HAD A PREVIOUS QUARREL

The couple had engaged in a desperate quarrel three days ago, and Forshay is said to have beaten the actress badly, cutting her head in two places. Miss Stokes gave orders to the proprietor of the Vernon hotel, at which she was staying, that Forshay should not be admitted to her presence, and, although he called there twice during the early part of the evening, he was compelled to leave by the attendants.

'The ground upon which your declination is predicated is that the people are entitled to one year of peace and freedom from political battles and bitterness' and that a campaign this year would be a calamity to the state to be born again by a hastened canvass in the off-year in politics without any possible good to come of it."

KANSAS CITY FAILURE ECHO.

Creditors Want Siegel-Sanders Company Receiver Reappointed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—William A. Wilson, E. P. Webb and other claimants against the Siegel-Sanders Live Stock Commission company, today, through their attorneys, applied to the circuit court for an order to remove Utley Wedge, receiver for the company. The alleged reason is that Wedge unduly favors Frank Rockefeller, the principal stockholder in the firm. Wilson and Webb were both creditors of the old Siegel-Sanders company before it was reorganized by Rockefeller and others, and their claims, aggregating $25,000, were, it is alleged, disallowed by Wedge. Frank Siegel, former president of the company, is now out under bond on a charge preferred by Receiver Wedge of misappropriating funds of the firm to the extent of over $100,000.

PATIENT STILL VERY WEAK

Though Original Complaint Has Been Checked—Dr. Osler, of Johns Hopkins, Summoned in Consultation.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Hope of slow improvement in Mrs. McKinley's condition was held out by the attending physicians after an hour's consultation this morning, in which Dr. William Osler, of Baltimore, joined. Dr. Osler is a professor in the medical department of Johns Hopkins college and has a national reputation as a diagnostician. He was called in to add his knowledge and skill to that of the other three physicians, and the result of the consultation is considered encouraging. Mrs. McKinley had a comfortable night after a rather bad day yesterday, and Dr. Rixey did not arrive at the house until 9 o'clock this morning.

EVIL OF IMPERFECT LAWS.

"Observe that those evils prevail because of the imperfection of medical legislation, and that because these systems receive liberal patronage. The included influences are so great that until the latter is properly instructed it would be dangerous to attempt to amend our compromise acts of assembly with the purpose of perfecting the law and determining the natural death of these empty nothingnesses. The present partially corrective laws have been secured by a narrow margin that premature effort toward their amendment would be defeated by this phase of commercialism, and in some states result in the amendment of the law, the pool as they may be, which thus far have done at least a partial good."

FOOT OF THE IMPERFECT LAWS.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution.

Miscellaneous Business. Special Announcements. Reception of Delegates. Adjournment.

It is the custom throughout the country to address all letters to St. Paul which are meant to go to the capitol city of the North Star state, but it would be a fair guess to say that if letters should be addressed "Convention City," this week they would come to St. Paul.

The convention of the American Association of Life Insurance Examiners was held at Masonic Temple. New officers for the ensuing year were elected and many papers were read, all of them interesting to the delegates in attendance. Dr. T. J. McGowan, the outgoing president, said, among other things, that the association is but an infant, having been in existence only two years. It has, however, produced its first two summers and while somewhat delicate, it is a promising babe.

He believed that with the healthful Minnesota atmosphere, the medical counsel and skilled nursing, the constitution of the babe will become so fortified against the attack of the usual infantile afflictions that its future will be that of a healthy, strong, and useful member of the fraternity. It must be stated that in spite of the youthfulness of the association, it has produced a number of other in attendance at its convention yesterday. An interesting extract from the president's address follows:

ADDRESS BY A PRESIDENT.

"Life insurance companies view the service of the examiner from a business standpoint, and their efficiency is measured by the amount of business they protect the companies from assuming hazardous risks. Much complaint has been made by examiners against solicitors who are endeavoring to influence the examiner to the detriment of the company. Such acts of an agent is treachery and exposure of the trust which every member of this association will condemn. The idea that an examiner will intentionally deceive the company by which he is employed is an insinuation that fills me with indignation. I regret the inability of individuals before a proper tribunal to expose the frauds they attempt to practice. In referring to this matter I must state that I do not wish to be understood as imputing dishonesty or deception to insurance solicitors in general, for as a rule I believe them to be gentlemen worthy of their vocation, and for many of them I have a very high personal esteem."

Following are the officers of the association as elected yesterday: President, J. H. Stowell, Chicago; vice president, J. H. Reed, Battle Creek, Mich.; second vice president, "Surgical" Dr. W. F. Terwenty, Philadelphia; E. F. DeGrano, New York city; fourth vice president, George Halley, Kansas City; secretary-treasurer, Caney, Kansas.

FOOT OF THE IMPERFECT LAWS.

Following is the rest of the programme: Invocation, Rev. M. D. Edwards; address entitled, "How Should the Practice of Medicine Be Legally Defined?" by Dr.

Henry Beates Jr., of Philadelphia. In part the paper read:

"DIPLOMA MILLS CONDEMNED."

"The term 'diploma mill' is most appropriately applied to almost all of the 157 institutions in the United States possessing the right to confer the doctorate. But what does this mean when one is graduated from the point of view bearing upon the practicality of success fully administering these laws which a suffering public was obliged to enact in order to protect itself against the dire consequences of the fraudulently yet legally constituted doctors? Fraudulent because the degree is not what it is (a laurel), and therefore does not represent the consequences of the technical right conferred by law to grant the M. D. It means that a power has inaudibly developed side by side with the evolution of what passes for medical education the purpose for which it is rendered actively operative in the form of a debased commercialism, it too largely controls our legislature, so that very many representatives compromise for the sake of a few dollars a year the character of their efforts in behalf of proper medical education so weakened as to result in laws that thus far, are merely compromise measures."

"AUDACIOUSLY PRACTICED TRICK."

"This same commercial factor by its too frequently successful operation, has discovered the strange fact that there is not a definition of what constitutes the practice of medicine which, from a legal standpoint, serves the purposes for which medical law was intended and enacted. This charlatans were not slow to recognize, and the audaciously practiced artifice of assuming to treat disease under profession of non-employment of drugs or medicine not only enables them to thrive, but actively to obtain support for their nefarious practices because of the partial interpretation of medical law by our common and supreme courts. This fact renders impositions more bold and successful, the public to be duped, and its interests jeopardized by scientific charlatans who have had not even the advantages secured by pursuing its present end the wretchedly imperfect system of medical college training. Stranger still is the fact that a large number of our otherwise intelligent citizens patronize what I will now call practitioners of medicine who are known to have no knowledge of medical science."

"The corrective is the necessity for public enlightenment on these matters by the medical profession. And no more certain and potent aid can be invoked than that of the lay press. Lay press education along the proper lines will be not only interesting, but productive of the greatest good in securing to the earnest workers for higher medical education that support of the general public which will
