GETTING INCORPORATED. We have remarked upon the anti-trust spasms with which our esteemed neighbor down the street has become so suddenly and so severely afflicted.

And he does this by precisely the methods of every technician, alert to take advantage of every technicality, to obstruct the presentation of evidence, to cast suspicion upon the motives of the prosecution and to make it appear that he is the innocent victim of partisan and malicious persecution.

of an individual member of the party or organization, no matter how prominent he may be, when that misconduct can have no relation to public office.

Every disappointed politician of Democratic antecedents from ex-Judge Joseph F. Daly to Bourke Cockran, has been invoked by the managers of the political circus to throw discredit on Croker, and, accordingly, on the organization with which he is identified in the public mind.

Five stenographers are required to answer Mark Hanna's daily mail. It would no doubt take five more if Mr. Hanna answered all the letters, pertinent and impertinent, that are sent to him.

A fashionable Louisville church has decided to expel distillers from its membership. The interesting question is how the makers of Bourbon were ever admitted to membership.

Hannis Taylor is showing symptoms of another outburst of talk. A committee should be sent to Mr. Taylor to tell him the rest of the country hasn't time.

President McKinley is going into the Montana mining country in July. It looks as if he were going to study the money question from the base up.

The hoop-iron and cotton-tie interests of this country are to be consolidated with a capital of $3,000,000. There's a wrought iron trust for you.

Gen. Miles has become a devotee of golf. It might be an advantage to substitute the golf club for the musket in the army.

Freeport, Ill., ought to take something for its morals. Mormons are down there making a house-to-house canvass for converts.

Gen. Shafter looks like a man who would not appear to a more delicate organism.

SMART STORIES. Gen. Butler was one of a commission to examine young applicants for admission to the bar, and before him came a young fellow who failed miserably on all that pertained to the law.

ST. PAUL HAS A LIBRARY GOTTEN TOGETHER BY PHYSICIANS. MEDICAL REFERENCE BOOKS. The Idea of Such a Library Was Born Only a Little More Than a Year Ago, but Already It Has Grown to Admirable Proportions and Is Proving a Great Benefit.

Much interest has been centered in the expansion and development of the public library of St. Paul. The efforts have been made toward the accomplishment of that purpose. St. Paul people realize the worth and necessity of education and at all times have evidenced their appreciation of the fact that a well equipped circulating library is one of the most fundamental educational influences of the present age.

Under such circumstances it is really surprising how much support and encouragement may be expected for a similar institution as soon as its respective aims and merits and the benefits to be derived therefrom are plainly elucidated and clearly understood by the people of the Northwest.

Very few persons beyond those directly interested are aware that St. Paul possesses any other libraries than those which have for so many years been numbered among the city's valued possessions.

It did not arrive with any blare of trumpet or flourish of brass that the immortal "Topsy" it "never was born," but "grew up" silently and quietly amid the labyrinth of medical literature.

LACK OF REFERENCE BOOKS. For years and years medical men have deplored the great lack of scientific and reference books in the public libraries and as a result in many large cities an independent medical library is maintained expressly for the convenience and instruction of the local physicians.

LIBRARIES ARE COMBINED. Everyone who has ever visited the library of a physician will be struck by the fact that the shelves are crowded with books of all kinds.

THE EDITOR MAN. The editor sat in his well worn chair, his head bowed low on his breast, his eyes fixed on the floor.

Fire Traps in City. Greater than the danger from fire in places of public resort is the danger to the small lodging houses and overcrowded apartments and tenements.

Wearily Willie's Friend. Tramps have found a friend in John J. Lens, of Chonewach chapel, a former associate judge of Adams county.

The Best to Be Had. Detroit Journal. According to the testimony of Gen. Shafter, the Spanish troops got the best in the country, which was malaria and yellow fever.
