IN LABOR'S FIELD

The American Federationist for August, an editorial on Labor day among other things says: "If this special day was set apart to convey no greater idea than that of a day's relaxation from toil, then its title of 'Labor day' would be a most vicious misnomer; but we, the founders of this festival, know that it has been well and truly named, and that the day is full fraught with meaning, sense and import. Labor day has been instituted to afford the workers an opportunity to review their past efforts; to rekindle the enthusiasm of those grown weary and worn in labor's struggles; and to strengthen the aspirations of all who strive for a true social future. The day we are now called on to celebrate will not be lacking in important subjects for congratulation and for discussion. The systematic career of a host of new unions located in the most remote regions, as well as in the denser populated districts of our country; the steady and continuous growth in membership of the national and international unions; the extension and more vigorous working of the central bodies whose rule is ever more and more dominating the industrial life of every town and city; the considerable gains in wages and other conditions often won without serious struggle; and the more constructive case with which strikes have been gained wherever they have been supported by adequate organization; all of these facts are subjects of deep congratulation; but this cheering prospect is not without its somber shadows. The growth of trusts squeezing the workers out from their employment faster than new occupations can be found; the increasing determination of the legal fraternity to declare our written constitutions null and void under the laws of the Medes and Persians. Whenever the workers resort to legislation for protection; the violation of long-established constitutional rights by a brutalized soldiery; and the military subjugation of friendly peoples by our once respected government. These are some of the considerations that will make the forthcoming festival one of more than usual interest."

LABORERS' UNION.

At a meeting of the above-named union in room No. 1, Assembly halls, last night ten resolutions were received and referred to the committee on investigation. These asking permission to "get on the band wagon" were: 1. That the union be organized on the basis of the laws of the Medes and Persians. 2. That the union be organized on the basis of the laws of the Medes and Persians. 3. That the union be organized on the basis of the laws of the Medes and Persians. 4. Selbert's band was stationed in the improvised pavilion in one corner of the lawn, and the programme of popular airs. In a gaudily decorated tent Miss Belle Owens, attired as a gypsy, told the curious what the fete had in store for them, and Miss Nannie Bowlin had charge of a gyp putting contest. The guests were chiefly members of the executive board of the St. Paul chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. A tally-ho met the guests at the station and conveyed them to the cottage.

The dining room decorations and the table appointments were exceedingly unique. Blue and white were the colors of the chapter, were combined in the floral decorations. The center piece was a charming arrangement of pure white water lilies. The place cards were white, tied with blue ribbon and besides the name of the guest contained a patriotic sentiment. The white bouillon cups were decorated with blue ribbons. The table to the different courses the dainty color scheme was most successfully carried out. Mrs. Jewett was assisted by her daughter, Miss Louise Crosby, and Miss Abernethy, of Philadelphia, who is Mrs. Jewett's guest. The guests were: Mrs. E. R. Sanford, Mrs. S. P. Crosby, Mrs. E. B. Mrs. Jacob Sickles Lambastes Detective George Wells.

QUICKLY RENOVATES THE ENTIRE BODY.

Improper food is responsible for many ailments of humanity.

When one finds a sickness impending it is safer to make radical change in the food than to go to self-drugging.

Your physician would tell you that is true.

There are times when one needs the advice and care of a physician, but for slight disorders the surest and safest way is to change the food completely.

Try, for example, for ten days the following breakfast: A little fruit (apple or orange), a dish of Grape-Nuts (a famous breakfast food) and cream, a cup of Postum Cereal Food Coffee and nothing more. Our word for it, you will feel a distinct gain in health and strength much as if the whole body had been washed clean and put in first-class order. It is certainly worth a trial if active good health is worth anything.

GOV. LIND IS CONFERRING WITH THE AUTHORITIES AT THE WASHINGTON LETTER SENT TO GEN. CORBIN

The Governor Thinks It Would Be Advantageous to All If the Men Could Be Taken to Some Puget Sound Port From San Francisco, for Reasons Which He Gives—Asks for Information.

Gov. Lind yesterday sent a message to Adj. Gen. Corbin, of Washington, inquiring how many men he has, if any, of the Thirteenth regiment were left at Manila, how many re-enlisted, if any, and the numerical strength of the regiment when it embarked for home.

In reply a message was received stating that the department had wired Gen. Otis for the desired information and that it would be transmitted as soon as received.

Apreros of the return of the troops and the mustering out and transportation of the Thirteenth regiment from the coast to Minnesota, Gov. Lind a few days ago sent a communication bearing on the subject to Adj. Gen. Corbin, a copy of which follows:

I have the honor to transmit herewith a communication recently received from the source therein indicated, having attached receipt and explanation that it was in accordance with the wishes of the public and with the concurrence of the department determined to muster out the men of the Thirteenth regiment, hereafter, polits suggested in the letter which are entitled to consideration, and a source of trouble to the federal muster out of the service returned to the homes as distributed among the people as possible after the muster out.

It is very much annoyed from time to time by the receipt of telegrams from different parts of the country, from members of the Thirteenth who had been mustered out, for one cause or another, received their pay at the hospital, or otherwise, and have themselves returned to their homes, and have been transported and brought to the coast, but this entails a good deal of expense and trouble to the government, and I have no doubt that your department has had a like experience and will have until the situation is remedied. It is my belief that a considerable percentage of the men of the Thirteenth regiment, in some manner, have been mustered out of the service, and have returned to their homes, and have been transported and brought to the coast, but this entails a good deal of expense and trouble to the government, and I have no doubt that your department has had a like experience and will have until the situation is remedied.
