NEW CHIEF'S POLICY

MAJ. SCHAEFFER RETICENT IN DISCUSSING AFFAIRS OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT

WANTS TIME TO GET SETTLED

After He Has Been Able to Get His Hearings and Has Had a Talk With the Mayor-Elect He May Have Something Interesting to Say—The News of the Flour City.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 25.—Major Charles M. Schaeffer, who is to be superintendent of the police on the new regime, was seen at his residence to-night and asked concerning his policy.

"I think Mayor Gray does not like the word 'policy,'" he said, "and I have none for myself."

"It is proposed to make some changes in the force," he was asked. "I have not had a full conference with Mr. Gray as to administration matters and cannot say as to that. I really have nothing to say at present that would be of interest to the public, because I have had no time to discuss matters with the mayor-elect since he notified me Sunday that he had been selected."

Asked if he had selected a secretary, he said: "I think that office will be abolished, and that the telephone bureau will be developed on the secretary to the superintendent of police."

The coming superintendent said that Monday he would take office at the Hotel Nicolet, where he will remain for several days and see callers between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. He expects a great many calls and has determined to open an office at the downtown hotel named, so as to prevent his family at home being annoyed.

He said that his wish will be to have the police force in good working order and to keep the standard up to that of the present, at least. He considers his first duty to be to get acquainted with the operations of the department, and it will require time for him to become well enough acquainted with affairs to make any proposals. It should be determined later that such action may be necessary for the good of the service.

"Perhaps I shall have something to say on the subject of administering the police department within a few days," he said, "but I am not well informed just yet to say what will be done with the force as directed into the office of superintendent."

SILAS DALRYMPLE DEAD.

One of the Family Interested in the Famous Farm.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 25.—Silas A. Dalrymple, of the famous Dalrymple family, died at his home, 224 Grand avenue, Saturday.

Mr. Dalrymple was one of three brothers that secured 30,000 acres of land in North Dakota, when the state was first being settled. The brothers were enterprising, and over 10,000 acres of the farm into stock making it the most successful of its kind in the world. The farm is still being maintained in the best of order, considerable of it having been sold out in small parcels.

Mr. Dalrymple was a prominent Knight of Pythias, and under the auspices of this order the funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. Dalrymple at 224 Grand avenue. Services will be held at Lakewood cemetery, and members of the order are requested to be present.

Clerk Assailed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 25.—Theodore N. Larson, employed by the Creore & Nickerson company, 16-18 Fourth street, south, was the victim of a robbery Saturday night.

Two Small Blazes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 25.—In trying to throw an champagne lamp out of the window tonight a colored man, living in the second story of 105 Washington avenue south, set fire to the room. The contents were well damaged, although no one was hurt.

MINNEAPOLIS BREVITIES.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 25.—John Cream, forty-seven years of age, died today at the city hospital. He was a victim of pneumonia.

Edward Dickens and James Hills, switchmen at the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad are still in the hospital. Both men were injured several days ago.

Col. George C. Rogers, secretary of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, returned this morning from Washington, D. C., where

MILLIONAIRE IN JAIL

FORMER NEW YORKER DOES BUSINESS AND KEEPS HOUSE IN PRISON

POWER OF TEXAS DEFIED

Queer Story of Mr. Tinsley, Who Refuses to Obey the Order of the Courts of the Largest State in the Union—The Amount Involved Is Small—A Cemetery Is Involved.

From the New York Herald.

Think of the great commonwealth of Texas being held up by six feet of clay, named Thomas E. Tinsley! He defies the power of the largest state in the Union to make him show his books to the courts. It is all about a cemetery, and the amount involved is so small as to make it seem ridiculous. For a millionaire to spend his life in jail on account of it. For the point of this story is that Tinsley could be released in an hour if he would show his books. But he won't.

Tinsley is a millionaire. He was formerly a New York business man, and is claimed that he is a miser of the first order. He has a Philadelphia lawyer.

Years ago he heard that one could get "twice his money" in Texas. He looked at Florida and Lake Erie would barely reach Texas Texas the longest way. And it was true. The state is large, and England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, with the Isle of Man thrown in. All this magnitude, the vast stretches of prairie and upward, the undeveloped resources, the lovely climate and howling cry for capital were a dynamo magnet to Tinsley.

He could not resist the attraction. He looked at Texas with a hundred per cent investments, Tinsley set sail for the flourishing city of Houston. On his arrival he heard that the municipal bonds of Houston could be bought at low figures.

As a result, he bought $100,000 worth at a nominal price, and later forced a settlement. He had a large amount of gold and silver, and he had a large amount of land. He had a large amount of land, and he had a large amount of land.

But nothing so completely captivated his fancy as an offer of stock in a cemetery. It was a "big concern." There was hardly an hour when the cemetery bell was not tolling. The best dressed doctors and the highest priced drug stores did not seem to turn the death toll in the cemetery. Every day funeral clamoring for admission at the big gates made the scene like a busy afternoon in Leadville.

As Judge Tinsley is said to be a miser, it was so healthy down there that the undertakers had to shoot a man to start a graveyard. But time brought the cemetery to a standstill. The undertakers had to shoot a man to start a graveyard. But time brought the cemetery to a standstill.

So Millionaire Tinsley justified in preparing for old age and leaving his family well provided for. He bought a controlling interest in the Houston cemetery. It is the largest in the state. For years it has been run on an old-fashioned cheap basis. The annual payment of $5 by each lot holder enabled the cemetery to keep its accounts in apple pie order, the walks beautifully graveled, the weeds exterminated, lovely flowers of every kind and color, and an inviting retreat for the living as well as the dead blooming in clusters and tiers, with proper shade trees, cypress, magnolia and other trees to make it the bon ton funeral resort of the great Southwest.

Millionaire Tinsley took a Russell Sage view of the situation. With a sort of Delaware & Lackawanna eye to economy, he discharged most of the laborers and installed his own personal representative as superintendent and manager of the enterprise. With a keener railroad instinct he cut off the water which was used on the flowers and the lawns, and turned it loose on the stock. The price of the cemetery stock rose 200 per cent. He allowed the drive-ways to become ragged with weeds and briars; the little rustic bridges were permitted to decay; the ornate carriages could no longer cross the ravines which so picturesquely diversified the landscape features of the cemetery.

This miserly, stock jobbing pinching of the miser that had been laying the golden egg increased the stockholders. They clamored for a return to the old days. Neither appeared. Tinsley, it is alleged, claimed that the lot owners were delinquents, so he put on the screws and the owners who had been not there for his health.

The bustling city of Houston arose in its wrath. The meanness of the millionaire who had built up a fortune in the state, when boys shouted a name similar to Tinsley dogs responded, and nothing too mean could be said against the millionaire.

Public indignation finally culminated in mass meetings. Resolutions were passed and petitions sent to Tinsley, protesting against his mercenary insults to the cemetery and the rights of the dead. But the Texas people received no response to their protests.

Exasperated to desperation, the lot owners with some of the minority stockholders, then applied to Judge Sam H. Brasher, of the circuit bench, for a receivership. The judge appointed Capt. William Conroy receiver, and ordered Tinsley to turn over to him all the books and documents of the property. Tinsley's answer was immediate refusal. He refused to appear in court and show cause why he should not turn over the books of the corporation. Again the millionaire was stubborn, and he was fined $100 and sent to jail until he should purge himself of contempt. The grim prison, the stony countenance of the keeper, the babel of prisoners, who made a noisy and blasphemous with their blasphemy, had no effect on the delicately reared New York millionaire. He took to jail life as a young dandy in the city of New York. He was a second edition of that other millionaire, White, who recently languished in our Brooklyn jail, with which he was connected through the courts when ordered to produce his books in the case wherein he had been appointed administrator, but did not "deliver the goods" or render an accounting.

The Texas miser was equally contemptuous, stubborn and unyielding. As soon as he had eaten his first meal of Mexican fare, he sued out a writ of habeas corpus. The case was referred to the court of appeals and the imprisonment sustained. What did the care for Southwestern law while he had enough money to reach to sink a Rio Grande ferryboat? He carried the case to the supreme court of the state, but though again his larks did not fly, and the appeal was dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

Still he again tightened his cinch, took it up another row of holes, and applied for a writ of habeas corpus for release on the ground that he was a citizen of Texas, but a resident of New York.

Beaten again was the verdict. However, the millionaire secured the lawyers busy. He appealed to the United States supreme court, the highest tribunal under McKinley, yet still again the case went to the supreme court.

This was in the autumn of 1897. For once he threw his ducats around freely, giving "tips" to the jailer and experts, sending messenger boys for lawyers and keeping the jail warm twenty-four hours a day with his law business. And this was not all. He managed to get his writing table and enough paraphernalia to run his affairs as completely as if he were at home beside his big office safe.

Another interesting feature of this extraordinary case is the ingenious way Tinsley has harassed the officers of the law, at every turn. He has saved money by going to jail in the shape of office rent, fuel, clerk hire, insurance, gas and other incidentals. He is allowed to furnish his cell with chairs and table, and he contracts with a business and holds intercourse with his public as if he were in a $10,000 set of business parlors on the main street.

AMERICA'S TALLEST CHIMNEY. Stack 353 Feet High Just Completed in New York City.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The tallest chimney in America, most of which is 353 feet in height, has just been completed for the new power house of the Metropolitan Street railway. This gigantic chimney is fifty-seven feet in diameter at the base, and tapers to five feet five inches in diameter at the top, which flares outward from the top, which is 4,000 feet high. To build it required the use of 4,000 tons of iron and steel, and a wall four feet high and nineteen miles long. If the chimney extended along the ground instead of up into the air a load of hay or the largest band wagon that ever led a circus parade could be driven through it easily. The object of this sky-scraping smokestack is to carry the smoke from the great furnaces which will be driven steam to drive the machinery of the power house, which is being built on the site of the old power house. The air height of the chimney is 353 feet. The air height of the chimney is 353 feet. The air height of the chimney is 353 feet.

The chimney weighs over 3,000 tons, or more than the battleship. To support this immense weight 1,300 forty-foot wooden piles were driven into the ground as close as possible to the chimney. The foundations rest, so that the total height of the smokestack, counting the distance its supports extend into the earth, is almost 400 feet.

One curious fact about the great smokestack is that it is the only part of the new power house that is not yet completed. The big building, which covers more than an acre of ground, will be built on the site of the old power house, which was nearly a city block. The chimney is not yet entirely completed. The top of the chimney is not yet entirely completed. The top of the chimney is not yet entirely completed.

When it is completed the iron ladder will support a platform which will be the top for any repairs that may be needed.
