WHEELER COUNTY SEAT WARS.

SOUTH DAKOTA TOWNS SHOULD BE BUILT ON WHEELS TO KEEP IN LINE.

CAPITAL OF CHARLES MIX

Milwaukee Railroad Extension Precipitates a Lively Contest for Its Possession Between Wheeler and Geddes.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—Several county seat fights are in progress in South Dakota and are to be determined by the election next month.

One of the hottest is that now raging in Wheeler county, where the extension into that county of the Milwaukee railroad has sadly disarranged the plans of the citizens of some of the old towns.

Wheeler, which has for years been the county seat, refuses to surrender to the new towns, notwithstanding that it was not lucky enough to have the railroad extended to it.

The new towns on the railroad are filled with ambitious men, who first thought was to capture the county seat for their particular town, thinking that when this was accomplished there would be no doubt of the future of the town.

MR. BRYAN IN NEW JERSEY

SIZE OF THE CROWDS WAS ONLY EXCEEDED BY THEIR ENTHUSIASM

HIS ADDRESS AT PRINCETON

Reception by the Undergraduates at Old Nassau in Marked Contrast to Those at Ann Arbor and Ithaca.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 25.—The first day of Mr. Bryan's tour of New Jersey, which closed here with six meetings tonight, may be described as a mad rush.

From the time he entered Washington Park, opposite Philadelphia, until he closed his last meeting here, he had made fifteen speeches. The average of their duration was greater than usual.

"I have addressed a great many meetings of college boys, but I never had a floor meeting anywhere like this. This is what Mr. Bryan said to a number of the Princeton college boys who had followed him to his train from his meeting at Princeton.

"You are not compelled to believe all that a presiding officer says. You are not compelled to accept me as the next president of the United States. You are not interested in all those things that make for the good of our country, and if you are not interested in them, why will you give me the credit that I shall give you—though I know many of you believe in the credit of a man who will find out what is right and do it, and believe to be right, regardless of the temporary consequences that may follow. A senator once said, 'Who saves his country saves himself, and all things saved do him good.'"

THE YOUNG MAN'S CHANCE.

"You will find that as monopoly increases the chance of the young man becomes less, and when you take away the monopoly you give the young man a chance to render him a less effective man. This nation is in a great predicament, because here there is more hope for a young man here than in any other country. Here life is before the young man, and here there is more hope for a young man here than in any other country. Here life is before the young man, and here there is more hope for a young man here than in any other country.

Mr. Bryan's train arrived at Marion, a suburb of Jersey City, at 8:15 o'clock, and he was driven, after a brief meeting at the station, to St. Joseph's hall, his first stopping place in Jersey City.

Everywhere he was accompanied by a dozen stalwart policemen who kept at a distance the crowd which everywhere seemed disposed to press in upon and embrace him. The streets everywhere were crowded and many houses were brilliantly lighted until late at night, in honor of the occasion, the halls at which speeches were made were crowded to their utmost capacity.
