

BLUES BRAND THE PENNANT

They Earned the Right Yesterday to Stamp the Western League Flag of 1893 With the Words "Kansas City."

MAKE A GREAT FINISH IN A GREAT CONTEST

Over 8,000 Cheering Missourians See Their Idols Take the Pennant in a Game Which Abounds in Pretty Work.

On the last day of the season, in the last game, in the last hour before sunset, in the last inning but one, the Kansas City team won the Western League pennant for 1893 from Indianapolis. This is the remarkable finish of the most remarkable contest in the history of the organization, in which five different clubs have had the lead at some time. St. Paul was one of the first clubs to show in front, and left home for its first trip through the East with a record of nineteen games won and four lost. Indianapolis next poked its nose in front and held the lead until the morning of the 4th of July, when Columbus got into first place, only to have St. Paul push into the van again that afternoon. The Saints kept the place for nearly a week, surrendering it again to Indianapolis. The Hoosiers, playing at home, then settled down to fast work and increased their lead little by little until it amounted to five and one-half games before the team left for its second trip through the West. It was pulled down a little by both St. Joseph and Kansas City, but did better in Minneapolis. It came to St. Paul 4 1/2 games in the lead, but the Saints took them into camp three times, bringing their lead down to 1 1/2 games over St. Paul. It was during this series that the great game of the season, that of fourteen innings, was played, in which young Geier won the victory by making a wonderful one-hand catch. Just at this juncture St. Paul was overtaken by a canteen of cold water or some other liquid, Minneapolis beat the team three straight and Kansas City bobbed up as pacemaker, increasing its lead day by day until it seemed to have a clinch on the pennant. Then the Missourians started for their last Eastern trip, losing two out of three at both Indianapolis and Columbus and three straight at Milwaukee. Soon again the Indians were ahead of the bunch, and then Milwaukee, a new candidate, which, during the early days of May had been galloping along in last place, took up the running and led for several days. At this juncture the clouds arose for the Brewers, and by losing two at Detroit, three at Indianapolis, one each at St. Paul and Minneapolis and three at Kansas City, they dropped with such a thud to third place that they came pretty near knocking St. Paul out of fourth. The Brewers out of the way, it was a see-saw from day to day between Kansas City and Indianapolis, first one leading and then the other, with the final result as given above.

The victory—by a margin which amounts in figures to only about one-fifth of a game—is a popular one throughout the league, of course, barring Indianapolis. Manager Manning's team—composed largely of youngsters new to the Kansas City grounds and public—did not shrink its duty on any occasion, met its opponents firmly and fairly, played every game in the schedule, and carries away the flag without a taint upon its triumph. Here's to Mr. Manning and the best base ball team in the Western League.

OVATION TO MANNING.

The Manager Carried Around on the Shoulders of Admirers—Gear and Campau Remembered.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—(Special.)—The last game of the Western League season, and the one which gave the pennant to Kansas City, was one of the most exciting ever played on a ball field in this city. The attendance, which was nearly nine thousand, was greater than at any game prior to the one which was played between the same two teams on Sunday, and when the game was over and the crowd knew that the Blues had won the championship, there was the wildest excitement. Campau, who made the catch which ended the game with two men on bases, was lifted to the shoulders of a band of enthusiastic rooters and carried from the field. Another party secured Manager Manning and did the same with him, while Gear, who has the honor of winning the two games from Indianapolis which gave the pennant to Kansas City, was given a great ovation. Gear pitched steady ball, but Phillips, who won from the Blues yesterday, and who thought he could do so again, was hit very hard and gave way to Scott in the sixth. The home run made by Gus Klopff, the shortstop whom Manning secured from Richmond, Va., was the hit which won the game. In the ninth inning Hogreiver, who was running to second, hit Klopff in the eye to prevent him from completing a double play. The members of his own team congratulated him in the strongest terms, and Hogreiver left the grounds under police protection.

In the second inning Flynn started with a three-bagger and was brought in by Allen, who followed with a two-base hit. Campau caught a ball from Hickey, holding Allen at second, but Phillips soon sent a single to center that scored Allen.

In the third Slagle earned a great cheer for a fine catch of McFarland's long drive to right center. The Blues' lead was 1-0. In the fourth, Wilson scored for the Blues, leading off with a single, going to second on McVicker's lead and being brought in on Klopff's single to left. The tying of the score fairly set the crowd wild, over 8,000 people rising en masse and shrieking like mad.

In the fifth, Slagle, Frisbee and Campau scored for the Blues. Slagle started out with a single, Frisbee and Campau made doubles, and Slagle made a star catch of Phillips' fly.

In the sixth, Stewart on second and McFarland at third were brought home for Indianapolis by a double hit by Allen. In the eighth, after two strikes had been called on Klopff, he hit to center field. It proved a home run, as Fleming let it get past him in his effort to get it on the fly, and Klopff made the circuit of the bases.

With one out in the ninth inning, Allen hit a ball down the first-base line that was good for three bases. It began to look equally well when Hogreiver came up. Gear was a bit shaky and hit Hogreiver, Fleming hit to Viox, who threw to Klopff, putting out Hogreiver. Klopff had time for a double play, but Hogreiver held his arm up, and Empire Sheridan would not allow Fleming out at first for interference. There was five minutes' wrangling over Sheridan's decision. When play was resumed Scott was on third and Fleming at first, with one run needed to tie the score. When Hogreiver ran into Klopff he damaged the shortstop's eye and O'Hagan had to go to the hospital. Campau saved the day by catching McFarland's fly to right. The moment Campau caught the final ball, which meant the championship for the Blues, men seemed to spring from the ground like so many ants. They swarmed over the ground and carried around the field. He was presented with an enormous bunch of roses. The score in detail:

DETROIT LOST IN THE NINTH

Up to That Time the Tigers Were in the Lead, but the Locals Rallied in Batting and Won Out by the Close Margin of One Run

—National League Games and Base Ball Notes of Interest.

Yesterday's contest at Lexington Park, the final contest of a waning season, between two clubs which could not either of them effect the standing of the other materially, should be a standing rebuke to those captious, carping critics who insist that professional base ball is regulated by the financial exigencies of the management.

In spite of the fact that the game was apparently a perfunctory fulfillment of the schedule, as far as any hope of profits in income was concerned, both teams played hard and fast, and the home team won by a pretty batting rally in the ninth, pulling victory from the very grasp of defeat.

The Tigers were in better form than in their crippled condition, and they had had a little opportunity to recuperate. Briggs, too, was in the box, and "Buttons" pitched a creditable game for eight innings, although he did find himself a little outclassed in the final inning.

Cross was in the box for the locals, and he, too, had one bad inning, but in his case it was the sixth. It was so bad, too, that it looked as though the Tigers might get a game, and go away with a bone in their teeth, so to speak, but they could not save it.

Sharratt opened the last game of the season with a clean single back of Shugart, but Glenalvin threw out Stallings, and Dillard and Dungan batted the ball right at Isbell, so no Tiger crossed the rubber.

Eddie Burke got a base on balls, and by a pretty slide beat a double on Geier's grounder to Dungan. Glenalvin, too, gave Dungan a sharp one, and was thrown out, but Isbell put a hot one at Clancy, and scored Burke before Shugart popped a high one for the Irish shortstop.

Ganzel and Buelow sent Burke flies, and Clancy popped Glenalvin an easy one. Glenalvin hit to Ganzel and went out, but Preston was given a base, and went to second on Ritter's out, Dungan to Ganzel. Preston was caught between his second and third on a good throw by Buelow to Ritter, who fired him through out Beam, and Shugart disposed of Briggs and Sharratt, the last named on a fine throw from well back in the grass.

Cross opened for St. Paul with a safe single, and Sammy Dungan deserves some gratitude from Burke for letting him reach first. Geier fouled to Ganzel, but Glenalvin sent a lucky one bounding high over Clancy's head. Glen was forced out at second by Isbell, but Burke scored, stealing in when Isbell made a point to take second. There was little excuse for the Tigers losing

AMATEUR BASE BALL

The Boston took a well played game from the Crusaders Sunday morning at Aurora Park. Score, 12 to 12. Morning pitched a clever game for the Boston, and the batting of Weller, Dolan and Fitzgerald was a feature.

AURELIA GETS THE TROPHY.

DEFEATED AKELA TWICE OUT OF THE THREE ATTEMPTS

Sailed in a Spanking Breeze and Beat Her Rival With Minutes to Spare—Her Owners Pleased.

The last of the postponed yacht races was sailed off yesterday afternoon at White Bear between the two fast 22-foot yachts, Aurelia and Akela, resulting in a splendid victory for the former. Dr. MacLaren's fast yacht, The Don, which sailed at 1:15, was the only one to wind blew a fifteen-knot gale all afternoon and the entire race was sailed by both boats with two reefs, and was exciting from start to finish, because of the dangerous proportions of the sea.

The rest of the postponed races were sailed off yesterday afternoon at White Bear between the two fast 22-foot yachts, Aurelia and Akela, resulting in a splendid victory for the former. Dr. MacLaren's fast yacht, The Don, which sailed at 1:15, was the only one to wind blew a fifteen-knot gale all afternoon and the entire race was sailed by both boats with two reefs, and was exciting from start to finish, because of the dangerous proportions of the sea.

The ownership for this season of the Inland Lake trophy, Akela had one leg to her credit and Aurelia's victory Saturday afternoon also gave her one race. The series history the best two out of three, Aurelia's victory yesterday gave her the cup.

The race was over the eight-knot course and was sailed by Aurelia in one hour and twenty minutes, winning over Akela by two minutes and forty-five seconds. This is a very wide margin between these two boats and the result occasioned considerable surprise, as it was generally thought that Akela was much the faster boat in a fifteen-knot breeze.

When Akela was selected to represent the club at the Inland Lake race at White Bear, Dr. MacLaren's yacht was expressed as being acknowledged to be the faster boat in a light breeze. "But," he said, "I was sure of her ability to hold her own with her rival, Hoodlum. In yesterday's race she, however, was the victor, and will stay here on the second day of the regatta, when Akela defeated the fast Boston boat.

There was another race at the lake yesterday, as contests for the various cups and trophies have been completed in all the classes.

The past season at White Bear has been somewhat uninteresting, on account of the lack of yachtsmen, on account of the lack of wind during the early part of the season. Other than the regatta, however, several new boats were built this year, and several hundred trophies in two classes in the Inland Lake trophy, and will stay here on a combination of unfortunate circumstances the club would have run away from the entire field.

ST. PAUL HALFBACK.

Joined the Harvard Football Team in Practice at Soldiers' Field

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 20.—The second day's practice of Harvard on Soldiers' field was marked by no specially new developments. For the first time, morning practice was held, and it served as a tonic for the hard work of the afternoon, but as the drill in football, the candidates who joined the squad for the first time were G. M. Swain and J. M. Williams. The morning practice was quite short, and included the usual passing of the ball, and the catching of the ball. After a half hour of this, the whole squad was led on a run along the new Charles River parkway on the Cambridge bank of the river. In the afternoon Capt. Dibblee was joined by Head Coach W. Cameron and Dr. P. M. Williams, who is supervising the men. The heavy dumbbell drill was dispensed with and all the time, except that devoted to running, was spent upon the real football work.

FIRST PRACTICE GAME.

College and Varsity Eleven Meet on Yale Field.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 20.—The first practice game in which the college and varsity eleven strove to score was played this afternoon on the Yale field. It was a short practice with the eleven back to back, ten minutes. The playing was hard and fast, but very loose. Capt. Chamberlain got into the game himself, and coached the men from his position at right end, as he is still without the aid of a coach. Harmon Graves, formerly of Harvard, and who will come to New Haven tomorrow, will stay here until Frank Butterworth arrives. Butterworth will be here on Saturday, and on Saturday will go with the team to the Trinity game.

Almost Entire Face a Solid Sore Tried Everything for Weeks But Kept Spreading Until Thought There Was No Cure. Tried Ointment. In Few Days Better. In Short Time Cured. Our little girl's hipnot commenced with a tiny sore on one nostril, but it kept on spreading till we thought she would never get it cured. For several weeks we tried everything we could get for the sore, both external and internally, but it kept getting larger all the time, till both nostrils, the upper lip, a part of the lower lip, and up one side to the eye, were a solid sore. We thought that was the cure, and that the whole was disfigured for life. After Shugart threw out Buelow, starting the fifth, Detroit's first run had its inception in Clancy's grounder over short. Beam fouled to Ritter but Glenalvin let Briggs' line fly get away from him and the pair worked the double steal successfully ere Sharratt was thrown out to Ritter.

Burke flew to Dillard and Clancy threw Geier out. Glenalvin beat a punt, but Isbell flew to Beam. Shugart fouled to Dillard, but Clancy put a hard drive out through third base and Preston was given another base by Briggs. Ritter's grounder, a vigorous drive over second base, scored Clancy and put the locals in a good place to win, but Cross
