EUSTIS WAS THE WINNER

MINNEAPOLIS ORATOR NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR

VAN SANT-CLOUGH COMBINATION WAS ROUTED

SECOND BALLOT GAVE WILLIAM HENRY THE NEEDED VOTES

L. A. Smith, of Chippewa County, is Chosen for Lieutenant Governor—Other State Officers Are Renominated Except Attorney General Childs and the Justices of the Supreme Court—Convention Was an Enthusiastic One, Although Some Embitterment Was Manifested.

GOVERNOR—W. H. Eustis, Hennepin. Lt. Gov.—L. A. Smith, Chippewa. Sec. of State—Albert Berg, Chicago. Treasurer—A. T. Koerner, Meeker. Atty. Gen.—W. B. Douglas, Clay. Clerk Sup.—C. D. F. Reese, Ramsey. Justices of the Supreme Court—C. L. Brown, of Stevens. J. A. Lovely, of Freeman. C. L. Lewis, of St. Louis.

The white-winged dove of peace that is supposed to hover over Republican conventions has been traded for a bull dog and the dog presented to the local Republican organization.

William Henry Eustis was nominated for governor on the second ballot after a fight that was bitter to the finish and the Republican machine will be moved to Minneapolis for the right before last, that he was the Hobson of the party in the state, Minneapolis was the Merrimac that had been used to cork up the machine, and that if he won out, Minneapolis would reap the benefit.

The convention was very well attended. The candidates had seen to it that all of the delegates were out and when Chairman Eli Warner called the convention to order shortly after 11 o'clock the Auditorium was packed.

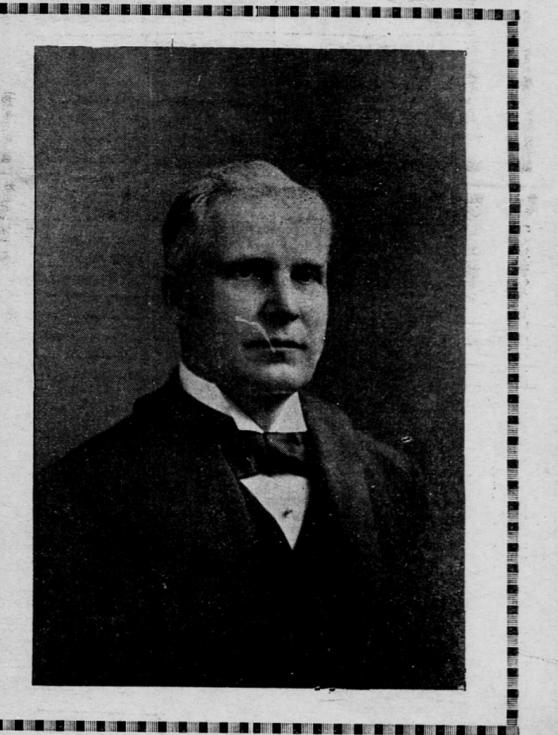

There were actually 1,178 delegates in attendance out of a possible 1,180. They filled all of the lower floor and overflowed up to the sides of the building.

The platform was crowded and among the guests there was a sprinkling of ladies, all of them very much interested and nearly all of them ready to "root" for William Henry.

The convention was typically Republican. There was a good deal of talk about the old flag, on the supposition that the flag was discovered by and appropriated to the Republican party; there was the usual disposition to point with pride and to wave the bloody shirt a bit when occasion offered.

The Republican idea of practical politics in convention, consisting largely in the proper degree of frothing, was put into practice and Eustis was really elected on a stampede that was brought about by the display that the Eustis party made of the points they won. Every time, in the balloting that Eustis gained a vote the Hennepin county crowd got up on chairs and waved flags. They made such a brave showing that the Van Sant crowd were scared out before they were really beaten.

INTERESTING CONTESTS. The contest that lent interest to the convention, aside from the governorship, were those on secretary of state and attorney general. Mr. Berg came very near losing his grip on the nomination after going along the line in the absolute assurance that he would win in a walk. Eustis and his following did not play quite fair in the matter, it was claimed. They took up Sam

WILLIAM HENRY EUSTIS, Republican Nominee for Governor.
