ENDED HER LIFE TO MUSIC

AGED WOMAN HANGS HERSELF IN HER OWN HOME

BODY FOUND BY DAUGHTER

Suicide Asked Her Daughter to Play the Piano, and Then Securing a Rope Took Her Life.

Mrs. Barbara Cizek, living at 233 West-ern avenue, ended her life yesterday morning by hanging herself over the stairs leading to the basement of her home. The body had been hanging nearly an hour when found. It is believed Mrs. Cizek took her life while in a fit of temporary insanity.

For several years Mrs. Cizek has suffered from melancholia, and as she talked of death. During the last few weeks her condition grew much worse. She seemed in unusually bright spirits, however, yesterday, and talked cheerfully to her seventeen-year-old daughter, Mary, to whom she remarked that she believed she was getting well, and would live many years.

Mother and daughter were busy together about the house until shortly before 9 o'clock, when Mrs. Cizek requested her daughter to play the piano. The daughter complied, and played a number of selections, while she supposed her mother was engaged in an adjoining room. Finally calling to her mother, and getting no response, Miss Cizek came alarmed and began searching for her.

In the hallway she was horrified to find the body of her mother hanging over the stairway leading to the basement. Neighbors were summoned and a physician called, but it was found that Mrs. Cizek was beyond human aid.

It was apparent that shortly after her daughter began playing at the piano Mrs. Cizek had quietly left the adjoining room and, procuring a piece of clothes line, calmly ended her life. She attached the rope to a ladder directly over the basement stairway and stepped off into space. Death was due to strangulation, and there had apparently been no struggle, as Miss Cizek had heard nothing to alarm her until disturbed by her mother's prolonged absence.

Mrs. Cizek was the wife of John Cizek, a musician. She came to this country from Bohemia, and was forty-nine years of age. She is survived by her husband and one daughter. Deputy Coroner L. A. Nelson investigated the case and decided an inquest unnecessary.

POSTAL CHECKS AND MONEY

NEW PLAN PROPOSED TO FACILITATE SENDING MONEY IN THE MAIL

FRACTIONS OF A DOLLAR

New System Includes the Issuance of Small Scrip in Amounts to Suit the Demands of Trade.

Two-thirds of all the postoffices in the United States are not money order offices. Such offices are among agricultural communities, where it is especially inconvenient for the citizens to secure safe money to send in the mail.

It is proposed to reprint all $1, $2 and $5 bills now in existence, and have their faces provided with blank spaces. The notes to be printed in the highest style of art employed in the national bureau of engraving.

Each treasury note, coin certificate, silver certificate, or other form of currency to be sent in the mail will be reprinted with a post check note of like denomination, based on the same foundation, and existing under the same law as the note retired, thus in no way changing the present financial system of the government.

This money, with the new face, will pass from hand to hand in the ordinary transactions of the day. Then when one wishes to send money in small amount, $2 for instance, by mail to subscribe for a magazine or newspaper, pay a bill, or make any other small payment, a check of business necessary by letter, he will take a $2 bill from his pocketbook, write on its face the name of the person or firm to be sent the money, and affixing a two-cent postage stamp in a square indicated (one-cent stamp for the fractional bills), sign his initials in ink, with date; the initials and date to cross and cancel the stamp.

Thus the piece of currency which, up to this time, has passed from hand to hand as negotiable money, has been instantly transformed into a personal check on the United States government for $2, as safe for transmission as any piece of exchange.

This is included in a letter to the person or firm desired, and when received is deposited, with other checks, in the bank, or can be collected by the receiver upon identification at bank or postoffice.

The government and convenient trip to the postoffice to secure a money order is done away with, and a convenient, safe and instantly available form of transmissible money supplied. The money order, which now aggregates, in the small sums represented by inclosed postage stamps, silver pieces, money orders, express receipts and other representations, and sometimes unsafe mediums, upwards of $1,000,000,000 per year.

The farmer who desires to send a small sum through the mail will not be required to wait until a visit to a money order postoffice, which is not always convenient, will secure the safe means of sending his money. The business man, desiring to pay a small bill by mail has access to the means at once, by taking from pocketbook or cash drawer a piece of money of the required size, and by a few strokes of the pen, can send it to the person or firm desired, safe and convenient.

The one who desires to subscribe for a paper or magazine can do so at once, without waiting until a convenient time, when a troublesome trip can be made to the postoffice, and frequently an annoying wait, often consuming more time than the sum of the money sent.

Business houses receive large sums in the aggregate in stamps, silver coin, checks on inland banks (costing 10 to 25 cents to collect), and bank notes yielding no revenue to the government. One large Chicago publisher reports the receipts of upwards of $50,000 per annum in postage stamps, $1,000 per day. Two commercial houses report daily receipts of about $15,000 in small sums, most of which consists of stamps, silver, small checks and paper money, not yielding the government a cent.

The average fee is $30-100 cents, of which the government pays out 3 cents, or more than one-half the fee in commissions, an aggregate of nearly $100,000,000 per annum. This sum would be saved in its entirety if post check money was used, for each man is his own clerk, fills in and stamps his own remittance and does not require the assistance of a postmaster.

The aggregate amount of business shown by domestic money orders is $211,215,624, probably not more than one-fifth (a conservative estimate) of the amount of money passing through the mails in small sums, represented by postage stamps, coin, paper money and small checks, upon which the government receives no fee. These legitimate methods are very unsatisfactory to the sender and annoying to the receiver. They are employed, not from choice, but from necessity, inasmuch as no convenient and safe method now exists.

With post check money in the hands of the public, it is probable that all small sums would be remitted by post, aggregating upwards of $1,000,000,000 per annum, and while the fee on each remittance would be much less than on the present money order (a saving to the people), the total fee, the sum of the small remittances would yield the government a large increase in present revenue, to which must be added nearly $50,000,000 per annum saved in an ordinary business, and carried with no inconvenience in expense are two important items, they are not so important as safety and convenience to the people and the removal of what is now a serious embargo upon business.

It is generally admitted that the paper currency in use during and following the Civil war was the most convenient small money we ever had, so long as it remained comparatively clean. Instead of carrying about a load of silver, these small bills can be laid smoothly in an ordinary pocketbook and carried without inconvenience in sums up to $20 or more.

Congress has been asked to authorize an issue of $50,000,000 in fractional bills of the post check form, in denominations of 5, 10, 15, 25 and 50 cents, in place of that amount of large notes now in circulation; this fractional currency to pass current from hand to hand when held in the blank spaces until. These can be transformed into checks, payable to payee, and will require a one-cent postage stamp for the government fee when so transformed.

The continuous retirement and reissue of post check bills will insure a clean and crisp paper currency and remove the objection to the present money, from a sanitary point of view. Because of frequent reissue, Bank of England notes are universally clean and can be readily written upon by pen. The United States government will receive an annual and profitable fee for the reissue of each post check note.

The ordinary sender of the post check money through the mail will not care to take the trouble to register his remittance any more than he would make special registration of a check payable to order, for experience shows that on an average one out of every five checks is lost in the hands of the receiving large quantities of checks daily. With money, silver coin, stamps, etc., it is different.

The cautious individual can have his

POST CHECK MONEY FULLY REGISTERED AT THE POSTOFFICE IF HE DESIRES, IF HE FAILS TO REACH DESTINATION.

It is safe to say, however, that this excess of caution will rarely be employed.

SPRING COLDS.

The Danger That Lurks Behind a Cold Contracted in the Spring or Summer.

A slight cold seems of such small consequence to the majority of people that little heed is taken of it. This criminal neglect is probably one reason why one-fifth of all the deaths in the country result from consumption. Of course we do not mean that consumption may result directly from a cold, but that it germs, low indirectly cannot be doubted.

A cold that is allowed to run develops into catarrh, which gradually spreads and descending into the bronchial tubes, develops bronchial catarrh, which in turn infects the lungs and produces catarrh of the lungs. The sensitive lungs are thereby weakened and become an easy prey to that most dreadful of all diseases, consumption. Nor is this the only evil result of a cold. The discharges of mucus dropping into the throat and then into the stomach produce catarrh of the stomach, one of the most distressing of all diseases.

Catarrh is curable if the right methods are used. The old fogey notion of urging a patient, no matter what his trouble, has been discarded by the eminent specialists of the St. Paul Medical and Surgical Institute, and the most modern treatment known to science substituted; a treatment that consists of the inhalation of medicated vapors that go straight to the seat of the trouble, kill all germs, restore the health of the infected membranes and build up the wasted organs.

This famous institute has lately moved to a more central location in order to make all sufferers acquainted with their methods will, for a short time, offer special low prices for the treatment of all diseases of the throat, lungs, stomach, etc. A force of specialists and consulting surgeons for every disease known to man.

St. Paul Medical and Surgical Institute, Fourth floor, Chamber of Commerce Building, Sixth and Robert. Office hours, 10 a. m. to 12 m. and 2 p. m. Sundays, 10 to 12.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

HOOSIER POET WILL BE HEARD HERE MAY 24.

The appearance of James Whitcomb Riley at the People's church in this city May 24 will be signalled by a widespread interest and the support of a class as many-sided as the poet's self. Among the organized bodies who sanction and rejoice at his coming are:

The Woman's Civic League, the Monday and History circle, the Nathan Hale chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the St. Paul chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Distaff chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Thursday club, the Meridian Park Women's club, the St. Anthony Hill Mothers' club, the Hamline Fort, the Friday circle, the Gode Teachers' Federation, the Minnesota Educational Association, the Crocus Ramsey Bar association, the Minnesota Educational Association, the following women show their appreciation of Mr. Riley and his gifts by acting as patronesses of his occasion:

Mrs. Maurice Gerberich, Mrs. John Quincy Adams, Mrs. Everett J. Abbott, Mrs. Alexander Bend, Mrs. Thomas L. Blood, Mrs. Frederick Driscoll, Mrs. Graves, Mrs. John B. Graves, Mrs. J. Hill, Mrs. Conde Hamlin, Mrs. William H. Howard, Mrs. J. H. Ingalls, Mrs. Mrs. Edwin A. Jaggard, Mrs. S. Meljen, Mrs. John N. Jackson, Mrs. Crawford Livingston, Mrs. Fredricka L. Prudden, Mrs. George Young, Miss Mary Sturges, Miss Katherine Gordon.

Mr. Strong will give a piano number at the James Whitcomb Riley entertainment, May 24, this as a complimentary to the poet.

Mr. Lewis Shawe will assist James Whitcomb Riley on the occasion of his visit to the city. Mr. Shawe is a member of the publishing house of Doubleday & McClure, and has a long and arduous trip to Indianapolis for the purpose of accomplishing some business. They are leaving for Indianapolis on Monday.

Edward Bok and Mr. Doubleday, the publisher of Doubleday & McClure, will be in the city on Monday. Mr. Bok is on his way to Indianapolis for the purpose of accomplishing some business. They are leaving for Indianapolis on Monday.

When the two had reached the street Mr. Riley, who is in his companion and inquired: "Why didn't you ask him, 'Why didn't you?' responded Mr. Bok. Both men confessed that they had been a breach of good manners and good breeding at least to have interrupted Mr. Riley's conversation with his companion.

Tourists already gather at Hotel Metropolitan, the favorite resort. Its fine location, cool and attractive rooms and comfortable beds, and its location between European and American, make it very popular.

Miss May Strong will give a piano number at the James Whitcomb Riley entertainment, May 24, this as a complimentary to the poet.

CLAIM FOR THEIR RIGHTS

HOMEOPATHS WILL DEMAND FAIR TREATMENT FROM INSURANCE COMPANIES

DISCIPLES OF HAHNEMANN

They Will Hold Their Annual Institute in Minneapolis During the Coming Week.

One of the important subjects to be discussed at the coming meeting of the Minnesota Homeopathic Institute, which will be held at the Masonic temple in Minneapolis, May 15 to 17, will be that of obtaining fair treatment from the life insurance companies. The movement is national, and is comprehensively set forth in the following suggestions made by a committee of the national institute, which will be presented at the coming session of the state institute.

"The question of how to secure for our school of medicine the recognition that justice demands should be ours from the life insurance companies, has puzzled the minds of several committees. Much has been accomplished in the past, as the published reports of the committees show, but greater results must be secured before we occupy the position that justly belongs to the medical profession.

"The committee for 1898 has gone carefully over the ground and has arrived at the conclusion that objection will prove of little, if any benefit to us in securing recognition from the companies. They are insuring as a business, and to reach them we must do it in a business like manner. We must show them that we are not making an effort to force recognition from them, neither are we begging it as a gift, or demanding it solely as our right, but upon a business basis we declare that we should not be legislated against because we believe in the methods of former committees, and work not directly with the life insurance companies, but request the business men of the United States to help in this work, and if we can secure this cooperation, it will be but a short time before every company in the United States and Canada throws the door open wide to us.

"We would suggest that every physician who is willing or desirous to become a life insurance examiner, write to two or three of the companies, and request them to follow the matter up until he receives a positive answer. Let each physician also bring some business card to be used by the companies, who may be influential in their own way, and request them to be various companies in which they may be interested, calling attention to the class of people who patronize homeopathy, also to the general high standing and professional ability of the homeopathic physician, stating that it is the desire of the homeopathic patrons of these companies that they have the privilege of always choosing the physician by which they will be examined when applying for life insurance.

"Many of our old school brethren are adding considerable amounts to their annual income by acting as examiners for life insurance companies, and we homeopaths can do the same thing, after receiving the approval of the company. It respects a man will carefully consider the advice, outside of medical matters, that he receives from the company, and it requires but little time to draw up a word now and then to a man regarding life insurance or the facts of the case.

"When a man has been interested in the subject by his physician the agent finds such cases to be profitable, and he will refer any agent who has thus had the way opened for him will willingly recommend the homeopathic physician, and it is in this manner through the influence of the medical profession, that we should not reap this benefit.

"If any physician who has made application to any company to become an examiner, and has been denied, or who has been appointed, has no work to do, will kindly report the facts of the case to the committee, we will investigate and use our influence to set matters aright.

The programme for the state institute, beside a banquet Wednesday evening, and a business session, includes three days' consideration of papers technical in character.

RICH GOLD COUNTRY.

EXCURSION PLANNED TO THE ONTARIO MINING FIELDS.

Ontario will take the lead in the production of gold in a very few years. This is certain to become a fact, and money-making camp ever discovered. That these fields may become known to the people of the United States, the Mining Investor, published in St. Paul at No. 416 Marquette building, has arranged for an excursion to Rat Portage, which will leave here next Wednesday evening. The rate is one fare for the round trip, and no person should miss this splendid opportunity to visit this great country.

There is great activity in the mining industry around the Lake of the Woods, and some of the best ever obtained are now being realized by the mills in active operation. The development of this country will open to St. Paul an avenue of trade that will be worth millions of dollars annually.

There are any number of people in moderate circumstances in Rat Portage who have made many thousands of dollars in the country, and it is hardly known yet, but with future development, there will be splendid opportunities for all that may become interested in the country.

The Mikado mine, with two stamps, secured 1,940 ounces of gold during the last twenty-six days, and this is one of

TWO GREAT Curative Powers.

The Advantages of the Electro-Medical Treatment explained by

B. FRANKLIN TOLSON, M. D., Ph. G. LL. D.

The Great Electro-Medical Specialist of the State Electro-Medical Institute.

"TWO GREAT POWERS working together in complete harmony to accomplish a certain result will do so more quickly and with more certainty than either one of the same powers working alone. It is by the application of this principle and immutable law that the great electro-medical specialists of the State Electro-Medical Institute secure a certain degree of cure beyond all question of doubt. To a sick man or woman a certain degree of cure is an important consideration, especially if they have met with failure in their efforts to get cured by the use of one of the curative powers at a time when they are unable to cure a large part of cases, and why? Because there are many diseases that will not yield to medical treatment, no matter how skillful the medical specialist may be who applies the same. There are also many diseases that will not yield to the most skillfully applied electrical treatment. It is as impossible to cure all diseases by medical or electrical treatment as it would be to supply all demands in order to best sustain life and health. So it is in many cases of sickness and disease, nature demands both medical and electrical treatment skillfully combined in order to promptly and thoroughly restore to health diseased organs or parts of the body.
