YEAR WARM AND DRY

SUCH WERE THE LOCAL CONDI-TIONS FOR THE YEAR

VARIATION

VERY

Atmospheric Conditions Were Ve. Near the Normal, and Taken A in All the Minnesota Had Litt Cause for Complaint - Rainfo for the Twelve Months Was 25

P. F. Lyons, in charge of the local weather burçau, has gone over the fig-weather burçau, has gone over the figures for the year 1898 and finds that it was slightly warmer and dryer than usual. Mr. Lyons says:

During the year 1898, for St. Paul and vicinity, the weather, according to the records of the United States weather bureau, was about 2 degrees warmer than average, and somewhat dryer than usual; otherwise the conditions were about normal.

The average annual temperature for St. Paul, determined from the last twenty-eight years' record, is 43.5 degrees, giving an excess of about 2 degrees. The highest temperature was 25 degrees, registered both on Aug. 22 and Sept. 2, and the lowest was 19 degrees below zero, registered Dec. 31. There were 149 days that the temperature fell to or below freezing (32 degrees), and 73 days during which it remained below freezing point at all times, both day and night.

The average precipitation, deduced from the last twenty-eight years' record, is 27.47 inches; the total fall for the year 1898 was 25.24 inches, showing a deficiency of 2.13 inches. There were 119 clear, 145 partly cloudy and 101 cloudy days, and 39 days on which of an inch of precipitation fell; snow amounting to .01 of an inch or more fell on 38 days, and the total, if unmelted, would make a depth of 45.8 inches; the average cloudines, on a scale of 0 to 10, was 5.2.

The mean barometer corrected to sea level was 30.00 inches, that is, about normal. Total wind movement, 66,475 miles; it blew oftener from the northwest than from any other point; the highest velocity was northwest, 36 miles an hour, recorded June 25 and Nov. 22.

The last indication of a spring frest was noted April 19; light frost was noted Sept. 6, but the first killing frost was noted Sept. 6, but the first killing frost was noted sept. 6, but the first killing frost was noted april 19; light frost was noted sept. 6, but the first killing frost was noted april 19; light frost was noted sept. 6, but the first killing frost of autumn did not occur until Oct. 6, leaving an interval of five and one-half months that

There were twenty-five thunder storms, and three auroral displays, and ten days with light to dense fog, lasting from one to four hours; hail of a very light character fell only once during the year.

The stage of water in the Mississippi river was moderate, but there was sufficient for "beating" throughout the season; the gauge readings ranged between a maximum of 10.7 feet, registered June 8, and a minimum of 10.7 feet, registered Sept. 3.

The range of temperature for the year observed locally was 114 degrees Fahrenheit, or from 95 in August and September to 19 below in December, last Saturday to be exact, Mr. Lyons shows the temperature by months as fellows: There were twenty-five thunder storms, and aree auroral displays, and ten days with

WANT LAWS AMENDED

THE LEGISLATURE FOR PROTECTION

ALL DEBTS MUST BE PAID

Merchants Complain That Under the Present Laws Homesteaders and Officeholders Suit Themselves About Paying Bills-A Change Necessary-The Globe Gives the Prospectus of the Association.

Nearly one hundred business men of the state will participate in the convention of the Minnesota Business Men's association, which is to be held Men's association, which is to be held at the rooms of the chamber of commerce, Jan. 5, and its deliberations premise to be very important to the business interests of the state. Secretary J. H. Tenvoorde has been busy all the week making arrangements for the convention and he is confident that it will accomplish something in the way of legislation this session. The association wants the exemption law so amended that homesteaders will be obliged to pay their debts or lose their homesteads, and they want also to have a law passed enabling them to recover debts contracted by state and cover debts contracted by state and municipal officeholders. They also want the Massachusetts law for the protection of creditors adopted by the state of Minnesota, or at least a law similar to it.

state of Minnesota, or at least a law similar to it.

Mr. Tenvoorde yesterday sent out the following circular to business men throughout the state arouse their interest in the association and its work:

MAKING IT STRONG.

Mr. Merchant, are you satisfied to do business under a law that enables a man to accumulate property. To live in nositive lux-life, get in line and give us a neiping hand to secure a reasonable ammedment to remedy this.

Are you perfectly willing to permit your dishonest competitor to use the rublic prints to deceive your patrons with consequent loss of trade to you, by dishonest and misleading advertisements? It may be you are not interested in an effort to stop this by making such conduct a misdemeanor in law, as it already is in fact; but if you are, get in touch with the Minnesota Business Men's association, headquarters, room 2. Merchants' hotel, St Paul, Minn., and help them in their undertaking, for a reform in any general law is a gigantic task and can be done only by a concerted effort from all sections of the state.

We need your help, for in helping this work you are most decidedly helping yourselves. Let us hear from you promotly, remembering that "united we stand, divided we fail."

Mr. Merchant, are you satisfied to do business under a law that enables a man to accumulate property, to live in positive luxury, to fill his house with the choicest the market affords, to clothe himself with the finest of clothing, to walk to your place of business day after day and snap his fingers at you if he wishes to do so, when you present your bills for the merchandise that keeps life within him, clothes him, warms him and even amuses him?

If you are, all right; but if not, take your place with Minnesota's best business and professforal men and inerst upon a revision of the present exemption laws.

Are you content to elect men to office, pay them, clothe them, feed them, warm them, and say to them: Pay me if you wish, but if you do not I cannot compel you to-for that is what the statutes say today, and under our present laws no employe of the state or any municipality can be garnished?

If you are, well and good, if not, join forces with us and help us to pass a law to put the politician on a par with the rest of humanity, as far as debt-paying goes.

Are you willing that a man should carn $25 a week before he pays his grocer, his butcher, his clothier, his coal man, or his doctor, unleas he is konest and willing to do so?

That's the way it's done at present, and if this suits you, don't lift a hand; but if, on the contrary, you believe that so long as a man is carning anything at all he should be compelled to pay at least a fair share of it to the man who supplies the necessaries of ite, get in line and give us a helping hand to secure a reasonable ameadment to remedy this.
