MAY BREAK A DEADLOCK DEMOCRATIC COUNCILMEN MAY AGREE ON JOHN LIND FOR CITY ATTORNEY HIS RECORD IN HIS FAVOR. His Standing on Public Questions Has Aroused Some of His Friends to Urge Him for the Place. Quite a novel element was introduced into the present spirited contest for the corporation attorneyship by the springing of the name of John Lind for the place, the Democratic members of the council having not been able, as yet, to agree upon any of the avowed candidates for the place. It has been urged in favor of selecting Mr. Lind that his marked views on certain matters of such importance to municipal corporations, as well as his ability as an attorney, would make him an excellent choice.

PAID BY THE RECEIVER GLAD DAY FOR THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY EMPLOYEES. The employees of the Mississippi Valley Telephone company were made happy yesterday when they received their pay for January. They did not get paid for the full month, but for the time the receivership has been in operation, seventeen days. Receiver E. E. Webster was unable to find a dollar in the bank or in the till, but he managed to collect money enough to discharge the obligations to employees. He says: "I am gratified over the showing we have been able to make in so short a time. There is no doubt that the public will sustain an independent telephone plant in this city. Our plant covers St. Paul, and the people here are kindly disposed towards us. We are not going to allow property that cost some $800,000 of $70,000 to be crowded out of the Northwestern field." A short time ago Mr. Webster sent out a circular letter to all telephone subscribers getting to the case of the independent company squarely before the public. That circular was in part as follows: It must be borne in mind that this is a public service enterprise, dependent wholly for its success upon public patronage, and the rental of every telephone, though comparatively small, is an important factor in making up the aggregate income. It would seem apparent that the company, having been established, has done much to bring about more efficient service and largely reduced rates in the city. It is an important question whether the people of St. Paul should afford to crush this competition by lack of patronage. This is the question which you are asked to decide now. The receiver is anxious to know as early as possible just what he may depend upon in the way of immediate support, which fact will enter very largely into the consideration of plans for extension and development. You may be assured that with the help and substantial support of the public, no effort will be spared on the part of the receiver to make the service and development of the present plants satisfactory.

DIED FROM HIS INJURY THOMAS F. O'GRADY RUN OVER BY A GREAT WESTERN TRAIN VETERAN OF THE CIVIL WAR. Thomas F. O'Grady, struck by a South St. Paul motor engine on the Great Western road Friday morning, died last evening at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's hospital. He was badly mangled and injured and at no time was his physical condition strong enough to enable the surgeons to amputate his mangled limbs. His death was largely due to the fact that he was unable to get to the hospital in time. Mr. O'Grady, who was fifty-eight years of age, has been a resident of South St. Paul for a number of years, and at the time of the accident was employed by the United States customs department as an inspector. It was while attending to his duties that he stepped in front of the motor and received the injuries that ultimately resulted in his death. Mr. O'Grady was born in Fairbault, Minn., and was a veteran of the Civil war, enlisting in St. Paul and serving through the four years of that bloody conflict. For twenty-two years he resided in Chicago, where he was employed by the street railway company of that city. Prior to taking service with Uncle Sam, which was about eight years ago, he was in the lumbering business with his company. A wife and six children, Thomas, William, John, Mary, Nora and Louise, survive him. His aged father, P. M. O'Grady, is also living in St. Paul. The remains were last evening taken to the family residence, 571 State street. The funeral will take place Tuesday morning from St. Michael's church. The A. O. H. will attend. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery. Vaccination in the German Army. To the Editor of the Globe—It was reported in your paper recently that at a meeting of Ramsey County Medical society the following remark was made by Dr. Ohage: "These people who are raising the most fuss know the least about it. We are supposed to know something about it, but we know nothing. Vaccination is practically a thorough preventive of smallpox. In the records of the German army we find that one man out of a thousand who have been vaccinated gets smallpox." As every man in the German army is obliged to be vaccinated, and considering the strict discipline and enforced sanitary conditions in the present army, we may be regarding the German army means but little in this accuracy, but some facts showing the results of vaccination among men in that army, every one of whom have been vaccinated, may dispense the public of the idea that as he states vaccination is a thorough preventive. The following quotation is made from the Ninth Edinburgh edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and in a prefatory remark the authority quoted says: "It is right to say that the views expressed in the present article diverge in many points from the opinions generally received among medical men, and must be regarded not as the expression of established and undisputed doctrine, but as the outcome of an independent and laborious research." On pages 29 and 30 there will be found the following: "According to a competent statistician (A. Voigt) the death rate from smallpox in the German army, in which all men are re-vaccinated, was 99 per cent more than among the civil population of the same age. The Bavarian contingent, which was vaccinated without exception, had five times the death rate from smallpox in the epidemic of 1870-71 that the Bavarian civil population of the same ages had, among the latter.
