MAINTAINING THE DAY. TWO MORE LARGE CLASSES GO OUT TO BATTLE WITH THE WORLD.

METHODISM PROUD AS WELL. The Churchmen Participate in the Exercises With Gratification at the Success of the School, Which is the Foster Child of the Church.

Hamline's commencement was the center of interest at that suburb yesterday when large classes, both in the academic and medical departments, received their diplomas from the hands of President Bridgman.

Distinctly as the most important event in the school year the classmen were the recipients of congratulatory remarks from the faculty of the school, and their many admiring friends and relatives who crowded the college auditorium.

Many of the visitors were from distant parts of the Northwest, and the patrons of the school and members of the clergy of the Methodist denomination graced the rostrum with their presence, as well as a number of prominent laymen.

The platform was decorated with a bower like frame work with a background of smilax and studies with carnations and wild roses, lending a delightful effect. The senior class occupied seats on the extreme left of the hall, where their numbers took up a large space.

The members of the class of 1899, who completed their scholastic pursuits at Hamline yesterday were: Miss Winifred W. Bloomfield, Ora E. Dick, Edith M. Adams, Frances Trasker, Earl T. Atha, George P. Babcock, D. Knox Caldwell, Nettie Clifton, Fred Coleman, J. C. Cooke, Anna L. Cotton, Elanice Donahue, Jessie H. Evans, May C. Fluke, Susan C. Hohmann, William E. Judson, Lillian B. Lauver, Lillian C. Link, Arthur W. Merritt, Lillian M. Merritt, Merritt, T. A. Olson, Hortense R. Robbins, Ethel I. Weld, and William W. Young.

The following graduates of the medical school were also graduated: Robert M. Burlingame, David J. Donahue, Titus C. Briggs, James Haynes, Robert J. James, D. J. Mack, W. E. Loberg, Edward H. Kirkhoff, Charles H. Mason, Fred C. Miller, Carl M. Oberg, Floyd J. Roberts, George M. F. Rogers, Ernest G. Sines, Daniel L. Scanlon, Ellen E. A. Willis.

Seated on the dais were the following: A. G. Drew, Dean Batchelder, Dr. Bridgman, William A. Shannon, W. A. Osburn, W. McDonald, Dr. C. W. Brooks, J. F. Chaffee, Leo M. Crafts, W. A. Chamberlain, Rev. F. E. Cowgill, W. G. Thompson, A. V. Drew, William Moses G. Ingham.

Miss Ora Emery Dack delivered an oration on "The Spirit of Investigation," which was characterized by deep thought and inspiration. She contended that the children of scientific research were just beginning to break through nature's crust, and the dawn of a new era was just beginning to break through nature's crust.

Science existed in embryo in the world of the far past. It had its infancy in the days of later Greece, its childhood in the middle ages, its adolescence in the Renaissance, and is today in the prime of its early manhood. We talk of the law of gravitation, and yet we know not what it is.

PLAT AGAINST NELSON. HENNEPIN COUNTY REPUBLICANS ARE ALREADY PLANNING FOR HIS DEFEAT.

HAVE A FEW CANDIDATES. Capt. S. R. Van Sant Again in Favor as a Candidate for Governor With a Number of the Minneapolis Men - Winona Man is Willing - Fletcher Worried Over Rumor About Judge Canty.

Events in Hennepin county indicate that the Republicans are taking shape against the return of Knute Nelson to the senate. As nearly as can be learned the culmination is to be a meeting of the four "big ones," Congressman Fletcher, Charles Pillsbury, Capt. S. R. Van Sant and Steve Lovejoy, at the office of the latter, one day early in the present week.

Considerable surprise is expressed at the course taken by Congressman Fletcher in being thus thrown across the path of Senator Nelson's ambition, but it is said to be due to Mr. Fletcher's fears regarding the work of "management," but he would take a hand to help it all he could consistently with his official duties.

There is no doubt that Fletcher fully agreed with Nelson that if he would appoint Lovejoy postmaster he would not object to his being named as a candidate against him. There is no doubt that Fletcher fully agreed with Nelson that if he would appoint Lovejoy postmaster he would not object to his being named as a candidate against him.
