MEASURE PASSES THE SENATE, 44 TO 26, WITH LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN

ONLY FOUR SPEECHES MADE

And the Bill Was Defeated by the Senate Two Weeks—Detailed Vote is Given—All the Time Allotted to Speakers Was Not Consumed—Senate Then Took Up Regular Business.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Not probably in the history of the senate was there shown such little interest in the final vote on a great measure as was manifested today in the final vote on the conference report of the finance bill. The measure was before the senate two weeks, only four speeches were delivered upon it, including Mr. Aldrich's explanation of the changes made in the bill by the conference.

Today the discussion on the bill ceased fifteen minutes before time set for the vote, and business on the calendar was taken up to fill in the time. The report was agreed to, 44 to 26, a majority of 13 for the measure. The detailed vote is as follows:

Yeas—Aldrich, Allison, Baker, Bard, Beveridge, Burrows, Carter, Clark (Wyo.), Cullom, Davis, Dewey, Elkins, Fairbank, Foraker, Foster, Frye, Gallinger, Gear, Hale, Hanthorpe, Harshbarger, Hoar, Lindsay, Lodge, McBride, McComas, McMillan, Morgan, Newcomb, Penrose, Perkins, Platt (Conn.), Platt (N. Y.), Proctor, Quarles, Ross, Scott, Sherman, Thurston, Wellington, Wetmore—44.

Nays—Allen, Bacon, Bare, Batten, Clark (Mont.), Chas. C. Clarke, Claiborne, Culler, Culberson, Harris, Hittelfield, Jones (Ark.), Jones (Nev.), Kenny, McLaughlin, Morgan, Penrose, Pettus, Hawley, Sullivan, Talliferro, Teller, Tillman, Turner—26.

The senate then passed a joint resolution authorizing the president of the United States to invite the government of Great Britain to join in the formation of an international commission to investigate and report into the diversities of waters that form the boundaries of the two countries.

Mr. Clark (Mont.) directed the attention of the chair to the fact that his name had not been recorded on the finance bill and by his order it was recorded so.

The senate then passed the following general resolution: That the secretary of the public building at Dallas, Tex., for the erection of a public building at Spokane, Wash., cost $400,000; to ratify an agreement between the United States and the Five civilized tribes and the Seminole tribe of Indians; for the erection of a public building at Tacoma, Wash., cost $250,000.

SENATOR DAVIS' AMENDMENT.

It Differs Widely From Mr. Nelson's Puerto Rican Measure.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—There is a wide divergence of Republican opinion on the Puerto Rican question as it now exists. The two Minnesota senators do not agree. The Davis amendment differs widely from the one proposed by Nelson, who takes substantially the position of Mr. Nelson as to the tariff on goods from the island, but under the constitution, we have no right to levy a tariff in Puerto Rico. Nelson's amendment is for and out free trade with the island, and is an exhaustive speech in the senate on Jan. 29, 1899, in which he said:

"Congress has full plenary power to govern and control any territory no matter how acquired. The right of legislation on this power anywhere in the constitution or elsewhere."

It is therefore regarded as certain that he will support the doctrine of the Senate. Mr. Nelson, however, is in opposition to the Foraker bill. If the bill is defeated in the senate, the Republican defection at least nine Republican senators out of fifty-two must vote against the majority of their party.

These facts are significant in view of Senator Davis' amendment in framing and offering the amendment, Senator Davis acted for himself alone.

These facts are significant, "that it solves the present tariff question, free trade to Puerto Rico, and yet, at the same time, asserting the principle that the constitution can only be extended to Puerto Rico, by specific act of congress."

"Was it not for the fact that it does assert this principle Senator Davis' amendment would be an important factor in the senate, and its adoption might be predicted. It would be enough to find a dozen Republican senators, including Senators Davis and Nelson, to vote for it, and these with the Democrats and Populists would afford the necessary majority."

The Democrats cannot vote for it without abandoning the principle for which they now contend. The flag and the flag have already gone hand in hand to Puerto Rico.

PAINECOTE TO REMAIN.

British Ambassador's Term of Office Extended.

LONDON, March 6.—The Associated Press learns that the British government has decided that Lord Paineote will remain as ambassador at Washington indefinitely.

The decision to retain Lord Paineote as British ambassador to the United States is chiefly due to the unanimous decision of the British press in favor of such a step, and, although Lord Salisbury, previous to last Friday, had not considered the further prolonging of Lord Paineote's term, he apparently became much impressed with the strength of the arguments regarding the ambassador's acute knowledge of the matters pending between the two nations, that he asked him if he would still remain. Lord Paineote replied in the affirmative.

No definite report was mentioned by Lord Salisbury, so it is probable that the dean of the diplomatic corps will not leave Washington this year, at any rate, at the end of which time the British government will have to make a decision.

SECRETARY ROOT DID IT.

Drew Up the Puerto Rican Bill, but as an Alternate.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—As the authorship of the Puerto Rican tariff bill has been ascribed to Secretary Root by a member of the ways and means committee, the secretary himself drew up the bill, but only as an alternate measure, upon representations by some of the Republican members of the committee to the effect that it was the best possible legislation. While consenting to draft the bill under these circumstances, Secretary Root declared that he still held to the opinion that it was not proper to state that the bill was drawn up by him in his annual report, and favored doing all that could be done for Puerto Rico. These facts are from the highest authority.

SOCIAL REFORM UNION.

Rev. W. C. Pope is installed as its President.

General Secretary Bigelow, of the Social Reform union, took a very hard fall out of the present condition of things in an address before the local union at the Y. M. C. A. last night. He was in the city to attend the session of the local union and witness the installation of its new officer, Rev. W. C. Pope.

Not in sympathy with social conditions as they exist, Mr. Bigelow gave them the lash with an unsparring hand. He ridiculed the idea that the people of the United States are living in an ideal democracy, and asserted that of the men who framed the national constitution, only two or three were pure democrats in their ideas.

Life in large cities furnished the speaker a fund of fact from which he drew startling conclusions. "Take the worst evils which exist in the world," said he, "and they can be duplicated any day in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago or any of the large cities. Where women work for a wage which is little but starvation, where young girls labor in degrading and filthy conditions, where the child is expected to support the family of the American people also received severe comment."

Rev. W. C. Pope assumed the presiding officer's chair for the first time at last night's meeting. In taking up his new duties he spoke of the work to be done in the city and the aims of the organization. He spoke of encouragement received from Archbishop Ireland, and stated with reference to the organization that the union does not expect encouragement from those who think there is nothing to reform, but from those who are which exist. In referring to these he spoke as follows:

Reformers are they who have little to lose and are willing to put a whole or part of their lives into the movement. I know of no other class of men who will live so much in the goodness of humanity as the reformers. The reform movement always originates with the people. Christianity was originally a popular movement. It was not a movement of the world as a place of happy abode for the whole human family. It is the constant witness of the world.
