MINNESOTA IS FIRST

SECURES HIGHEST AWARD OF MEDALS AT PAN-AMERICAN LEADS ALL OTHERS EASILY BEATS OTHER STATES IN THE UNION IN GENERAL EXCELLENCE OF ITS PUBLIC AND PRIVATE EXHIBITS.

The Pan-American exposition has given the state of Minnesota more advertising than it ever received before. The praises of the "Great North Star" have been sung by the visitors since the opening of the exposition, and now at the close, the North Star state triumphs beyond any or her competitors.

Minnesota gets the gold medal for educational exhibit, while no other state receives even honorable mention in this particular. The butter model of the new state capitol, made by Sculptor Daniels, and which was admired by thousands and written up in all the Eastern papers, receives a gold medal also.

Four of the six bronze medals are for lumber exhibited in the state four booth, while the fifth is for the grain and grass figure in the agricultural booth and the sixth is for soap exhibited. Honorable mention is for part of the flour booth.

Private exhibitors, among other state auspices, Pillsbury-Washburn company, gold medal for "Pillsbury's Best"; Washburn-Crosby company, gold medal for "Gold Medal" flour; Erickson Artistic Lumber, Minneapolis, gold medal for artificial limbs; the Brake company, St. Paul, gold medal for polished, silted wood, and bronze medal for petroleum.

Alexander Campbell of Austin, Dodge Center Roller Mills, Frazee Roller Mills company, of Pelican Rapids, and Weston Milling company, St. Cloud, each get a bronze medal for their part of the state flour exhibit.

WILL DECIDE

GOVERNOR HAS EXTRADITION OF HENRY SUMMERS UNDER CONSIDERATION AFRAID HE WILL BE LYNCHED

Gov. Van Sant heard arguments yesterday afternoon upon the question of the extradition of the colored man, known as Henry Summers, who has been a requisition from the governor of Tennessee, in which, it is charged, that Summers murdered a white man in Bolivar, that state a year ago.

Attorney McGhee, who appeared on behalf of Summers, said he had written to Hardeman county, Tennessee, for affidavits to show that if Summers were taken back there he would be in danger of mob violence, but his correspondent had replied that he had been unable to secure such affidavits for the reason that it would be extremely dangerous for any resident of that section to furnish any such testimony, and while those to whom he had applied were convinced that such was the case, they were afraid, for reasons affecting their personal safety, to swear to a statement to that effect.

Rev. J. C. Anderson, appeared to urge the governor to grant a writ of habeas corpus, and a petition signed by colored citizens was presented. Sheriff Sammons, of Hardeman county, Tennessee, who came to this city after Summers, said that he was in his opinion the prisoner would be in no danger of mob violence. The excitement caused by the case, he said, had entirely died away here, and he was firmly convinced that a fair trial would be had. Moreover, he declared that no person had ever been lynched in Hardeman county.

Gov. Van Sant took the case under advisement, and it is expected will announce his decision today. Beside the appeal to the governor on the ground that the prisoner will not be granted a fair trial if taken back to Bolivar, Attorney McGhee has filed an objection to the papers of requisition on the ground that the description is insufficient, and that the description furnished does not fully establish the fact that the man now under arrest in this city is the one who is wanted in Hardeman county for the crime of murder.

DID NOT WANT TO WALK

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY APPROPRIATES HIS FRIEND'S HORSE

Arrested by Washington County Sheriff, the Boy Insists That He Only Took the Horse to Avoid Walking.

Because he did not care to walk from Stillwater to St. Paul, Henry Franklin, a youth of fourteen years, in the hands of Sheriff Smith, of Washington county.

Franklin lives with his parents at Fifth and Willis streets, and his family has recently moved to Stillwater. While they lived in that town, young Franklin had for a playmate and chum a lad, Lawrence Luschinger, who owned a pony. The Luschinger boy was in the habit of loaning the pony to Franklin for short rides, and yesterday about noon he missed the horse.

Franklin's pony had been at Stillwater in the morning, and young Luschinger took up the clue on his own account and followed Franklin to St. Paul. Not finding him there, he called on a neighbor and told him of his suspicions. Officer Galvin and the boy confronted young Franklin, and the latter admitted that he had taken the horse.

He said that he did not have any other way to get back to St. Paul, so he appropriated the horse and rode it as far as Lake Elmo, where he got a chance to ride it to the city. When he returned the horse loose, claiming that he thought it would find its way back to Stillwater.

Sheriff Smith came up from Stillwater about 4:30 yesterday afternoon and took the boy back with him. Franklin said that he took the horse, but that he had no intention of stealing it, and he is sure it would find its way home again.

The sheriff and the boys stopped off at Lake Elmo to look for the horse. The authorities are at a loss as to what to do with the boy. The Luschinger boy and he have been companions and playmates, and if the horse turns up, the case will probably be dropped.

NOTHING DEFINITE YET

MEMORIAL FOR BISHOP WHIPPLE NOT DECIDED UPON.

It is ascertained that the proposed memorial for Bishop Whipple, which has been taken up by the prominent Episcopal clergyman to the Globe last evening. "That some sort of memorial will be erected is certain, but it is not possible that any particular memorial has been decided upon or that the majority of the local clergy has decided upon what form the memorial shall take. It is hardly possible that some wealthy churchman of this diocese has decided to contribute the cost of the memorial. I certainly have not heard of any such thing, and I know of no one who has. The matter was brought up at the meeting of the clergy Monday for the purpose merely of starting the ball of discussion rolling. No conclusion was arrived at, and the matter has been left to the fall dinner, which is given every year by the Episcopal clergyman of this diocese, when it will be again discussed and the matter of the memorial decided upon. The dinner will be given late in November.

Other Episcopal clergyman also expressed their assurance that the memorial to Bishop Whipple will take. Most of them expressed the opinion that it would be better to go about the matter slowly, and decide on a memorial that would be satisfactory not only to the clergy and laymen of the Episcopal church, but to Bishop Whipple's many friends outside the church as well, than to decide hastily on something that to the end would prove unsatisfactory.

HONOR A GOOD MAN

FATHER MATHEW'S ANNIVERSARY APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED IN ST. PAUL

In observance of the anniversary of the birth of Father Mathew, the Sacred Thirst society gave an entertainment at the Cretin hall last evening, in which the Father Mathew society and the Crusaders united.

Father Mathew was born in Ireland Oct. 10, 1790, and began his career as a native country the zealous, effective and self-sacrificing work in the interest of total abstinence which has caused his name to be known in every part of the world. He has been dead for nearly a half century. He spent two years of his life in America, and in the course of that time administered the pledge of total abstinence to 600,000 persons. There was present at the meeting of last evening Thomas Grace, of this city, who received the pledge from Father Mathew in Ireland nearly fifty years ago.

In the absence of T. J. Doyle, state president of the Sacred Thirst society; Miss Mary Ramsey, who is state secretary, presided. On the platform sat Archbishop Ireland, accompanied by Father Lawler.

The principal address of the evening was made by the archbishop, who said in part: "I have come here this evening to bring back the pleasures of total abstinence to you. It is possible for me to be with you more frequently than I can now, and I am glad to see you here. I have a great number of you, the faithful disciples of the good cause. I see one who took the pledge from Father Mathew himself, and one who took the pledge from myself many years ago."

HONORING A GREAT MAN.

"We have come together to honor the man of whom I have just spoken, and how can we do that better than by resolving to renew our efforts in carrying on his noble work? It is half a century since he passed to his final rest, but his work still goes on. See how many of our services rendered to others live after us. In our distant lands Father Mathew had the courage to take up his noble work on behalf of mankind, and although he has passed away, there are others to still carry on the work, following his example. We cannot hope to do this unless we perform a good deed in every day's lives. Our good works will be as far-reaching, but every good deed has its effect. No one lives for himself only. We are all members of one family, and we are all dependent upon those with whom we are brought in contact. When we perform a good deed it gives an impression upon a member of our family, neighbor or friend, and may not see its effect, but God sees it. And from generation to generation so will it be—that you do now may bear fruit in generations to come. We are not doing our duty unless we are exerting an influence for good upon others. Our very silent example has its effect upon the actions of others."

"As an apprenticeship in doing good we should set for ourselves one line of work. Total abstinence, for instance, is a very good line to begin with—you could not find a better. It involves self-denial, which is the root of all well-doing. Total abstinence is the very way to success in every other line of work. Particularly should women suffer most from the effects of intemperance. It is a great blessing to be able to resolve upon total abstinence for herself, as her example and influence will be brought into contact with her father or son. Then she should say: 'There shall be no liquor brought into my house, and I will be strictly abstemious.' After that her influence upon the members of her family may be brought to bear to bring them to total abstinence also."

"Many people are guided in this respect by the example of others. It is the fashion to have a little wine for their friends, they feel that they must do as the world does, and they do not think of the ill-guided portions of society, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of the world. It is the fashion of the ill-guided portions of society, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of the world. It is the fashion of the ill-guided portions of society, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of the world."

"The man who is now the president of the United States does not have it on the tongue for his own sake, but for the sake of the world. It is the fashion of the ill-guided portions of society, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of the world. PRESIDENT SCHIFFMANN DECIDES TO SUMMON THE JOINT BODY TO CHOOSE A COMMISSIONER

STRINGENT CONDITIONS FOR FRANCHISE OF IMPERIAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY LIKELY TO BE ACCEPTED

THE IMPERIAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY will accept the ordinance in its present shape.

Republican Members May Absent Themselves, but Attempt Will Be Made to Fill County Commission Vacancy.

In View of Future Developments, It Is Thought That the Drastring Stipulations Will Be Accepted To.

EX-POLICEMAN IS HURT FRANK NOREEN RUNS INTO CAR WHILE ON BICYCLE.

President Schiffmann will call a meeting of the common council either this week or the first of next, at which time another attempt will be made to fill vacancies on the board of county commissioners caused by the removal of George B. Whitehorse.

If the views of the council and the legal department coincide and the Imperial Manufacturing company, now engaged in soliciting the city for a franchise to engage in the business of selling and transmitting heat, light and power, is agreeable to the conditions imposed, the statute books of the city will shortly contain an ordinance, the requirements of which possibly have never been duplicated.

Frank Noreen, an ex-policeman, who was formerly attached to the Margaret street station, was injured in a street car accident at Bradley and Seventh streets yesterday afternoon. Noreen was riding a bicycle and turned a corner sharply and ran directly into a moving car. He was thrown to the ground, his wheel going under the car and he himself striking the side of the car and sustaining a severe gash in the side of his head. He was removed to his home on Cass street, and Dr. Earl, who was called in, put six stitches in the wound. The wheel was entirely detached.

Taking advantage of a provision of the charter, nine of the Democratic members of the two bodies have presented to him a signed petition asking that the meeting be called and he has since intimated that their request would be granted. The charter permits a call at the signed request of three or more members and it will be on this basis that the members of the two bodies will be invited to come forward and settle a controversy that threatens to be long drawn out.

The petition is minus the names of Ald. Hunt and Schiffmann, but the latter being president of the board of aldermen, the absence of his name has no significance. His answer to their request in the issuance of the call is sufficient evidence of his policy.

Attend the private night school for reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic and grammar. Classes begin Oct. 15. Lancaster Shortland School, Germania Life Building, Fourth and Minnesota streets.

Unless the presence of at least two Republicans is secured there can be no election. Ald. Hunt has declined to attend counts for anything he is pledged to a party other than the caucus nominees, Weyl and Arend. The latter is considered the caucus nominee, but there will be some lively scattering if he fails to pull down the plum on the first ballot. Weyl has been working industriously ever since the contest opened and claims enough supporters to demoralize Arend's chances.

This state of affairs adds to the strength of the predictions that the dark horse will win, and already two resolutions bearing the names of as many candidates have been prepared for presentation at the meeting of the board of aldermen next week. One of the aldermen who signed the call for the meeting of the common council is credited with saying that if failure results, the situation will be accepted. The assembly will then be asked to make good its alleged desire to end the controversy by accepting any good man selected by the aldermen.
