PROCEEDINGS OF THE FIRST DAY OF THE CONVENTION AT RED WING GETS TIED UP IN A DEBATE

Over the Admission of a Representative of Retail Liquor Dealers' Association—Reports of the Officers.

RED WING, June 11.—(Special.)—The eighteenth annual convention opened at Red Wing today under most favorable auspicious. The local reception and arrangement committees had both done their work very well, so that the convention was able to commence its work as announced by President Neary promptly at 10 a. m.

W. J. Back, president of the Potters' local union, on behalf of the committee of arrangements, called the convention to order, and introduced Rev. J. A. Leas, of Red Wing, who opened the convention with prayer, after which Hon. Jens Grondahl, in the absence of the mayor, and on his behalf, delivered a humorous address, welcoming the delegates and their friends to all the hospitality that could be extended to them during their short stay in the city.

President M. E. Neary was introduced, and thanked the representatives of the city for the cordial hospitality extended himself and fellow delegates of the federation. In his report, which showed the reception today, but also for the work accomplished for organized labor in this city.

Another thanked Hon. Joseph Heavilide, congressman from the Third district of Minnesota, for his good work in behalf of the laboring classes of the D. C. A resolution admitting a delegate from the State Retail Liquor Dealers' association made all kinds of trouble for the president, and put his parliamentary knowledge to a test, but, regardless of the general confusion, he proved himself equal to the occasion.

President Neary announced the following standing committees: Rules of Order—J. O. Hancock, Red Wing; E. H. O'Donnell, Minneapolis; C. L. Blakelock, Minneapolis.

Resolutions—Louis Hanson, Minneapolis; F. W. Bell, Minneapolis; C. L. Blakelock, Minneapolis; J. P. Murray, St. Paul; J. McMurry, Duluth; and Henry Fecker, St. Paul.

Special Agents—J. B. Morrison, St. Paul; Fred Hoffman, St. Paul; James McLaughlin, Minneapolis; J. O. Hancock, Red Wing; George Duluth, and M. J. Dunphy, Rochester.

After ordering resolutions presented direct to the committee on resolutions, without being read, and placing the gallery in the rear of the hall, the general public, who were extended a cordial invitation to be present during the convention, the session, at 12:15, adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

The convention was promptly in reassembling again, and was called to order at 1:45 p. m. by President Neary, who announced the first business, calling the roll of delegates, after which he appointed Oscar Fargnaut, of Red Wing, sergeant-at-arms.

A communication from the National American Woman's Suffrage association, requesting the aid of the federation to help secure the rights of citizenship, and so they could vote, was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Reports of officers was taken up, and the reports of both President M. E. Neary and Secretary-Treasurer W. E. McEwen, as well as that of Henry Fecker, chairman of the Federation council, showed the progress of the work in a magnificent and flourishing condition. A greater advance had been made this year than ever before in the history of the order.

membership of 800, was credited with being the "banner union" of the state. In service he made a large number of extended thanks to the various officers and the different unions for courteous treatment received during their terms.

Bills were allowed W. E. McEwen for the state, and M. E. Neary for the same purpose. The reports of all officers and the council were referred to the committee on reports of officers.

The following rules of order were then adopted: Reading of credentials, reading of minutes of last session, bills and communications, reports of officers, reports of standing committees, reports of special committees, reports from organizations, election of officers, unfinished business, new business, receipts and adjournment.

The convention then, in order to allow the members of the union to get to work, adjourned at 3 a. m. to 4 p. m. It was 4:30 when the president again called them to order.

The financial committee gave a lengthy report, and put his parliamentary knowledge to a test, but, regardless of the general confusion, he proved himself equal to the occasion. All kinds of motions and amendments were tried at him, and he was able to handle them with ease.
