AMBUSHED NEGROES KILLED

Pair of Desperate Florida Blacks Pat Out of the Way. WELLSBORO, Fla., June 17.—News reached here today that Tom Thomas and Moses Maxwell, two desperate negroes, had been found dead in the road four miles east of this place. Maxwell had worked for W. R. O'Callan, a farmer, but having had a dispute with his employer, was driven from the plantation. Subsequently O'Callan went to Live Oak on the same side of Beech street as Mr. Keller, and there he was ambushed and killed by the two negroes. The whereabouts of O'Callan, they then left and stationed themselves on the roadside to await his return. Late in the afternoon a fusillade was heard and neighbors rushed to the scene to find both negroes dead. There is no evidence as to who fired the shots.

DESPERATE EFFORT MAKING TO SAVE YOUNG NEW YORKER FROM ELECTRIC CHAIR

BUFFALO, June 17.—The court of appeals today heard the first argument in a new trial for Roland B. Molinoux, the young New York city man, athlete and capitalist, under sentence of death for poisoning Mrs. Katherine J. Adams in December, 1898, who was the unintended victim of a plot, veiled by the use of the American post to take the life of Harry Corbish, manager of athletic sports, Judges Parler, Van, Bartlett, Gray, O'Brien, Haight and Wepler, in their gowns of black, sat upon the bench to hear the famous case, and down at the counsel's table were former United States Senator David Bennett Hill, who holds the brief of the people, and John G. Milburn, president of the Pan-American exposition, who advised the cause of the young prisoner at Sing Sing. With Hill sat Assistant District Attorney Lehar Baer, of New York, and grouped about as to his condition. The strongest defense was low S. Weeks, who defended Molinoux at his trial; Gen. Molinoux, father of the prisoner, and David N. Carvalho, handwriting expert, who advised the defense.

ADDRESS TO MADISON LAWS

Bourke Cockran Talks to Wisconsin University Graduating Class. MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 17.—A special to the Sentinel from Madison, Wis., says: Three thousand persons crowded the university gymnasium tonight to hear the address of W. Bourke Cockran, the New York politician, before the graduating class of the law department of the state university. Many prominent judges, including Judges Caspary, Winslow, and the state supreme court, were on the platform with the speaker. He held the letter of introduction from the relation of the lawyer to the state, and urged the young baristers not to be deceived by the local money market. He said, "Men of all ages, he said, had been misled by inflated rhetoric. The acquisition of wealth is being considered the measure of success in life. He scorned England for its war with the Boer republic, and said that Spain was forced on our administration. He then went on to say that a man can only succeed by being scrupulous and not by being a cheat."
