FEARED IT WAS LEPROSY. Colored Boy's Malady Caused a Bad Scare among the Neighbors.

Considerable excitement is prevalent on the West side over the condition of Peter Sparks, a six-year-old colored boy, living with his parents at 57 East Fillmore avenue, who is ill with a peculiar disease. The boy's face and body is a mass of sores and scabs. He was seen running about the streets Saturday, when it was believed the boy was a victim of smallpox, and the police were at once notified of the case.

From the condition of the boy it is little wonder that people who saw him were startled. His face is a blotch of sores, while Dr. Weirick says there is not an inch of cuticle on his body that is unaffected. The disease first manifests itself in the form of small blisters rising on the skin. The blisters become quite large and their breakings cause pain and about the same other smaller blisters make their appearance.

The boy's parents are healthy, strong people, while he has an older brother that has scarcely had a sick day in his life. The disease made its first appearance a week ago. Under the treatment adopted Dr. Weirick says the boy already shows improvement.

HALL AND VAN SANT IN

THEY HAD A LONG CONFERENCE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON ABOUT WHAT?

VAN SANT CAMP STIRRED

Plot to Beat Him Out of His Rightful Strength on a Simple Show of Hands Attributed to Nelson-Merriam Project of Drawing Out a Candidate for Governor in Each District.

O. M. Hall, who is reported to have been tendered the position of public examiner and superintendent of banks by Gov. Lind, had a long conference with the chief executive yesterday, at the close of which the information was given out that no change would take place in the situation as to the public examiner's office during the day.

Mr. Hall, like the governor, was non-committal as to the result of the conference; but, from what can be learned concerning the situation, it seems probable that the tender has been made, and that Mr. Hall's acceptance is contingent only upon a short time in which to arrange for his private business affairs, so as to be able to take up the duties of his new position.

Meantime this will give Gen. Pope an opportunity to complete the investigation of the Blue Earth county situation, which is not yet settled, and which has created something of a sensation there.

Has any one seen Tams Bixby? That is what a lot of St. Paul Republicans would like to know.

Just at present the St. Paul Republicans are an important factor in the situation. Or some of them think they are. The gubernatorial situation is the leverage which they think makes them important.

They think when Senator Nelson sees how they have the reins in their hands he will quit trying to drive over them, so to speak, to force down their throats a gubernatorial candidate of their own choosing.

There is a man in Minneapolis named Peavey, about whose political ambitions more will be said later. Van Sant has many friends, who would like to see him nominated for governor. He is practically assured the aid and support of the First district. That, at any rate, is the declaration of his friends.

Last time he was short two counties in his own district, to some extent. Sargentum had one, Fillmore, that was only lukewarm in its Van Sant allegiance, and threw the Winona man in the air in the hope of saving Langum or something else from the wreck. It is reported that Senator Thompson and others who were for Langum then have given the Preston editor notice this time that, while they have nothing against his being a candidate for governor, they will not support him at this time through thick and thin, and until he is nominated or beaten they have nothing else to offer.

In Freeborn county Van Sant was weak last year, Judge Lovely's candidacy for the supreme bench being a source of weakness to Van Sant. Now that Lovely is safely landed on the supreme bench, Freeborn is in duty bound to support Van Sant, and it is pledged to its leaders. Then, too, the First district has the proud distinction of being the only county which gave Eustis a plurality at the last election, after he had defeated the First district candidate after a sharp fight in the convention.

In the Second district, too, it is reported that the Van Sant man has the solid support of the Republican leaders. In 1898, while the district could not be considered solid for any one, it was largely in favor of Eustis, but this time it is said to be enthusiastically in favor of Van Sant. Former Secretary of State Brown, of Fairbault county, who was in the city last night, staying at the Windsor hotel, was here on a political mission, although he admitted that Van Sant had plenty of friends in that vicinity, and they would be loath to support any candidate against him without excellent reason, as long as he was a candidate.

Other Southern Minnesota politicians in town were Senator McGovern, of Waseca, and his predecessor, E. B. Collier. Although Van Sant is a political fight, both are here for the purpose of appearing on the same side of a case in the supreme court today. Senator Collier, the Republican member of the dual compact, also denied the soft impeachment that he had any political errand and was loath to discuss the issues. It may be significant, too, that former Lieut. Gov. Chas. S. Rice, of St. Peter, and Mr. J. Dowling, of Renville, were among the Southern Minnesota politicians who dropped in yesterday, but none of them had seen Bixby, so far as could be learned.

In a nutshell the situation is just this: Van Sant has held the first and Second districts solid; the man who beats him will have to have practically the united support of St. Paul and Minneapolis. With a serious defection in either, and it is contended that there is no candidate who can so unify the sentiment in the two cities as to prevent a large delegation attending for Van Sant from one or both cities, Van Sant is not to be elected.

At least this contention is made by Van Sant's friends, and that is why they see in Merriam's visit here in behalf of Evans and Harris Richardson's rumored activity in behalf of Clapp an effort to necessitate to put up either of these men as a bona fide candidate for governor so much as to reduce the showing of strength Richardson's friends would ordinarily make in a free contest between the ambitious candidates. If each city went for its favorite son solidly it would reduce Van Sant's vote to a very small number, and detract from his chances of getting a fair expression from that one of the two metropolitan counties whose candidate had least show of support, when the county did at last desert its color bearer and try to find the winner in the field.

Similarly, too, the talk about Collins is credited to an effort to further cut up the field, as is the talk about which has been connecting the names of Heatwole and Bixby with possible nominations. Van Sant's friends here intimate that the Richardson-Sant's friends would want to restore the old machine, has as its further view the tender of Ramsey county's support to Clapp, without consulting its longtime supporters of Van Sant, and that is what promises to start a row in the ranks locally right away.

L. A. Roseng and T. D. O'Brien are in Chicago attending the session of the Democratic national committee.

He Becomes Second Lieutenant of Company A of the Fourth regiment, held an election last night at the Armory to select a second lieutenant to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of ex-Lieut. Edward Meyerding. Mr. Meyerding handed in his resignation under the impression that he would soon leave the state. Circumstances ruled otherwise, and with Otto Sobotta and W. G. Bunde, first sergeant, he was a candidate for election last night.

The first ballot developed a contest which proved exceedingly close. It was inclusive and resulted in a second which caused a division. On the fifth ballot Sergeant Bunde was elected with a small majority. The successful candidate is an old member of the company, employed in the office of United States Marshal Grimshaw.

After the election a short session was devoted to the disposal of accumulated business. It was decided to hold an informal dance in the Armory on the evening of Dec. 4, preceding which will be held the individual competitive drill for the Ehrmann medal.
