

BRING IN INJURED

EIGHT ADDITIONAL VICTIMS OF THE STORM ARE BROUGHT TO ST. PAUL

SEVEN ARE SERIOUSLY HURT

MISS LILLIAN LIVINGSTON HAS A PROFOUND ESCAPE FROM DEATH

WAS AT WORK BESIDE HER

Pinned Under a Beam, She Listened for the Approach of Flames—Determined That She Would Not Lose Consciousness—Was Rescued in a Short Time, While Some Unfortunates Perished.

The regular Omaha train from New Richmond arrived here last evening shortly before 7 o'clock, a couple of hours late, with eight additional victims of the New Richmond disaster.

The hospital car was in charge of Secretary Tallmadge, of the chamber of commerce; Miss Tallmadge, Dr. Brown, Dr. Jennette MacLaren and two nurses from St. Luke's hospital. The car was met by Chief Goss and a squad of policemen who carried the litters from the car to the patrol wagons and hospital ambulances.

The wounded were brought to St. Paul upon the solicitation of the doctors at New Richmond. Having no adequate facilities all cases of a serious nature have been sent to St. Paul. The eight that came in last night have been taken care of by friends in private houses since the night of the storm. They are as follows: MISS LILLIAN LIVINGSTON, ankle both seriously injured and leave three little children who were buried at New Richmond last evening.

A. S. Tallmadge and Miss Tallmadge, who came over with the train, attended the funeral of Charles F. Tallmadge, which was held yesterday morning at New Richmond.

Charles Lanpher was in a stone building when the cyclone struck the town and got the full benefit of the flying atoms of rock. His bones sustaining some severe injuries on the body. Mrs. Lanpher is at New Richmond with an injured shoulder, but is able to be about.

Mrs. St. Germain, twenty years old and had been married five years. She was out on the street when the storm broke and took refuge under the Omaha shed. Her husband works for the Boom company at Hudson.

BROUGHT IN LATER. The following were brought in from New Richmond last night in charge of Drs. MacLaren and Brown, and taken to St. Joseph's.

JOHN McGRATH, head cut, shoulder injured and ankle broken. Underwent an operation last night and chances for recovery good. He was brought into the city last night.

MRS. McGRATH, spine injured and back sprained, face cut and scalp lacerated. Chances for recovery good. MRS. GERMAIN, injury to the abdomen caused by falling timbers. The extent of her injuries could not be learned last night and the case is regarded as a serious one. She may live, but the physicians extend little hope.

MRS. BROWN, face, head and shoulders slightly cut and bruised. The case is not serious and she will recover.

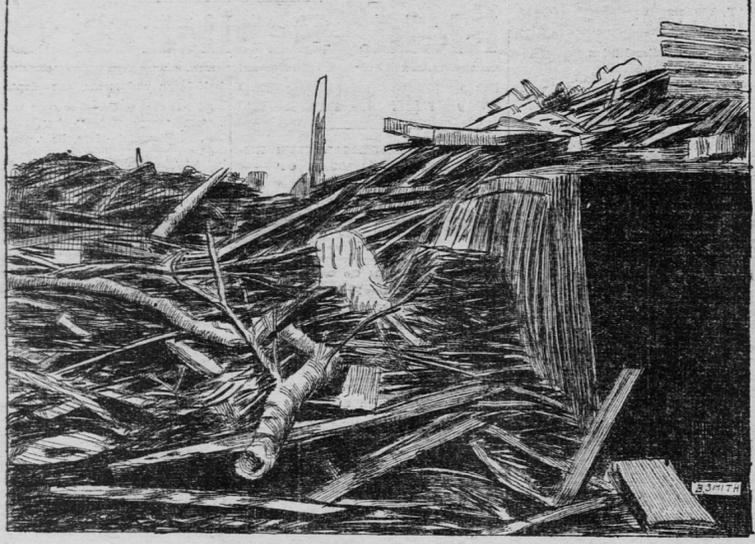

MRS. WILLIAMS, eyes injured by flying splinters, face badly cut and shoulders bruised. Will recover.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPES. Some Were Spared, While Others Were Crushed by Their Sides.

NEW RICHMOND, June 14.—As the people of New Richmond today in a measure rescued themselves from the lethargy resultant from the catastrophe, stories of hairbreadth escapes and almost miraculous preservation were told about town. The experience of John Keely, a guest at the razed Nicollet hotel, was most thrilling, when it is considered that Mr. Keely escaped with a few bruises.

Mr. Keely was lying in the bed in his room, on the third floor of the four-story building, when the storm struck the hotel. He started to jump as the brick walls began to crumble, but had scarcely gained his feet when the whole building went down with a crash. Keely sprained. Will go to her home at Northfield today.

SCENES OF DESTRUCTION AT NEW RICHMOND.

AT AND AROUND THE NICOLLET HOUSE.

MRS. MARGARET WILLIAMS, serious leg wounds and badly bruised.

WILLIAM McGRATH, collar bone broken, hands and feet cut, bruised.

MRS. WILLIAM McGRATH, eye cut, hands injured.

CHARLES LAMPER, serious scalp wounds, eye cut.

MRS. C. H. G. H. limbs and back injured. Went to her friends in Minneapolis last night. Able to walk.

MRS. M. E. Brown, back and kidneys injured.

MRS. H. H. STARR, badly bruised. Taken off the train at Hudson by J. H. Walker.

MRS. THEO. ST. GERMAIN, internally, seriously.

Miss Lillian Livingston told the Globe an interesting story upon her arrival here. She was employed as a trimmer in Mrs. Ryan's millinery store and was in the store when the storm came up. She ran to the front door and upon hearing the roar went to the back part of the store just before the crash came. She was pinned between the fallen timbers for fully an hour before released.

"I came very nearly fainting," said Miss Livingston, "as I was so severely held that it nearly crushed me. I made up my mind that I would not faint, as I felt sure I would not be discovered if I did. During that hour my mind was very active. I kept smelling for smoke, as I was afraid the remains of the building would get on fire. However, we only had two electric lights in the store, and after awhile the searching party found me. A large scantling was resting upon the bridge of my nose, and when the men attempted to lift it off they had to get assistance. Of course the whole weight could not have been on me, but it felt like it anyway. I have been dizzy ever since the storm and I think that every one who went through it feels the same way."

Mr. Bigelow was found within a few feet of me and he died a short time afterwards. I consider it nothing short of a miracle that I was not killed. I don't think there is another place in the store where I could have escaped as I did. The building was entirely demolished. A short time after I was taken out a man was discovered in much the same position that I found myself in. The fire was rapidly making its way to him, and the relief party were doing their best to release him. He was caught by one leg in between two big timbers. As the fire came nearer some one tried to cut the man's foot off with a jackknife, but failed, and when an ax was used the fire became so hot that no one could get near enough to release him. When it reached him he gave one shriek and seemed to die. I was taken over to Dr. Wade's house. When I was told that nearly the whole town was gone I could hardly believe it."

Mrs. Starr, one of the wounded, has been at the home of a friend at New Richmond, whose home was not carried away by the storm. Her condition has been quite critical, but she has rallied sufficiently to enable the physicians to send her to Hudson.

Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath are was dragged, thrown and jammed downward with the wreckage to the first floor, which did not give way. When the blow was over he found himself pinned under no lower limbs with brick and stones, but was able to extricate himself, and, though sustaining several cuts about the head, he was practically unhurt.

The escape of Mrs. H. M. Jamieson, Mrs. Jamieson and Mrs. Jamieson's aged mother, who were subject of wonderment. The three women saw the storm coming and started for the cellar. With presence of mind Mrs. Jamieson first threw the pole struck McNally in the chest, stove. Scarcely had she joined the others in the cellar when, with a terrifying grinding noise the frame house fell above their heads. Part of the wreckage was rammed through the floor into the cellar and where the women stood buddled together. There does not now seem to have been room for a child, yet all three escaped without injury.

In the front of the basement of Williams store Miss Winnie Lambdin was killed, while Thomas McNally, the bookkeeper, who escorted the girl down stairs and stood beside her, escaped without serious injury, although pinned for some time in the basement. F. E. Day, a traveling man, stood beside Miss Cora Buckley in the cellar. The girl was crushed to death, while Day was pinned under her body. Day was afterwards rescued, little hurt.

Thomas McNally, believed to have been fatally hurt, received his injuries from a runaway team. He was returning from supper to Pink's store, on Main street, when a runaway team, frightened by the storm, dashed down the street upon him. The pole struck McNally in the chest, crushing the breast bone and inflicting dangerous internal injuries.

The vaults in the Bank of New Richmond and in the Manufacturers' bank remained intact, despite the fury of the storm and the fire following in its wake. Both buildings were blown down, but the vaults stood in the Bank of New Richmond vault there was in the neighborhood of $6,000 in currency and coin. This money was found intact, although a small sum in currency that had not been placed in the vault was burned.

The Manufacturers' bank had nearly $7,000 on hand. The money was in currency, silver and gold, carefully stored away in the vault. None of this money was lost.

PROMPT RESPONSE. Black River Falls Quick to Tender Aid to New Richmond.

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., June 14.—Black River Falls responded quickly to the call of Gov. Scofield for aid to New Richmond sufferers. Two hundred dollars was subscribed this forenoon and the matter is now in the hands of a commission. The mayor has notified the authorities at New Richmond to draw on him for the above amount.

At the city hospital lies little Rosella Early, aged six years, and one of the bravest of all the wounded. Her right ankle and foot are crushed and the fingers of her left hand are badly mangled. In spite of the intense pain attending every motion of the injured members, the little girl has submitted without murmur to the surgeon's ministrations, and even when her hand and foot were dressed by the nurses and the old bandages removed, she set her teeth and did not allow even a moan to escape her lips. She has been informed of the death of her father and cousin. Her mother is safe in New Richmond. Her patience and bravery have made her a great favorite with the

ON BEDS OF PAIN

CONDITION OF EACH OF THE INJURED IN THE ST. PAUL HOSPITALS

TWO MORE DIED YESTERDAY

FEW, IF ANY MORE, FATALITIES ARE EXPECTED TO OCCUR AMONG THEM

SEVERAL ARE OUT OF DANGER

John Peterson, in Search for His Daughter, Finds Her at St. Luke's Hospital—She is Suffering From Concussion of the Brain, and It is Feared Her Injuries Will Prove Fatal.

The wounded from New Richmond, brought in Tuesday and Wednesday and being cared for in the city hospitals, are for the most part recovering as rapidly as could be expected. The casualties among the injured in the hospitals will be slight, owing to the excellent care and skillful treatment at the hands of the physicians and surgeons, which they have received. In the majority of cases the nurses are already able to report their patients out of danger, and there are a few who will be discharged today and will be able to return to their homes. Many of those reported Tuesday to be in a precarious condition were out of danger last night and in a fair way to convalescence. There are a few, however, concerning whom the doctors entertained grave fears and in several of the hospital wards death was dangerously near.

Yesterday's trains from New Richmond

AT ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL. Mrs. Mary Brockbank, thirty-eight, badly bruised and cut about the face, but is gaining and will recover.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

nurses and physicians of the hospital. Five patients were admitted to St. Joseph's hospital from New Richmond last evening. Several were so badly injured that operations were necessary and the surgeons were kept busy in the operating room until a late hour. One patient was also admitted at St. Luke's and one, Miss Lillian Livingston, was attended at the Union station and sent to her home in Northfield. A Globe representative made the rounds of the hospitals last night and received late information regarding the condition of each of the wounded.

DEATH RELIEVES TWO. At St. Joseph's it was announced that Miss Edna McMahon, daughter of Mrs. McMahon, and one of the first brought in from New Richmond, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, from a fracture of the skull and internal injuries. The New Richmond doctors considered the case fatal when the young lady was sent to St. Paul, but the surgeons decided that there remained a chance of saving her life and operated on her. She was in the operating room, but died before the operation could be completed.

John F. Wells, another of the injured brought in on Tuesday afternoon, died at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's. He was suffering from partial paralysis when found, and in addition had been badly crushed under the debris. An operation to remove the pressure of broken bones on his brain was performed early yesterday morning and it was thought at first that he would recover. A change came during the morning and after lingering for eight hours he died. His brother was in the city Tuesday night and saw him at the hospital.

AT ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL. Mrs. Mary Brockbank, thirty-eight, badly bruised and cut about the face, but is gaining and will recover.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

John Peterson, in search for his daughter, finds her at St. Luke's hospital—she is suffering from concussion of the brain, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal.

RELIEF POURS IN

MISCELLANEOUS SUPPLIES ENOUGH TO MEET ALL IMMEDIATE WANT RECEIVED

MORE CASH CONTRIBUTIONS NEEDED TO GIVE THOSE WHO ARE ABSOLUTELY HOMELESS A LITTLE START

DISTRIBUTING THE SUPPLIES

Ladies' Committee is Doing Good Work, and No One Entitled to Help is Without Food or Clothing—Efforts of St. Paul and Hudson Women Are Appreciated—Order Coming Out of Chaos.

Staff Special to the St. Paul Globe. NEW RICHMOND, Wis., June 14.—According to Mayor T. W. Wears the people of New Richmond now have all of the assistance necessary to town for immediate want, likewise enough clothing and miscellaneous supplies, but money, Mayor Wears says, is urgently needed. Already liberal donations have been received by the local relief committee. Early yesterday morning a telegram was received from J. H. Allen & Co., wholesale grocers, of St. Paul, stating that the committee could draw on the firm for $500. Later the board of trade and the Commercial club, of Minneapolis, wired a donation of $2,000.

A private donation of $75 was received through the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, from a St. Louis cyclone sufferer, Manheimer Bros., of St. Paul, sent a cash contribution of $100. Following close upon the receipt of this gift came a telegram of condolence from the city of St. Cloud, a contribution of $500.

In addition to the other splendid efforts being put forth by St. Paul in aid of the stricken villagers Comptroller McCarty notified the committee early that it could be assisted by the First National bank and the Bank of Hudson, to the amount of $200 for immediate use. Many other smaller contributions were received during the day.

NEED ONLY MONEY. "You can say in the Globe for the citizens of New Richmond," said Mayor Wears, "that we deeply appreciate the relief supplies tendered by St. Paul, both as to caring for our wounded and the contributions of supplies and money. We are likewise indebted to Minneapolis, St. Cloud and other cities and individuals who have so promptly responded to our aid. We do not need any more food or clothing. We have medicine, enough money and plenty of physicians on hand. What we need is money to in some degree replace the homes of those who have nowhere to live. Many are rendered absolutely homeless, and must depend upon charity until permanent comfort can be begun disbursing the funds placed at its command. Naturally we are overwhelmed by the awful calamity that has befallen our city, but New Richmond will take a new start, and we hope in a short time will in a measure resemble its former prosperous condition. Those desiring to contribute money for the benefit of sufferers are requested to deposit money or checks in the First National bank of Hudson."

FURNISHING RELIEF. The work of relief has been carried on very effectively, and it is safe to assume that there is no one in need in the city tonight. The ladies' committee, consisting of Miss Bertha Bell, Mrs. D. H. Dodge, Mrs. Jennie Whittier, Eau Claire; Miss Libbey Dayton and Mrs. Wiltrout, have been busy at the headquarters building for the last twelve hours handing out provisions and clothing to the destitute. The Red Cross workers from St. Paul, including Mrs. Dr. Jeannette MacLaren, Lucien Ware, Miss Tallmadge, A. S. Tallmadge, Mrs. Dr. Vitum and Mrs. Hoxsie, have been valiant in their services to the sick and wounded. They have been of great assistance in helping the doctors. Special mention should be made of Mrs. Dr. MacLaren's work. She today supervised the transfer of the wounded from the hospital to the train, and Mr. Tallmadge, of the St. Paul chamber of commerce, rendered good service in getting the proper transportation facilities for the wounded. The surrounding places have been promptly to respond for the call for help, and several cars of provisions and clothing are now standing on the track ready to be unloaded, but there is need of much more assistance, as there is not a store of any kind left standing in the place.

A. F. Chadwick, a West Superior merchant, came in today with a car of provisions from the Head of Lakes. Another train load of provisions from St. Paul and Minneapolis is expected tomorrow. Rev. Mr. McIntyre, of Hudson, has sent several large consignments of relief stuff over within twenty-four hours and has promised more.

GUARD AGAINST IMPOSITION. The Ladies' Relief Corps of Hudson use over much that is of immediate use to the sufferers. The demand for clothing today was much greater than Tues-

BULLETIN OF IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE DAY

Weather Forecast for St. Paul, Fair and Warmer.

1—More Wounded Arrive. Bodies From Ruins. In St. Paul Hospitals. Work of Relief.

2—Funerals at New Richmond. Generous Offerings.

3—Minneapolis Matters. Counterfeiter Captured. Northwest News. Pennsylvania Democrats. Nebraska Cyclone.

4—Editorial. Fighting at Manila. Trusts Defeated.

5—Sporting News. Yankee Beaten. Krueger Defiant.

6—Markets of the World. Bar Silver, 60 1-2c. Chicago July Wheat, 75 1-2c.

7—Synod Session. News of the Railroads.

8—in the Field of Labor. St. Paul Social News. Alleged Traudner in Court.

OCEAN LINERS. NEW YORK—Arrived: Kaiser F. A. S. Bremen, etc. Sailed: Bulgaria, Hamburg; St. Louis, Southampton; Friesland; Teutonic, Liverpool.

PLYMOUTH—Arrived: Great Waldsee, from New York, for Hamburg. QUEENSTOWN—Arrived: Aurania, from New York for Liverpool.

BREMEN—Arrived: Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, New York, via Cherbourg. SOUTHAMPTON—Arrived: St. Paul, New York.

BOULOGNE—Arrived: Spaardam, New York, for Rotterdam.

day, as many have come in and reported that they have lost everything. "Doc" Pell, one of the best known characters in New Richmond, stands at the door of the headquarters building, and all that receive aid must be recognized by him. In this way the authorities are guarding against imposition from the tramps and others.

Hot coffee, salads and sandwiches were served all day, and flour and other staples issued to the people living at a distance from the city. This afternoon a train from St. Paul brought several barrels of hams, a large amount of bread-stuff and other provisions from the jobbers' union.

Contributions have been tendered the committee by many people visiting the scene today, and donations at Hudson are being received by the First National bank and the Bank of Hudson, to be held at the disposal of Chairman Mosher, of the committee.

Words of the highest praise are being given for the heroic labors of the St. Paul women who have so unselfishly nursed the sick and wounded. Chief