger at the end of the third set and played faster. Both played a good game throughout. Miss Jones' defeat is largely due to physical weakness after the second set.

In the first set Miss Atkinson was an easy winner, but the second one was full of brilliant playing, Miss Jones winning by seven games to five.

full of brilliant playing, Miss Jones winning by seven games to five.

The third set was very fast, and the pace began to tell open the stocky little girl from the West. Miss Atkinson's score was five games to one for Miss Jones, when the latter took a brace and scored three in succession. The champion, however, beat her out by some beautifully played strokes.

Miss Jones started out with a rush in the fourth set and in a short time had five games to her credit before Miss Atkinson won any. There was nothing particularly prilliant in this set and Miss Jones won it easily.

The final set was the longest of all. Five times during this set Miss Jones was only one point from the match was only one point from the match and the championship, but Miss Atkin-son tied her and beat her out each time. FAST WORK.

In the ninth game of the set a brilliant rally took place, which was spoiled by the ball in play hitting a ball in Miss Jones corner. In that game Miss Jones needed but one point to win, and her supporters groaned as the chance faded away. The score stood four games to three in favor of Miss Jones. Miss Atkinson then won the next four games and the match by fast playing. Miss C. B. Neeley, of Chicago, and E. P. Fischer, of New York, won the national championship in the mixed doubles by clever work. Their oppgnents were Miss Helen Chapman and J. B. Hill, of Philadelphia. The championship match in ladies' doubles between Misses Kathleen and Juliette Atkinson and Miss Neeley and Miss Wimer will be played tomorrow. her supporters groaned as the chanc
