SPORTS IN AND OUT OF DOORS VARICOCEL

Interesting Discussion by Famou Badger Player-Thinks Minnesota Is Vulnerable at Tackle.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 13.—One of the most interesting opinions on the outcome of the Minnesota-Wisconsin game comes form "Big" John Richards, of Wisconsin, who played fullback on the Badger teams every year from 1893 to 1896, inclusive, and captained the eleven in his last two years. He will be long remembered at Wisconsin as the hardest line bucker the Badgers ever had and one of their best all-round ever had and one of their both the players and captains. Richards also rowed No. 5 on the 1894 crew, and was on the track team for your years, where he made the record of 15 4-5 seconds in the high hurdles, which still stands as the Western mark in that event.

He has watched Minnesota play two games this fall, and sizes up the situation in a letter written Sunday to a friend in Milwaukee. Speaking of the game, Badger ex-captain writes:
'I am uncertain as to the outcome, but

I am sure it will not be a flasco like the Chicago-Wisconsin game of 1899. Min-nesota is confident to a surprising degree. They are good, but I'm sure they can be beaten, and, contrary to the general opinion, I think they are weak on offense. Their defense is fine, except for a fast play outside of tackle, and they can't stop that; at least, when I have seen them they did not. Their men are huge and know a lot about their positions. They charge beautifully, bunch at the point of attack quickly and pile up against line plays in great style.
"But they tackle around the ears, with one or two exceptions, and their offense is lumbering. It is slow in forming, and it seems to me that, should our men go into the game fit and strong, they can stop them. Minnesota can stand more punishment than any team in the country."

Mr. Richards has not seen Wisconsin play this fall, so he says nothing about the Badgers, but to anyone who has witnessed their work the above, from so competent a critic, is highly relevant. No man in the West is more competent to judge a football team than the big excaptain. He knows Wisconsin's game from "A. to Z," and played on two teams that beat the Gophers, the 1894 and 1896 elevens. Besides this, he played in two losing games against Minnesota, and has never held them cheap. If his estimate of Minnesota's play is accurate, it throws a new light on the situation, for no one has yet had the temerity to raise a question as to Minnesota's offense.

aggressive team; an offense team par ex cellence. The suggestion that Minnesota is not strong against a fast play outside of tackle is encouraging to Wisconsin partisans, who have seen Cochems' and arson's phenomenally fast dashes at that position. If this condition manifests itself in the Gophers' play Saturday, the big crowd will see something that will

On the whole, the opinion given is remarkably conservative, which accounts for its being given to the public, as it came in a personal letter. It is encourcame in a personal letter. It is encouraging, yet Mr. Richards' friends remember him as an optimist, so his size-up of the situation will hardly make Wisconsin a very heavy favorite in the betting. It degree happier the people who have their business already arranged so that they

"DOPE" SYSTEM AGAIN.

The Way "Experts" Figure Wisconsin Victory.

A Chicago football expert figures Wisonsin a winner next Saturday. He says that after the decisive defeat of Iowa by Illinois, it becomes quite apparent that Iowa has been greatly overestimated this year and last. The writer never agreed in lauding the Iowa team to the skies, as was done in 1899 and 1900. In 1899 Iowa did nothing except tie Chicago in an early did nothing except the Chicago in an early season practice game. Last year the Hawkeyes defeated Chicago and Michigan easily by one-sided scores, both losing teams being unusually weak. And on this was built lowa's reputation, Illinois is known this year not to be unusually strong—in fact, it cannot be classed as strong—in fact, it cannot be classed as better than second-class, since North-western defeated it handily. Illinois, by defeating Iowa so decisively, would tend to show that Minnesota, too, has been overestimated, for the Gophers were able to defeat Iowa by only three touchdowns. If Illinois could do so much better than Minnesota against Iowa, it stands to reason that Wisconsin ought to have a cinch next Saturday at Madison, and that Northwestern and Illinois both have a chance to beat the Giant Gophers.

IMPORTANT ATHLETIC MOVE.

Collegiates to Form Alliances With

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—An alliance between the Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association and the Amateur Athletic union, it is said, may be the next thing on the programme. Since the acquittal of Merrill, the Beloit football star, a few weeks ago by the A. A. U., and the more recent decision against Williams, of Iowa, by the conference, the authorities have been figuring on some arrangement that would allow the decisions of the intercollegiate association and the athletic union to be formally recognized by each other.

Negotiations to this end have been carried on for some time by the A. A. U. The managing committee of the I. C. A. A. A. U.

A. will doubtless take action on the matter at its meeting, which will probably be called this week.

The alliance would have the venerable precedent of that entered into by the defunct Western Intercollegiate Athletic association. The old agreement proved useful to each party, and it is considered likely that the managing committee will follow the example.

The A. A. U. is anxious to have the collegians take the step. A letter received by President Bates of the Conference association from President Liginger of the A. A. U. is to this effect. The college men are notified that it would be their privilege to send four delegates to the national meeting to be held in New York in a few weeks.

the national meeting to be held in New York in a few weeks.

Elements in both associations have for some time been of the opinion that an agreement between them would be advantageous, and the recent trials of college athletes have called attention more sharply to the contenuon. The case of Merrill, of Beloit, was of great influence in the case. Merrill was discharged by the A. A. U. If Merrill had been declared guilty of a breach of amateur rules the present tacit agreement between the two organizations might have proved insufficient and the conference men and the A. A. U. might have been

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—According to the World, Jimmy Michael, king of pace followers on the bicycle, has once more made up his mind to become a crack jockey. Michael forsook the bicycle for the thoroughbred several years ago, with indifferent success. Finally he disposed of his horses as best he could and again interested himself in bicycle riding. brought into conflict. The collegians might have considered Merrill had been unjustly condemned.

While the matter passed away pleasantly enough, yet it was seen that some better understanding might be advantageous. The recent meeting of the faculty representatives of the conference gaves the opportunity, and President Bates, of the Intercollegiate Conference association, broached the subject to Chairman Pattengill, of the faculty conference. The latter expressed himself as in favor of the plan.

The alliance, however, will not go through without more or less of a contest. Not all of the managing committee of the association are in favor of the plan. Some believe that it would cripple the usefulness of the college organization to have it bound to the rules of the other body.

Terry McGovern will close his theatrical engagement for the time being next Saturday night, and then journey to Hartford, Conn., where he is scheduled to meet "Young Corbett" on the afterneon of Thanksgiving day.

Dan McLeod, the California wrestler, has agreed to throw Ed Atherton, of Buffalo, five times in an hour for $250 a side and the gate receipts, the winner to take all. The match is to be decided in Buffalo Friday night.

Dexter, of the Chicagos, has more fielding averages than any other player in the league. He played more than fifteen games in the outfield, at third base and behind the bat. Quite a number of players secured two averages.

It is hard to make Jim Jeffries understand that Bob Fitzsimmons has really retired from the roped arena and still harder to make him understand that James J. Corbett really wants to fight him again for the championship.

Joe Walcott will put up his first fight in the East in over a year at Wilmington, Del., on Nov. 15. He will meet Jack Bonner, the coal miner from Summit Hill, Pa., in a fifteen-round battle before the Wilmington Athletic club.

Tom Williams, the well known Australian boxer, is out with a challenge to meet any 145 or 150-pound man in the country. He has been in harness a number of years, but thinks he can still hold his end up with any of the welterweights. Now the American league, with the downfall of Tammany, is counting upon breaking into Gotham. Ban Johnson is all agog over the chance of having New York added to the circuit, and states that every effort will be made to place a club in that city.

Selee says he has no use for men who will sign two contracts, and is in sympathy with President Hart, of the Chicago club, who is willing to pay for what players he takes from the minor leagues, and wants nothing but men with clean reputations on the team.

Frank Selee says there is no truth in the story going the rounds that he is after Elberfeld of the Detroit club for the reason that Elberfeld has signed for next season, and he had not dropped to the standard of a manager trying to get players to jump contracts.

President Shearer of the Montreal President Shearer, of the Montreal club, is on record as saying that unless money could be raised his outfit would retire from the Eastern league. The Pat Powers organization certainly had a troublesome six months the past season, and more than one of the cities fell by the Terra Haute Possel.

The Terre Haute Baseball association has signed Leon Walters, the former pitcher for Grand Rapids, to succeed Krieg as manager next season. He was second baseman and captain last season, and will continue at second, it being the purpose of the management to have a playing manager instead of one on the bench.

Frank Hahn, the crack southpaw of the Cincinnati club, has signed a contract to pitch for the Reds next season. Hahn will receive one of the highest salaries paid to a National league player, his contract calling for $4,200. Hahn is wanted badly by two American league clubs, and this fact enabled him to secure the princely salary he signed for. Joe Cantillon, of Ban Johnson's staff of unspires, is organizing a team of American leaguers to spend December in California. He is counting upon forming the following team: Sullivan, catcher; Bernhard, Mercer and Callahan, pitchers; Davis, first base; Lajde, second base; Bradley, third base; Irwin short stop; "Lefty" Davis, left field; Jimmy Barrett, center field, and Pickering, right field.

Tom O'Rourke is out in an interview with the statement there will be a revival of boxing in New York state early next year, as he has "information" that the legislature will pass a bill legalizing limited round contests. This announcement has been made before, but this time it is supposed to have foundation in fact, coming as it does from the supposed-to-be-well-informed O'Rourke.

The time for filing applications for tickets to the annual game between Annapolis and West Point closed Saturday, and the demand for pasteboards to see the soldiers and sailors at Uncle Sam academies is as heavy as usual. This means that there are three or four times as many applications as there are seats. The game will be played at Philadelphia on Nov. 30, and in view of the strength of the two teams this season it should prove unusually interesting.

Manager Hanlon is as emphatic in denying the story that his team would be moved to Washington as ever he was. The Brooklyn club has too much money invested where it is to think of moving.

Two matches, in both of which Chicago fighters will be the participants, have been arranged by the Olympic club, of St. Louis. Saturday night Maurice Rauch and Billy Rotchford are to meet in a fifteen-round contest, and a week later Eddie Santry and Ole Olson will furnish the sport.

Danny Dougherty, of Philadelphia, Terry McGovern's sparring partner, was knocked out Monday night in the second round of what was to have been a fifteen round bout by Harry Forbes, of Chicago. Harry Stout, manager of Otto Sieloff, stated that he would at once acecpt the terms offered by a Wisconsin club of a purse of $500 for a match between Sieloff and Martin Duffy, the money to be divided, $400 to the winner and $100 to the loser. Stout wants the fight to be at 135 pounds ringside.

Gresham Poe, the last of the present generation of football players in the family, is having a hard time of it in keeping up the reputation of his brothers. He has the ability to play football possessed by the rest of the family all right, but is gaining a reputation for being unlucky. He has been injured several times in practice, and on this account has never had a chance to try for the 'varsity eleven. He is now a Princeton senior, and may yet make good if his luck takes a turn for the better, as his work is admitted by the coaches to be up to the 'varsity standard.

In his jumor year he was president of his class.

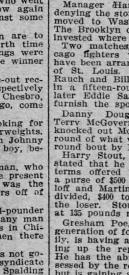

Speaking of the ethical side of football, President Thwing, of Western Reserve university, says: "Football stands for that side and relation of college life which demand the hardness and endurance of the soldier. Secondly, football illustrates the value of the positive. Thirdly, football, in its ethical relations, represents the value of a compelling interest. Fourthly, football further embodies the process of self-discovery. Football proves to many a man what he is. It makes him know that he has more or less physical strength than he believed he had In intellectual vision or prevision it shows him whether he is more or less alert. Football develops self-restraint, and self-restraint, or, more broadly, self-control, is one of the primary signs of a gentleman."

The Eastern "rooters" have commenced

The Eastern "rooters" have commenced rehearsing for the big game, and there will be several new songs and yells in evidence at each of the 'varsities when the championship games are on. Harvard and Pennsylvania both exhibited several new selections Saturday. Harvard has a new-song which runs to the tune of "Dolly Gray," and which will be sprung on Yale. The first stanza runs as follows:

George Siler has lost his position as referee of the West End Athletic club of St. Louis. Manager Haughton explains that he has secured Joe Stewart, a local man, for the place, as he does not care to have to depend upon Chicago for an official. There was considerable complaint there over several decisions made by Siler. Especially was this the case in the Dixon-Attell and Forbes-Attell fights. Jack McKenna, manager of Attell, writes that Siler permitted Forbes to use all sorts of foul tactics, which not only lost the chances of victory for Attell, but came near ending his ring career.

"Win" Mercer, the former big leaguer, and a member of Jimmy Manning's twirling staff at Washington city the past season, is the latest player reported for a position under Charley Comiskey in 1902. Mercer was with the big league barn-storming team, which reached St. Louis the past week from the far South, While many of the players laid over in While many of the players laid over in the city for a visit, Mercer went straight through to Chleago, and was in conference with Johnson and Comiskey all day Thursday. He admitted that he had been made a tempting offer to join the White Stockings, and that if he can secure his release from Washington he will make the switch.

release from Washington he will make the switch.

Matthews, of Harvard, is not the first colored man who has come out of Andover and been a good football player. George Chadwell, of the class of 1900, at Williams, was a first-class end, one who, it is thought, would have been good enough for the 'varsity team had he entered one of the bigger colleges. He played four years at Williams, and was a fast, aggressive and sportsmanlike player, in fact, a capable all-around end. He attracted attention in the Williams game against Yale in 1898. The other end was a weak spot on the Williams team, and Yale attacked it. Chadwell more than once ran around behind from his own end and nalied the back for a loss. In his junior year he was president of his class.

Speaking of the ethical side of football,

Good-bye, Eli, you're a goner,
Your line of blue begins to fail,
Something tells me we are looking
For another score on Yale.
See the crimson banners waving,
And the band begins to play—
Hark, I hear the fellows cheering,
For this is Harvard's day:

What is probably the shortest history on record has recently been written by Senor Carlos Escribans, a Peruvian gentleman. It is only one hundred words in length, and was awarded a gold medal offered by the Society of the Founders of Independence, Lima, for the best history of Peru, comprised within that number of words. Here is the English translation:

of words. Here is the English translation:

"The Asiatic origin of the primitive Peruvians admitted, their rudimentary civilization ended with the appearance of Manco Capac, founder of the Incaempire. His thirteen successors, continuing his policy, constituted that vust theocratic and communistic monarchy which astonished the world. Conquered by Pizarro (1538), it became a Spanish colony, whose fourteen viceroys kept it in mediaeval darkness, and whose heavy yoke provoked-the independence proclaimed by San Martin (1821), cemented by Bolivar and Sucre at Junin and Ayacucho. The republic established, anarchy supervened. Presidents rapidly succeeded, until the disastrous war with Chile, which, chastening minds, has prepared the future."—London News.
