

HERO OF THE HOUR

HOW MAJ. MARCHAND WAS LIONIZED UPON HIS ARRIVAL IN THE FRENCH CAPITAL

CHEERED BY THE MULTITUDE

MADE THE GUEST OF HONOR BY THE LEADING OFFICIALS OF THE GOVERNMENT

SOME DRAMATIC INCIDENTS

Crowds cheered Marchand's Admiration to Be United—Demonstrations Growing Out of the Excitement Due to the Marchand Incident Suppressed by the Police.

PARIS, June 1.—Marchand is here. There is great enthusiasm, but no noisy demonstrations. A few flags have been unfurled in his honor. Every one he sees is favorably impressed by him. He arrived in Paris at 10 o'clock this morning and has been on the move ever since. He attended the state luncheon at the ministry of marine, where he received a gold medal and a sword of honor. The Nile was prominently symbolized, too, on the sword handle, by a crocodile and a palm tree. The company at luncheon was chiefly officials. Many admirals, generals and other military commanders attended, and they were in full dress uniform. Marchand, as the chief guest, took Mme. Lockroy, the wife of the marine minister, in to the banquet room. The gracious and still most attractive daughter-in-law of Victor Hugo wore a heliotrope satin gown, shot with green. Her daughter, now Mme. Hugo-Charcot, was in a light blue flowered collar with a sash of Venice gypure.

MARCHAND'S CLEVER PLEA.

At luncheon Marchand pleaded with Mme. Lockroy for his Sengalese sharpshooters to have an opportunity to visit Paris. He told her that the prospect was their great incentive to exertion in the march across Africa. Whenever their courage flagged, Marchand cried to them: "Another strong effort to make sure of seeing Paris."

This electrified them. They are now all at Toulon, and he told Mme. Lockroy that he strongly felt his promise should be kept, and that their deep disappointment prevented his enjoying himself.

Mme. Lockroy repeated what he said, talking across the table to her husband, and all the company sympathized with the explorer. It is now settled that his brave blacks are to come to Paris.

The set out of the table at luncheon was original, charming and poetic. The floral decorations were entirely of wild flowers, blue, red and white. Mme. Lockroy thought Marchand and his companions would prefer the long sojourn in Africa, the flora of the French woods and wilds to any other. Did they not also better symbolize a democratic army than any other flowers? Another consideration was that they are less stinging. Wild roses and grasses lent grace to the floral harmony.

Marchand looks a hero after Victor Hugo's heart, thoughtful, modest, without bashfulness. He might almost be an American, so strong an impression does he give of unaffected stolidity and dauntless firmness. His face is deeply lined and careworn, but the sweetness of his countenance is infectious. French gentleness itself when the lines relax into a smile.

WHAT MARCHAND DID.

After a tour of the ministries, Maj. Marchand reached the military club. The space in front of the building has been cleared by the police, and the explorer's arrival was the signal for an outburst of cheering. There were immense crowds in the neighborhood. American correspondents were filled with spectators and the roofs were covered with people. Maj. Marchand and Capt. Barretier appeared on the balcony of the military club, and the demonstrations continued to a late hour in the evening, the crowd parading and shouting the now familiar cries and singing the Marseillaise.

A royalist band, carrying a flag, was dispersed by the police; and an attempt to create a union in the name of De Rouldeau was quickly drowned by cheers for Marchand and the army.

DRAMATIC SCENE.

A dramatic scene occurred at the military club in the course of the evening. Maj. Marchand, in response to loud cheering, appeared upon the balcony with the minister of marine, M. Lockroy, and the minister of war, M. Kraatz, on either side of him and shouted, "Be united. Vive la France, vive la republique." The throngs were wild with excitement. The chamber of deputies this evening adopted a resolution of thanks to Maj. Marchand for his services in Africa, and to Gen. Gallieni for his brilliant administration in Madagascar. The resolution was proposed by M. Albert Joseph Walter, revolutionary socialist, deputy for St. Dennis, who was vigorously applauded.

The military club's reception to the members of the mission was a very brilliant affair. Gen. Zurlinden, military governor of Paris, other officers of high rank and the ministers were present. Speeches were made by M. Lockroy and Gen. Zurlinden, who paid eloquent tributes to the work of the expedition.

Maj. Marchand, after a brief expression of thanks, made a tour of the rooms, shaking hands with those present, while the band played martial music.

The demonstration in the Place de l'Opera was not surpassed by anything of the kind during the Boulanger agitation. Fully 100,000 people congregated there, and when the military band returned from Versailles and was obliged to run into the excited crowd it had a narrow escape, and was saluted by hostile cries. The people made an angry rush for the vehicle, but the police executed their energetic charges and enabled the passengers to alight safely.

HELPED CAPTURE JEFF DAVIS.

One of the Few Survivors of the Nineteenth Michigan Cavalry Dead.

NILES, Mich., June 1.—John Vantuyt, one of the seven surviving members of the company of the Nineteenth Michigan Cavalry which captured Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, died at his home in Edwardsburg, Vantuyt was 65 years old. He served during the war with the Eighth Cavalry and when Lee surrendered at Appomattox his regiment was sent in chase of Davis, when the latter was trying to make his escape through the Union lines costumed in his wife's dress. He was one of the escort of Davis as a prisoner to the Union camp.

BABY CLARK FOUND

NEW YORK ABDUCTION MYSTERY PARTIALLY CLEARED UP BY THE AUTHORITIES

CHILD RETURNED TO PARENTS

MAN AND WOMAN HAVING POSSESSION OF THE MISSING BABY ARE IN JAIL

NURSE GIRL NOT LOCATED

Mrs. Jennie Wilson, Who Had Taken the Baby Girl to a Farm House Near Garnerville, Refuses to Make a Statement—Her Male Companion Urges Silenced—De-lighted Mob Storms Clark Home.

GARNERVILLE, N. Y., June 1.—Marion Clark, the 21 months old child, kidnaped from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clark, of New York city, on May 21, was discovered two miles south of Sloatsburg, a village about eight miles from here, this afternoon. She was found at the farm house of Charles Youmans, and was drill suits, without insignias, evidently sentinels. Whistles were blown and others emerged from the bushes. A tall man, called Capt. Gomez, gave Valdez and Perez food, which numbered about 50, and the party, which they refused to seek their fortunes. They were guided to the man giving the name of James Wilson and claimed she was the wife of the woman took place soon after Mr. Clark departed. He had come back from New York, and the wife of the woman who had been abducted, and she was greatly affected at his return. They conversed together in low tones, and once the man was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

WIFE IN HIS WILL

Sam T. Jack Gives Her to His Brother.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Sam T. Jack willed his wife to his brother, James C. Jack. The testament of the late millionaire and theatrical manager, proprietor of several theaters, Creole and other burlesque companies, who died April 27 last, was filed for probate today in the surrogate's office. It contains this remarkable provision:

"It is my wish, first and foremost, that my brother James and my wife Emma shall become husband and wife."

Mrs. Jack, the "Emma" of the will, was Miss Emma Ward, a favorite actress in the old Lily Clay Burlesque company, which was playing at Niblo's in 1832, when Sam T. Jack married her.

James C. was asked if he would accept the bequest of his brother, but he would make no statement. The estate is valued at $75,000.

NO YELLOW FEVER.

New Orleans is Pronounced Free of the Pest.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 1.—The Louisiana state board of health today reported that the board of health of Louisiana states that representatives of boards, accompanied by Surgeon Murray, of the United States marine hospital service, had inspected all hospital records in New Orleans and found nothing suspicious.

Baptist Mission Society Adjourns.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The last session of the Baptist Home Mission Society was held today. Dr. Blackburn, work of the society, returned from China, accompanied by Surgeon Murray, of the United States marine hospital service, had inspected all hospital records in New Orleans and found nothing suspicious.

Root and Byers Matched.

DENVER, Col., June 1.—Manager Ott, of the Colorado Athletic club, announced tonight that he has made a match between Jack Root, of Chicago, and George Byers, of Boston, to be pulled off some time in August. The middleweight championship will go with the decision.

BURIED IN ARLINGTON.

Funeral of the Late Col. John M. Stotsenberg.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The funeral of

Col. John M. Stotsenberg, of the First Nebraska regiment, took place at Arlington cemetery this afternoon. Rev. J. S. Wallace was the officiating clergyman. The pall bearers were Col. David D. Gordon (retired), Col. W. H. Carter, Capt. F. G. Hodgson, Capt. Thomas C. Russ, Maj. E. E. Devo and Maj. J. W. Pershing, all comrades of the dead soldier in the Sixth cavalry. Col. Gordon was colonel of the regiment when Col. Stotsenberg served in it as a captain. Three troops and the headquarters band of the Third cavalry participated in the funeral ceremonies today. President McKinley, Secretary Alger and Adj. Gen. Corbin were present at the exercises.

Among the many tokens of affection and esteem placed upon the grave of the gallant soldier were two handsome floral tributes from President McKinley and Assistant Secretary of War Melkijohn.

LIKE BRIGANDS BOLD.

Former Cuban Soldiers Have an Organization in Santiago Province.

HAVANA, June 1.—Gov. Brooke and the governors of the military departments had a conference lasting three hours today regarding the general situation in the island. They had luncheon together, after which another two hours were occupied with a less formal discussion. The principal topic was how to revive agricultural life and how to give work instead of food to the destitute. No definite conclusions were reached, but the full exchange of views will probably result in great uniformity of administration.

Patricio Valdez and Antonio Perez, citizens of Havana, say that on Monday, while on search for work, they reached the plantation Delicias, between Havana and Santiago de las Vegas, which they entered with the intention of gathering fruit. Suddenly they came upon men in drill suits, without insignias, evidently sentinels. Whistles were blown and others emerged from the bushes. A tall man, called Capt. Gomez, gave Valdez and Perez food, which numbered about 50, and the party, which they refused to seek their fortunes. They were guided to the man giving the name of James Wilson and claimed she was the wife of the woman took place soon after Mr. Clark departed. He had come back from New York, and the wife of the woman who had been abducted, and she was greatly affected at his return. They conversed together in low tones, and once the man was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.

"Well, I'll do that. I arrest you as being an accessory to the kidnaping," said the sentinel, and they were locked up.

The hearings have been set for Monday. According to the people in St. Johns, the Wilson woman first made her appearance in the neighborhood about the time the child disappeared. She was at that time accompanied by the man who was arrested, and some time later by a woman, the name of whose name was heard to say: "Don't drag the poor fellow's name into this affair." He asked permission to accompany her to the jail. This was refused.

"Then arrest me," said Wilson.