AMERICAN BUILDING AT PARIS EXHIBITION IS CRITICIZED

IS NOT WHAT IT SHOULD BE

Does Not Compare Favorably With the Structures of Other Nations—French Politics Grow Warm.

Copyrighted by the Associated Press. PARIS, May 26.—Now that all the national pavilions in the Rue des Nations have been opened to the public, comparison of the artistic effect of our building with that of its neighbors is undoubtedly unfavorable to the former. While the general external appearance is a model of architectural taste, the nudity of its interior elicits the harshest criticisms. Seldom is a word in praise of it heard from visiting Americans and the building has been already christened various uncomplimentary nicknames. Many of these recognize the disparity, and the present condition of the pavilion will be much improved. The bareness of the first floor will be relieved by the erection of a centerpiece of palms and flowers, which will be encircled by an upholstered settee; the floor itself will probably be renewed, brighter tinted carpets placed on the stairs, and the balustrades covered with velvet, and other decorative modifications will be taken with a view to lightening the general effect. It is but fair to explain that the present structure was not the original idea of Architect Godde, who submitted plans of an entirely different character for the pavilion which were rejected.

GETTING READY.

Feeding Ahead of Hot Weather.

"Not quite so much meat in spring time, use the cereals, as they heat the blood." Seasonable advice from an old practitioner. If one uses some care as to food, the coming hot weather will be passed as comfortably as any season. In fact, a person possessed of a perfectly balanced set of nerves can be happy and comfortable under most any conditions. The trust food for building up the nervous system to a perfect condition is Grape-Nuts. The makers are skilled in their art, and knowing that nature fills the brain and nerve centers with a soft gray matter which is used up more or less each day and must be replaced, (or nervous prostration sets in), and also knowing that this gray matter is made by the combination of albumen and phosphate of potash, they select the parts of the field grains that contain the needed materials, manufacture them into a delicious food, ready cooked, predigested, and of a fascinating flavor. The use of Grape-Nuts quickly proves that it really does rebuild and strengthen the nervous system in a most certain manner. It is sold by all grocers and is in daily use in hundreds of thousands of the best families in America.

STRANDED IN PARIS.

A number of unfortunate cases of suffering are coming under the notice of the American officials in Paris. Many bright, energetic young men, having just enough to transport them here and being anxious to see the exposition, came with the idea of finding some small occupation which would provide them with the means of existence during their stay, some even hoping to strike openings which they might develop remuneratively. There is no false pride about them, and they are willing to accept even menial employment, such as selling newspapers, blacking boots and hawking exposition tickets. They have, however, met with unexpected obstacles, against which all their pluck and vim are availing. Instead of the freedom of labor which obtains in American, and which insures success to the willing, intelligent worker, they find every outlet edged about with red tape regulations or prejudice against the employment of foreigners. Newspaper stands are accorded only to pensioners, and a license for boot-blacking is practically unobtainable, owing to the interminable period occupied by the preliminaries to the application.

Some boys attempted to gain a pittance by selling exhibition tickets at a profit of two cents each; but their efforts were stifled by the interference of their French competitors, who are able to draw all intending purchasers except Americans and Englishmen by proclaiming the Americans as foreigners. These unfortunate experiences should warn venturesome youths against setting forth in hopes of finding employment here. Neither the embassy nor the consulate has funds to be used in giving assistance in such cases, and the youths will be obliged to get home as best they can.

RESPECT OLD GLORY.

While this antipathy holds against those who are trying to compete in the French labor market, pleasure-seeking American visitors have no reason to complain of their welcome. The feeling which is bitter against Englishmen, with whom Americans are so often confounded, owing to their language, does not exist towards the latter when their nationality is established. This fact is now becoming recognized among the Americans, many of whom have adopted the habit of wearing a miniature enameled Stars and Stripes as a distinctive emblem. The French newspapers have remarked this, and have called the attention of their readers to its significance. One of them publishes an interview with an American, whom a reporter met on the boulevard wearing the insignia, and of whom the newspaper man, out of curiosity, asked the reason. The American stated his nationality, and said: "We ardently desire to affirm that we are Americans, not Englishmen, and we meet with greater sympathy from Parisians on their recognizing our little flag. We are proud of our country, and are glad to be known as Americans."

AMNESTY MEASURE.

M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the premier, had previously appeared to be lukewarm about the fate of his amnesty bill, the provisions of which prevent further criminal proceedings arising out of recriminations in the Dreyfus affair, but the chamber's meaning on Tuesday was unmistakable and had the effect of immediately quickening his apathy into an urgent request to the senate committee to hasten its action on the bill and remove it from the pigeonhole, where it promised to lie dormant until the next session passed the chamber and now only awaits adoption by the senate.

LOCAL TREATMENT

For Catarrh Is a Failure.

Local applications for catarrh, if they accomplish anything at all, simply give temporary relief; a wash, lotion, salve or powder cannot reach the real cause of the disease, which is in the blood. Catarrhal poison is discharged from the nose and throat, the discharge sometimes closing up the nostrils and irritating and inflaming the throat and bronchial tubes and laying the foundation for serious lung troubles. The most successful remedies for catarrh are taken internally, and should consist simply of cathartics to cleanse the blood of catarrhal poison and remove the fever and congestion from the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

For some years antiseptic applications have been used in washes and sprays applied locally, often giving welcome relief, but not until recently has a satisfactory antiseptic preparation for internal use been produced.

It has been accomplished, and the remedy under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been so successful in the cure of all forms of catarrh, and has become so popular among every class of catarrh sufferers that it is now sold by druggists everywhere.

It is the only catarrh cure in tablet form, and, being pleasant to the taste, containing no cocaine nor opiates, it is perfectly safe and palatable for children as well as adults. Chronic catarrh sufferers should bear in mind that the best time to attempt to cure so obstinate a disease is in the spring and summer, and probably no remedy as safe and so certain to bring about a permanent cure as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

New Names for Automobiles.
