MINNESOTA ARTILLERYMEN MAKE POOR SHOWING AGAINST GUNNERS FROM WISCONSIN

SCORE WAS TEN TO NOTHING

Lack of Practice is Given as Reason for Minnesota's Overwhelming Defeat in First Day's Contest.

LAKE CITY, Minn., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—The first day's contest between the artillery companies of the Minnesota and Wisconsin teams, which resulted in a score of ten to nothing in favor of the Wisconsin team, was held at Camp Lakeview, Wis., today. The Minnesota team has been practicing at this point for three days previous to the contest. The feeling was general that Minnesota would not be able to compete with the Wisconsin team owing largely to the lack of practice. Wisconsin has been practicing with great diligence for a long time and is in the best possible shape, while Minnesota is sorely lacking in preparation. The artillery firing will be done only in the afternoons between the hours of 12 and 5. The general conditions of the contest were published some time ago in the Globe, but are given again in this report for the information of those who desire to follow the score.

Each state has a team of seven officers or enlisted men and two alternates. The senior officer of each team acts as captain, this making Maj. George C. Lambert captain of the Minnesota team, and Capt. J. S. Miller, captain of the Wisconsin team. The guns are numbered from 1 to 4, and alternately assigned to each team. The senior officer is called to provide its own ammunition. Each of the seven members of the state teams is given a target, and the number of hits, or trial spots, not to be counted, will be allowed each man preceding his team in the firing. The target is to be designed in such a manner that both teams will fire on the same day, and members of opposing teams are to alternate. Being obstructed, each member will fire within five minutes from the time the report of the last shot has been received. The target is ready.

Spots will be numbered consecutively on tally sheets by the officers and gunners. The name of the team or organization firing will not be mentioned. When a member of the team is called to fire, no further instruction will be given him. He will, however, be informed as to his position.

The Minnesota guard furnished transportation for the Wisconsin guard from the state line to get to the firing range, subsistence and quarters for the visiting team during its stay. It is thought that about the same will be necessary for the competition.

It is expected that many persons of prominence in national and local circles from other states will be here. Adj. Gen. R. Boardman, Wisconsin, and Adj. Gen. S. Miller, Minnesota, are expected today, as is also an officer from one of the Illinois batteries, and several others who have been invited to attend the contest.

George B. Wright Discovers a Cure for Lost Manhood and Sends It Free to Every Sufferer Who Will Write For It.

Gratitude is one of the noblest impulses of the human heart, and in few instances has this fine quality been so conspicuously exemplified as in the case of George B. Wright of Marshall, Mich., who was permanently cured of lost manhood and nervous debility after declining health for years. He now devotes his life to helping other men who suffer as he once suffered. Mr. Wright offers to send his famous prescription, which effected a cure in his case to every reader of the Globe, who is suffering today as he suffered. All who will drop him a letter stating their condition and their desire to receive it by return mail free of charge.

The following editorial by A. N. Tally, M. D., regarding Mr. Wright's prescription for lost manhood, appeared in a recent issue of the United States Health Reports, published at Washington, D. C.

"We, as the highest American authority on all matters of health, sanitation and hygiene, are constantly receiving letters of inquiry about a reliable cure for lost strength in men.

"Therefore, we have ordered an investigation to be made into the subject and our medical staff found there were many successful cures, but that the cures were worthless and some actually harmful. Therefore, when we came upon the prescription furnished by George B. Wright, a merchant of Marshall, Mich., we instituted a most thorough investigation, and we found that its wonderful efficacy depended upon its being exactly compounded according to the chemical formula which we have established the proper chemical actions and reactions in the human system, and that it should contain every ingredient named in the prescription, otherwise it would be worthless.

"Properly mixed and containing everything called for in the prescription, its power is wonderful and its nerve tonic properties easily surpassed all ordinary methods of medication.

"Among the benefactors of the race may be mentioned the said George B. Wright, of Marshall, Mich., who has graciously discovered free to all who write for it.

"Taken according to directions, it builds up the system, restores the strength and vigor of the nerve muscles, it brings hope and cheer and lifts up the discouraged and the downcast. It restores the beauties of nature and the pleasures of life. Failure in business and love surely falls away, and the sufferer is physically and mentally, and this sad condition is at once relieved and a new man of him who uses this prescription.

"Therefore, upon the highly favorable report of our medical staff, we have advised George B. Wright's prescription for lost manhood the full editorial and official consent of the United States Health Reports.

"As certain as a United States seal, and as sure as effect follows cause, do not fail to get this prescription, and its benefits in weakness and suffering. The tortured sufferer may bear no telltale marks of ruin upon his face to betray his lost strength. More than that, he may be able to do his duty as a man, and never tell of his sufferings for fear of shame. Such mental anguish at times drives him to the verge of insanity, and he is easy prey for those vulgar and unscrupulous quack doctors who hold out alluring hopes of cure only to disappoint, and after robbing him of his money, plunge him into a life of misery.

"No one can appreciate the horrors of lost manhood except he who has suffered them. No one can help such sufferers except the man who knows the cause, and can restore to full manhood. A notable cure of lost manhood in an extreme case was effected in the person of George B. Wright, of Marshall, Mich., a well known citizen of Marshall, Mich. Mr. Wright for years suffered the agony of lost vital power. He saw his physical condition gradually decline, and he was afflicted with a nervous disease, and the best doctors in the country gave him up to die. In many others, he tried the various remedies which were offered, but to no avail. He was treated with electricity, and it was this experience that drove him to a little study and research for his own relief.

"He asserts that his ten years suffering, both mentally and physically, was turned to unbounded joy in a single night when he discovered the cause of his ailment, and he has since then been able to do his duty as a man, and never tell of his sufferings for fear of shame. He is the prescription of this discovery that his enthusiasm leads him to offer free to every sufferer, young or old, who feels that his manhood is being lost, and who has no other man who needs something that will bring him up and enable him to be present for any undertaking which may be his duty.

"There is no question but what in his individual case the results were just as described, and it seems quite probable that the man who believes in himself to be weak may profit by sending for this prescription. Many people wonder how he can afford to send this prescription free to all who write for it. He says he feels a philanthropist, and in giving weak men an opportunity to cure themselves.

"A copy of G. B. Wright, medical dealer, Box No. 728, Marshall, Mich., for his free prescription, will be promptly sent to the man who writes for it by return mail. He has nothing to do but to write for it, and he will be glad to help his fellow men.

ANARCHISTS GO FREE

JUDGE CHETLIN ORDERS DISMISSAL OF NINE REBELS ARRESTED ON SUSPICION

NO REASON TO HOLD THEM

Emma Goldman Will Undoubtedly Be Ordered Released on Hearing Today Before Magistrate Prindiville.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The nine anarchists who have been under arrest here since the assassination of President McKinley were today given their freedom, Judge Chetlin so ordering after the prosecution had admitted that there was no legal evidence against them. Emma Goldman was today given her freedom, and she, as well as the nine men freed today, were today given their freedom. Judge Chetlin so ordering after the prosecution had admitted that there was no legal evidence against them. Emma Goldman was today given her freedom, and she, as well as the nine men freed today, were today given their freedom. Judge Chetlin so ordering after the prosecution had admitted that there was no legal evidence against them.

"We have no legal evidence against them," said the judge. "They were arrested at the request of the Buffalo authorities, and since their incarceration we have been in constant touch with the Eastern police, and it is my duty to inform you that Chief Beall had no evidence against them and I have also been informed that there is no intention of trying to extradite them. We are therefore willing that the relators be freed."

Attorney Geeting, for the relators, then demanded that in view of the gravity of the offense, which had been charged against the defendants, that the prosecution be required to state what cause, or what suspicions, weighed with the police in making the arrest.

Judge Chetlin said that in view of the fact that the prosecution represented both the city and the state, as well as Buffalo by indictment, had agreed to the liberation of the prisoners and admitted with all its native picturesqueness that there was no reason for further inquiry into the matter.

When arrested the charge against the relators was merely a misdemeanor and they were entitled to bail. The court said, "The case was one of such moment, however, and the whole nation was demanding of its officers their best efforts, that I felt justified in exercising all discretion in the matter, and therefore remanded without bail for further hearing, pending an investigation by the police. The president died from the assassin's bullet, and the prisoners this time were remanded without bail at their own request to allow the fullest investigation. Our duty has been fully done and now we have to order and do so."

The prisoners had been silent, their faces expressionless during the proceedings. When the court ordered the jail doors opened to the prisoners there was a trace of rejoicing on their faces.

The prisoners were led back to jail where they collected their belongings and then went down stairs where they met friends and men of their faith. For the first time they showed evidence of pleasure. Capt. Rev. of the police department, offered them protection on the way to their homes, and the editor of an anarchist paper, and looked upon as the leader of local anarchists, refused it. The party then departed in various directions.

Emma Goldman received the news of the liberation of her friends with a laugh. "I guess they'll have to let me go now," she said. "It has been shown that the men named as conspirators with me did not conspire; and I fancy they would have trouble trying to show that I conspired all by myself."

Assistant City Prosecutor Owen was asked by counsel for Goldman to bring Miss Goldman's case before Justice Prindiville this afternoon that she might be free tonight. He said he would consider the matter.

DUKE RIDES A RAFT THREAT BY REBELS

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES OF YORK AND CORNWALL AS RIVER DRIVERS

NOTIFIED CONSUL AT COLON THAT THEY WOULD ATTACK THE TOWN

BUT ATTACK WAS NOT MADE

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 23.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York spent today on the Ottawa river, and in the forest lining its banks, and were given a complete exposition of a lumberman's life with all its native picturesqueness. They shot the timber slides on rafts, lunched in a lumberman's shanty and enjoyed a day's outing amid novelties.

The royal party was brought in from Rideau Hall on a specially fitted electric car, and boarded six rafts at Oregon street. The rafts were manned by half a dozen rivermen in red shirts and blue jeans, and from the one assigned to the duke and duchess floated the royal standard. Beside the members of the royal party, the governor general and the Countess of Minto, Premier Laurier and Lady Laurier, representatives of the lumber trade, and the newspaper correspondent traveling with the dual party, were the only ones to make the trip.

The rafts were floated down the stream, and then in succession, sent whirling through the slides, and dropping forty-four feet in a quarter of a mile. Every minute the rafts were crowded with people who cheered wildly as the royal couple floated quickly past on their exhilarating ride. Scores of river craft of every kind waited below the slides, and there was a repetition of the cheering. The cribs were quickly collected and the passengers taken off in birch bark canoes. The whole flotilla then proceeded down the river to Rockcliffe point. A landing was made at the club house of the Ottawa Canoe Club, from the veranda of which the duke and duchess witnessed the usual sports.

The lumbermen first gave an exhibition of their skill in handling logs in the water, and a series of LOG-ROLLING CONTESTS.

In which the losing man was invariably ducked. The river sports closed with an exciting race of wascans. Seven crews of five men in each canoe. The pace was very fast, with a desperate spurt at the finish. The Grand Trunk and the Ottawa Canoe Club, of Montreal, won the race, and the Ottawa Canoe Club of Ottawa were third. The duke and duchess were then escorted to Rockcliffe park, where in the midst of a heavy growth of trees and brush a lumberman's shanty had been thrown. Fifty red shirted woodsmen lined up to receive them, and they were shown at once to the shanty.

A great open fire burned in the middle of the log-walled house, and the smiling cook announced in patois that dinner was ready. He offered steaming pork and beans and other staples of bush life, and the duchess sampled each. A large tent that stood next to the shanty was stocked with the fare of civilization and the duke and duchess were shown at once to the shanty.

After lunch the lumbermen gave an exhibition of their wood craft. They attacked a great tree with their axes, felled it, sawed it into logs and piled them up, and then they danced on a rough platform to the music of a violin.

In the hands of one of their number, and sang the songs of the old voyageurs. When they finished they were gathered together by the duke and duchess and thanked. He said:

"The duchess and I thank you very much. We have seen many interesting things on our Ottawa trip, and you are most interesting than this."

William Whistle, the French Canadian foreman of the camp, replied to the duke, and his speech strongly marked by the dialect of his race, was highly amusing. It dealt with his own woes and debts and the duke and duchess who faced him could not restrain their laughter.

The duke and duchess returned to Rideau Hall on the special car.

Late in the afternoon a committee representing the ladies of Ottawa called at Rideau Hall on the special car, and presented a mink cape. Lady Laurier made the presentation, and the duchess in reply expressed her appreciation and thanks.

Building

Requires a foundation. That is just as true of the building up of the body as of the building of a house. The foundation of health, have never left the slightest. No mat can be stronger than his stomach. A weak stomach means a weak man.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food which is eaten. Thus it builds up the body and restores strength in the only way known to Nature or to science—by digested and assimilated food.

"While living in Charlotte, N. C., my medical care was of assistance and I. L. Lumsden, Esq. of 221 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga. 'At that time life was a burden to me. After spending hundreds of dollars under numerous doctors I was dying by inches. I weighed only 115 pounds. In twenty days after I commenced your treatment I was well of both troubles, and in six months I weighed 170 pounds, and was in the best of health. I have never felt the slightest symptom of either since. An sixty-five years old, I would not return to the condition I was in in October, 1897, for Rockefeller's wealth."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery," when a laxative is required.

WHO WILL BE CHIEF?

NORTH DAKOTANS SPECULATING AS TO WHO WILL REPRESENT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

HANSBROUGH IS IN FAVOR

Senator and President Have Been Warm Friends Ever Since the Latter Was a Ranchman.

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—North Dakotans are speculating on whom President Roosevelt will select as his right hand man in this state. There are many men mentioned for the honor, but the claims of some are rather weak. The leading man who is supposed to be in line are Senator Hansbrough, Alex. McKenzie and Mel. J. S. Murray. They are all men of high standing in the state. Under the McKinley administration Col. W. H. Robinson, of Mayville, has been the whole thing. For four years he was a member of the national committee and was chairman of the state Republican central committee as well. His selection was due to a business acquaintance with Mark Hanna. Col. Robinson's O. K. was an absolute necessity on the application of any candidate for a prominent appointment and he succeeded in rewarding a large number of friends. Personally he got the best thing in the state in the way of the post trusteeship at the Indian agency at Standing Rock.

Last year he was returned from the national committee to make place for Alex. McKenzie. From the latter's prominence may have picked him as a winner in the race for chief henchman for Roosevelt. Because he was intimately associated with Mark Hanna he is regarded in some quarters as inimical to his chances with the new president.

Senator Hansbrough is probably the favorite in the minds of the prominent men of the party and in addition to residing at the Fargo meeting, he spoke in a decidedly complimentary strain of former rough rider. After the McKinley funeral Hansbrough was among the first to call at the White house and pay his respects to the new occupant. His welcome was of such a cordial nature as to encourage him to accept of North Dakota's senator seat.

Hansbrough comes up for re-election at the next session of the legislature. He will need some strong supporters and the support and recognition from President Roosevelt would insure him a government job in the upper branch of the national congress for another six years. The chances now favoring Hansbrough will have hard sledding without the support of the administration. He has lots of opposition and among the aspirants for his place are some persons who believe such snags as United States senatorial positions should rotate. The further fact that North Dakota has been reappointed in a legislative way to make his chances more difficult. All former alignments have been upset and nothing definite can be estimated.

Mal. J. S. Murray, who has been engaged a long and close personal relationship with Roosevelt, which some a little will result profitably to the latter. He has known the president since the earliest days on the ranch. They are men who have many things in common. Murphy is a brilliant speaker and long on nerves. He has been up against the warm front of state politics repeatedly for failure to legislate himself—if with the power in control, but this may assist rather than handicap him with Roosevelt. Murphy has a large personal following in the state who will enjoy seeing him on top for awhile.
