large number of people. A mob of about thirty strikers made a rush at the workmen, hurling bricks and stones as they came. The laborers about the building made their escape, but the bricklayers were not so fortunate. One of them was felled by a brick which smashed his nose. Hancock, the contractor of the building, who was working with his men, was knocked down and beaten and kicked, despite his sixty-four years and white hair. Four others were assaulted.

A big crowd quickly gathered, and by rapid work the police succeeded in arresting fifteen of the attacking party.

Three pickets followed an old man, who was a carpenter by trade, on a crowded Ashland avenue car, and attacked him very seriously. Other passengers interfered. The motorman grappled with the first assailant and held him until the police came.

As a result of terrorizing the gang of fifty bricklayers at the Armour soap works last night only seventeen of them appeared for work today. Twelve had been layed off at Twenty-second street and beaten by a mob of strikers, and others had been intimidated.

AID FOR STRIKERS.

Chicago Building Trades Council Becomes a Parent to Members.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The Building Trades council has become a sort of parent to all its members and their families. It was announced today that contracts had been made with the wholesale grocers, clothiers, shoe dealers and with some property owners, whereby the commodities in which each deals is to be furnished to the council. When necessary, it is stated, credit will be given the council. It is believed, however, that the goods can be paid for when delivered, as the local unions are receiving constant aid from the national organization, as well as from organizations in Europe and Australia.

These arrangements make it possible for the 50,000 striking members of the Building Trades council to continue the struggle against the contractors for at least a year, when the contracts expire. Distribution of groceries to needy families of strikers has already begun, and in a few instances, clothes have been given out.

VAGUE NEWS FROM FIRST

Continued From First Page. now a probability of the war being fought out to the end, as was the wish of Secession. In that case many months must elapse before the close of hostilities.

"The most disagreeable feature of today is the uneasiness of the Basutos. The situation in the Free State is one of difficulty and may cause temporary anxiety, but unless a serious blow be struck at the communication of the British army the Boer leader will have little effect. Even the temporary destruction of the railway would cause no more than a diversion."

LONG SIEGE PREDICTED.

Correspondent of Montreal Herald on South African War. PORTLAND, Me., April 7.—Mr. Rimouski, the South African correspondent of the Montreal Herald, arrived here today from South Africa. Mr. Rimouski was at Magerfontein. He was with Lord Roberts at the surrender of Cronje. The Boer leader, he says, was very modest and manly in appearance. Mr. Rimouski expressed the opinion that unless the Boers surrender at once, when the English reach Pretoria there will be another long siege with at least six months of hard warfare. He thinks there will be three more great battles and that many more lives will be sacrificed before the war is ended. The correspondent says the principal fault of the British army is that they do not do enough of scouting and thus are unaware of what they will run into.
