GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TODAY.

St. Paul dropped two more games to Minneapolis yesterday—a sad reversal of the incidents of a year ago, and the Millers now have the season's series cinched in that the worst they can get out of it

Inability to hit the ball must be charged with yesterday's defeats, as only five hits were made off Parker in the morning, and four off Menefee in the afternoon. At that Katoll lost the morning game on a single fielding error, the Millers earning the afternoon victory by superior

MORNING GAME.

One of the prettiest games of the series between the two clubs was played in the morning, and while the Millers won, it another illustration that one run all that the Millers are due to get off Johnny Katoll in a nine-inning game. They should by proper fielding have been neld down to one run Sunday, and they should have been similarly restricted yes-should have been similarly restricted yeserday morning.

Shugart did not show up for the game, and Geler went to short, Hoffmeister blaving third. Two were out in the second inning, and Abbatichio on first by virtue of the Millers' first safe hit, when Elicher howled a fast one toward Geler. Tisher bowled a fast one toward Geier, out Hoffmeister, in his over-anxiety, ashed in front of the little fellow, deected the ball, and then when he did et it threw badly to second base, so that oth the runners advanced another sack. Parker hit a savage grounder right brough the pitcher's box, and scored

That was one dark spot in a game that was brilliantly pitched. In the first inning Katoll walked Carey, out none of the others reached first. In he third Andrews walked with two out, and Werden fouled a high one on the first ball pitched. A lucky bound that carried Sngith's single over Lally's head for three bases gave the visitors the winning run in the fourth, when Abbatichio gave Dan a long fly, although the play was close at the plate. Katoll made a fine pick-up of Fisher's bunt, and Parker went out on an easy one to Isbell.

In the fifth they went out in order, but the sixth was a nervous period. Andrews opened with a single into left, which ally let get through his hands, giving m two more sacks. It looked like a sure tun, but the king fanned. Smith hit to Katoll, who shot the ball to Hoffmeister, and Gabby was caught off third, whereat he did prate most volubly for several minutes with the moral and physical backing of Peanuts, the high pipe. The side should have been out when Abba-tichio lined one at Glenalvin, but it was so that Glenalvin grew careless and Both runners were safe, but ed one at Hoffmeister, who poked the ball into Smith as he came put in a hole in the seventh for a moment, Parker and Carey soaking hot ones, with a long fly for Davis to Lally between. There were two on bases when Wily Walt wobbled his willow in front of the pitcher, and could not bat the ball beyond Katoll. The yell that Minneapolis had been storing up started to escape, but was quickly hushed and died in a concerted convulsive gurgle as the a concerted, convulsive gurgle, as the Stevens Pointer sought his secluded spo at the coaching line. Andrews was their last hope, and Lally put him on the hand car for another push down the grade Two were left on the sacks.

In the eighth Katoll was batted safely by Werden, who at last managed to con nect with one of the puzzling slow ones and Smith walked after four wide ones But Abbatichio sacrificed, and Geie took Fisher's pop-up. The day was save again when Burke came under Parker walked the big Ogema, who thought he had a snap when Andrews smashed a hard one into Preston's garden. It was a little different, however, when Preston made a fine throw to third base, and Hoffmeister put the ball over the chieftain at least ten feet short of third base. The locals started off well, Abbatichio's very painful fumble of an apparently easy one giving Burke an early start

Burke, who had stolen second, scored. Glen's ball went through Davis and Robert J. reached third, scoring on Lally's fly, which fell safe between Davis and the hottest thing in town. Isbell fouled to Andrews and the inning was at an end. The second saw the Saints retire in order, and two were out in the third when Geier walked by Parker's present. Glen hit to Werden and Parker covered the Geler walked by Parker's present. Gien-hit to Werden and Parker covered the sack. A good catch by Davis helped in another one, two, three in the fourth, but in the fifth the locals got the worst of it. Preston opened the inning with a two-base drive, and ran to third when two-base drive, and ran to third when Spies put a wide foul to Werden close to the bleacher, Katoll shot one at Abbatichio, and Preston slid in at the plate, touching it with his hand. Fisher felt as the ball came to him, dropping with his back toward Preston, yet Umpire Haskell insisted that Fisher had touched Preston and secured the out. Abbatichlo took Burke's liner and ended the inning. It was one, two, three in the sixth, and would have been in the seventh had not Preston put a single in between a lot of outside flies. Two were out in the eighth.

In the last inning the locals needed the In the last inning the locals needed the one that the umpire had beaten them out of in the fifth. Glenalvin fouled to Andrews, but Lally hit a nice one to center. Davis let it go through him a little ways, and Dan kept on running to be caught at second. Isbell walked, with two out, and Hoffmeister flew to right field.

AFTERNOON GAME.

Two large goose eggs were drawn by each team, while the Millers were getting their wind for a run. Then Newt Fisher went to first by the dead head route, at the beginning of the third inning. Menefee cheerfully went out at first to advance Fisher a sack, and then Lefty Davis got busy to the extent of one base, while Fisher raced home. Wee Willie Nance, who was back in the game after being on the sick list for a day, could only fan three times at the air. The Chief of the Minnehahas gained first on an error, and was run down between the sacks, but was declared safe by Umpire Haskell. Davis meantime scored from third.

In the nine innings only seven Apostles reached first base, and of that number only three got a good look at second, and only one managed to get clear around the bases. That was in the fourth inning, bases. That was in the fourth inning, when Geier got in a single and Glenalvin lined out a two sacker. In seven of the nine innings only three men faced Menefee.

The Saints scored one in the fourth as The Saints scored one in the fourth as previously related. In the seventh Germany Smith drew a free pass to first, and Abbatichio tried to sacrifice, but only popped up a fly. It looked like a sure double, as Smith had landed on second before the ball came down, but somehow Willie McGill and Heine Spies got tangled up together in trying to make the catch, and the ball fell safe, Abby landing on first. Then Geler let a thrown ball go past him into center field, and both runners advanced a base. Jack Menefee was inspired by the occasion to chase the ball cal first advanced a base. Jack Menefee was spired by the occasion to chase the ball out into Eddie Burke's garden for a single, and two runs chased across the plate. Nance got a life on Hoffmeister's bad throw, but Menefee got homesick, and tried to take two bases on the play, being med at the plate. That we sell the plate. Fisher batted one at Hoffmeister, who poked the ball into Smith as he came down the line.

Katoll alone was responsible for being the collision with Spies, and retired after the seventh in favor of Fisher, who

"That man" Frisk is a large factor in the Detroit club. He is cut out for an outfielder, and with a little practice would make one of the best in the country. Vanderbeck will keep him on the slab, however, as he will be more valuable on the market this fall as a pitcher than as an outfielder.
