LABOR'S FIELD

St. Paul Iron Molders' Union No. 232 held another meeting last evening in Hall No. 5, Assembly rooms. All the "gray iron" men went to work yesterday morning under an agreement guaranteeing a minimum scale of $2.50 per day, and expiring Feb. 1, 1900, the same date on which the Minneapolis union scale expires. The malleable iron molders have not yet reached an agreement on all points, but expect to do so at a conference to be held this morning between representatives of the firm of Gillette & Herzog and the molders. The employees ask that no strikes be indulged in up to that period, and that no further concessions be asked. The only question remaining to be settled is the date of expiration of the agreement, which is to be discussed this morning, and on this point even the molders themselves are divided. Some favor the Oct. 1 proviso, while others stand out for the Feb. 1 clause, the same as the one in the agreement signed by the "gray iron" molders and the bosses. The agreement, as drawn by the committee representing the "gray iron" molders was read over the telephone last evening to Mr. Gillette, and it was thought at labor headquarters that but a short time would be spent this morning in reaching a satisfactory settlement. It is considered quite likely that the Oct. 1 clause will be adopted.

Leather Workers' Union Grows. The union of St. Paul leather workers on horse goods No. 19 met last night in hall No. 3, Assembly rooms. The resignation of J. A. Maloney, chairman of the grievance committee, was received and accepted. He has gone to Duluth to accept a position there at an advance of wages. C. E. Hansen, one of the delegates to the trades and labor assembly, also resigned. He goes to Hayward, Wis. W. Halter was elected to fill the vacancy. The following new members were initiated: Fred Ludwig, Ferd Jager and George Pruetz. Applications for membership were received from J. Schudel, George Brandner, P. Zeller, G. T. Klemm, B. Mitchell and W. F. Estell. The applications were referred to the regular committee of investigation. F. Q. Scholch was elected correspondent of the Leather Workers' Journal, the international official. Arrangements are being perfected for a grand ball to be held at Assembly rooms, Oct. 28, in the evening. Excellent music will be furnished, and the same as the one in the agreement signed by the members of the union. Receipts of the evening, $44.75; expenses 75 cents.

Barbers' Business Agent. At their regular meeting last evening Barbers' Union No. 31 elected A. G. Gubert as business agent. The meeting was held in hall No. 2, Assembly rooms. Mr. Gubert proposes to make a thorough canvass of the local barbers and urge identification with the union, the use of union cards, uniform prices and other interests of the barbers of the city. A. G. Gubert and Max Vorwerk, as a committee on an application for restoration to the union, reported unfavorably. The committee was instructed to make a further investigation and another report. The Central Union of St. Paul decided at its last meeting that good work could be done at the jail and state prison, provided they did not send the young ladies. What will we do for workers if we don't take young ladies in and train them? Mrs. M. J. Russell thought the above comment quite uncalled for, and said that the temperance unions were all ways glad to welcome young women as helpers. Mrs. Morrison, who has had wide experience in evangelistic work and jail visiting, declared it was quite true that the visits of young girls had a demoralizing instead of an uplifting effect on prisoners. As an instance she cited the fact that one of the prisoners had succeeded in passing a note to a young woman visitor. "But what can you expect?" demanded Mrs. Morrison, indignantly. "The young ladies go to the jails dressed in the height of fashion, and, of course, it distracts the prisoners' attention from the Scripture readings. One young man in the jail—he was brought up a Methodist—asked me point blank if I thought it truly Christian for the young women to wear such expensive hats. No, I think the young ladies had better keep away from the jails!" A resolution was passed authorizing the secretary to contradict the statement published in the White Ribboner.

Worse Than Laws. Delays in the Opening of the Sixth Street Bridge. City Engineer Clausen Saturday announced that the Sixth street bridge would be opened for travel today sure. Yesterday Assistant City Engineer Wilson, in the absence of Mr. Clausen, inspected the structure, and decided the bridge would not be opened for traffic in several days. Mr. Wilson could fix no definite date for the opening of the bridge until he had examined and ascertained to what extent repairs are necessary. Mrs. Rathbone Carpenter, of Chicago, gave the first of her series of four parlor lectures yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. P. Upham, on Summit avenue. Over 150 women were present at this initial lecture, and their absorbed interest testified to the success of the lecturer. Her subject was "Lohengrin," and the analysis of the opera was prefaced with a brief resume of Wagner's life and work, and Mrs. Carpenter's personal possession of a broad knowledge of her subject and a complete sympathy with the tremendous aims and accomplishments of the great composer. In her treatment of the opera the lecturer took up in turn the chief motives of "Lohengrin," illustrating them, as she proceeded, on the piano. The "Grail Motive," which is also heard in "Tristan and Isolde," the "Ortrud Motive," and the various other themes descriptive of some character or emotion of the opera, were played over and over again with exquisite beauty of tone in such a manner as to distinctly impress them on the audience. After illustrating the motives Mrs. Carpenter considered the story of the play and gave a graphic description of the various scenes of love and valor. The second lecture in the series will be given Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Geo. B. Young, 224 Summit st., where the opera "Tannhauser" will be considered. Mrs. Alfred Dufrene entertained at her home yesterday afternoon at her home on Ashland avenue. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white. La France roses and pink and white carnations being used with charming effect. The houses were opened by the Misses Dufrene. About thirty ladies were entertained, favors being won by Mrs. M. B. Dittman, Mrs. W. J. Murray and Mrs. William Dampier.
