In Labor's Field.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 14.—Frederick Driscoll, commissioner of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, addressed the International Typographical union convention today as a representative of the special standing committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

The committee, he said, was not appointed to provoke controversies or to antagonize labor, but on the contrary, to promote a better understanding between members and their employers, and that the services of the committee and its commissioner will be at the disposal of any member of the association and the good offices of the committee will gladly be extended to any member on request.

He then quoted a resolution adopted by the special committee early this month, that the publishers should have the right to be heard in all proceedings relating to the constitution, general laws and rules of the I. T. U., affecting publishers' interests.

Driscoll referred to the vast aggregate of interests embodied in the publishers' association and stated that considerable bitterness of feeling has been engendered because of the action of the I. T. U. in compelling proofreaders and typographers to become members of the Typographical union, which classes were in no sense to be called printers, and these new elements constituted a great deal of trouble.

"You are asked by the publishers," he said, "to unite with them in establishing a special arbitration committee to adjust disputes between publishers and local unions that cannot be otherwise settled, and to act as a board of appeal, if you would not prefer to have the matter taken toward the abolition of the strike, boycott and lockout."

He called attention particularly to the resolution of the committee that the I. T. U. make no changes in its constitution or general laws bearing upon the rights or affecting the interests of the publishers, and that before any new scale is submitted to the union for adoption and full consultation should be had with a representative committee of the publishers, and that before any new scale is submitted to the union for adoption and full consultation should be had with a representative committee of the publishers, and that before any new scale is submitted to the union for adoption and full consultation should be had with a representative committee of the publishers.

Mr. Driscoll was well received and a motion of thanks for the printing of his address in the proceedings was adopted.

The report of the committee on laws was then taken up and several sections were acted upon, the remainder going over until tomorrow. One of the most important propositions considered in relation to the payment of married men and single men of $5 per week for eight weeks from the time a strike is inaugurated.

M. Wilson resigned as a delegate to the Trades and Labor assembly, and C. Heidicker was elected to fill the vacancy. The receipts were $114 and expenses $7.

Plumbers. The Plumbers' union at its meeting last night decided to hold out in the labor day parade. A labor day committee of five, P. J. Leonard, D. Cavanaugh, F. Delaney, J. C. Coffey and Andrew J. Conroy were appointed, and the election of a marshal was deferred until the next meeting.

Mattressmakers. The new mattressmakers' union held a short session last night at which it was decided in future to meet the second Tuesday of each month in Minneapolis, the union being made up of members from both Minneapolis and St. Paul. The meeting was a small one, as far as attendance was concerned.

Coremakers. The Coremakers' union held a short special meeting last night, which was devoted to considering plans for the labor day parade and executive business.

LABOR NOTES. Business Agent Rusk, of the Building Trades council, stated last night that the public started Monday last at the German Catholic orphan asylum was in a fair way to be settled today. A certain number of the children, which, if carried out this morning, all the men called out will be ordered back to work.

Secretary John P. Krieger, who has been absent from home with an attack of rheumatism since Thursday last, will attend the assembly last night for a short time, setting forth the views of the union in relation to various subjects of interest to employers and employees.

The committee, he said, was not appointed to provoke controversies or to antagonize labor, but on the contrary, to promote a better understanding between members and their employers, and that the services of the committee and its commissioner will be at the disposal of any member of the association and the good offices of the committee will gladly be extended to any member on request.

Adolph Polsky Gave Him Small Change for It, but Could Not Get Groceries There-with.

Frank Staal, charged with attempting to pass a counterfeit dollar, has been committed to Ramsey county jail in default of $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury in January.

Last Saturday night Nick Staal and his friend, Adolph Polsky, met during the evening at a saloon at Wabasha street and Patrick street, where they had a glass of beer, and then Staal asked Polsky to change a dollar for him.

Next morning his daughter attempted to get some supplies for the family with the spurious money, and met with a refusal.

The dollar was light weight and of a dark leaden color. Polsky took the money back to Staal, who denied all knowledge of having had it in his possession at any time. During the discussion, which lasted pretty warm, Officer Morris Zimmerman dropped in and attempted to make a friendly settlement, but both were obstinate, and finally the parley broke up with dire imprecations.

When the case came on yesterday morning, Commissioner Bechhoefer held Staal in $500 bail.

Parents Whose Children Were Taken From Their Care.

Mrs. George Ewell was crying, and her husband in a rage, yesterday morning, as Judge Bazille issued an order placing their children in the custody of the Children's Aid society, with Rev. Peter J. Meade as guardian.

Insurance Company's Receiver Says It Was to Evade a Judgment.

The St. Paul German Insurance company, through its receiver, Norman Fetter, has commenced an action in the district court against Isabella J. MacDonald, Emma J. MacDonald, her husband, and James J. MacDonald, to recover the conveyance of certain pieces of real estate.

Receiver Fetter asks that the conveyance be set aside as fraudulent, and that the judgment be made a lien upon the property.

Currell McMurray Files Petition in Bankruptcy.

Mr. Yanish concluded by telling of his faith in the future, and that as a pecuniary investment along the purchase of the proposed site would be a great chance.

Secretary Whelan made extended remarks, dwelling on the benefits the idea was to realize on a larger scale the exhibition held at the market house two years ago, and go further on similar lines of popular ideas.

No definite action was taken at the session, and it was held only to informally discuss the matter.
