PASTORS' ALLIANCE COMMITTEE GIVES OUT NOTHING FOR PUBLICATION

VICE CONTINUES FOR A MONTH

Committee Hard at Work Gathering Evidence—Will Make an Exhaustive Report in the Near Future.

The morals of the city of Minneapolis will continue to run for another month. The slumming committee these matters and report at a general appointed about a month ago to look into meeting yesterday held at the Y. M. C. A. building, was on hand, and made a partial report.

It is only possible to draw upon the imagination as to what was the nature of the reports made. The reason for this is the refusal of the committee to admit reporters.

Enough was leaked to conjecture that the vice that is rampant, according to the committee, in the city of Minneapolis has grown to such proportions that the small squads of four men were entirely too short a time limit for the committee to enter more than a small part of the territory.

One of the ministers said: "We are gathering all the facts possible, and when we do strike it will come right from the shoulder, and the shame that exists in the city will be laid bare in such a manner that it will cause the most barren to blush."

When asked why the reporters were barred, he said: "We are not yet ready to enlist the services of the papers, but as soon as we are, we will be only too glad to give them our entire findings, and shall ask for their co-operation and support, but at the present time the reports are merely addresses has been made and would injure the cause instead of being of assistance."

Two women were present at the meeting, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Perry. Mrs. Perry, in talking in a general way about the committee, said that she had seen the woman and I am not afraid to get up and declare myself and talk openly about where I have been, and I believe in minding matters, but come right out flat-footed and tell what I know. The committee will strike right at the root of the thing without fear or favor. Now, if the men would only do this, it would not take very long to purify the moral atmosphere of this city. There were about fifty ministers present at the meeting and previous to the report of the committee, the papers were given to an able paper read by Rev. C. J. Tanner, on "Evils of Christmas Giving." The speaker went on to say that the churches should combat this evil by preaching against it, and endeavor to have it more of the past.

DIRECTUM HAS ARRIVED.

The Great Trotting Stallion Registers at His Future Home.

The great trotting stallion, Directum, is now safely housed in his home, 2000 Park avenue, Minneapolis. He was driven to his new home in a special car, and arrived at an early hour yesterday morning. Three others accompanied him, brought by Mr. Savage, the owner of the stallion. Directum is a yearling, who is already entered in races that aggregate $20,000 in purses. He is a fine specimen of the breed, and is expected to be a great winner. Mr. Savage, in speaking about the purchase of Directum, says there was an early party in his absence, and some one, supposed to be George H. Ketchum, to buy Directum and was instructed to bid the stallion for $10,000. Mr. Savage raised it $10,000, and the gentleman who had bid the stallion for $10,000, and returned only to find that the great horse had been sold in his absence. Mr. Savage immediately sought the purchaser and offered him $25,000 for his bargain. Mr. Savage refused to sell, as he had bought the horse in the interest of breeding, and he was firmly of the belief that there were great opportunities along this line.

included the right of ingress and egress and the enjoyment of the privileges of trade and commerce. Further on the opinion says: "The prohibition on congress is explicit and noticeably different from the prohibition of the states. The state is forbidden to lay any impost or tax on imports or exports that is, articles coming into or going out of the United States, Congress is authorized to tax articles exported from any state. The plain language of the constitution should not be blank paper by construction and its specific mandate ought to be obeyed."

The dissenting opinion concluded as follows: "The proposition that because the proceeds of the duties were to be used for the benefit of Porto Rico they might be regarded as if laid by Porto Rico itself with the consent of congress and were therefore lawful, which they are not, is a mere tautology. Congress may lay taxes on the territories affecting persons or property therein or authorize territorial legislatures to do so, but it cannot lay any duties on articles exported from one state to another, or from any state to the territories, or from any state to foreign countries, or grant a power in that regard which it does not possess. The decision now made recognizes such powers in congress as will enable it, by means of taxation, to exclude the products of Porto Rico from the states as well as the products of states from Porto Rico; and this notwithstanding it was held that in De Lima vs. Bidwell that Porto Rico, after the ratification of the treaty with Spain, was to be foreign and became domestic territory.

"We think it clear on this record that plaintiffs were entitled to recover and that the judgment should be reversed. The dissenting opinion of Chief Justice McKenna united in dissenting from the court's opinion in the Philippine case, but they filed no written statement before the Porto Rico case, and they did not dissent for the reason stated in their opinion in the case of De Lima vs. Bidwell, Dooley vs. The United States, and Downes vs. Bidwell, in the last term of the court."
