ATTORNEY FOR DEFENSE DISCOVERS ALLEGED FLAW IN INDICTMENT

KANE IS TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Objection Is That Location of Crime Is Not Clearly Set Forth as Being in Ramsey County.

From present indications there is a well defined possibility, if not a probability, that the Ramsey grand jury will not actually stand trial in the morning. John J. Barry, who is accused, has been arrested and taken to the county jail. The proceedings in the case took an unexpected turn yesterday afternoon when T. D. O'Brien, counsel for the defense, attacked the indictment on the ground that it did not with sufficient clearness locate the alleged crime within the county of Ramsey, and that the indictment for question as to the right of the grand jury to act in the case.

The case was taken up before Judge Jansgaard, who presided over the preliminary hearing. The indictment was presented as soon as the jury had been completed, and took County Attorney Kane entirely by surprise, but he recovered himself and made a vigorous and earnestly supported his end of the argument as far as he could do so without having an opportunity to consult a lawyer. The question being strictly one for the court to decide, the jury was excused for the day.

Mr. O'Brien in a methodical manner began at the beginning of the indictment and discussed its various parts, pointing out its errors and its omissions. He stated that the indictment was defective in its failure to state the location of the crime, and that it was not clearly set forth as being in Ramsey County. He argued that the indictment was defective in its failure to state the location of the crime, and that it was not clearly set forth as being in Ramsey County.

Died in Ramsey County.

Going farther into the indictment Mr. O'Brien found it set forth that the death of John J. Barry, who is alleged to have been assaulted by Conroy, occurred in the city of St. Paul, county of Ramsey. That he said might justify jurisdiction on the part of the court, but it would not justify a presumption that the alleged assault had been committed in this county.

District Court Notes.

Emerson W. Peet has filed suit in the district court against the Catholic Industrial School of St. Paul, et al, to quiet title to lot 10, block 19, Summit street, St. Paul, Minn.

REDUCE THE INTEREST

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO TAKE STEPS TO REFUND DEBT

Legislature to Be Asked to Pass Bill Authorizing Issuance of Bonds for the Purpose.

At its meeting yesterday the board of county commissioners concerned itself chiefly with two measures, the ultimate destination of which is the state legislature. The first is a bill to reduce the interest on the county debt, and the second is a bill to authorize the county commissioners to issue bonds for the purpose of refunding the debt.

MUST MAKE $2,000 DO.

Judge Kelly Reduced Dieter's Verdict by $700.

Judge Kelly filed a decision yesterday in the case of Henry Dieter against the St. Paul Gas Light company and Edison Electric Light and Power company, denying each of the separate motions of the defendants that judgment be ordered in their favor, and that the plaintiff be also denied each of the separate motions of the defendants for new trial with the provision that the plaintiff shall receive a reduction of his damages from $2,700 to $2,000.

POSITIVE PROOF FROM ST. PAUL CANT BE BRUSHED LIGHTLY ASIDE

The reader is forced to acknowledge that convincing proof in his own city is pre-eminently ahead of indorsements from everywhere else in the republic. It is not possible to evade it.

MAY BIDS WERE OPENED

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS CONSIDERS OFFERS ON BIG CONTRACTS.

Bids opened yesterday by the board of public works for the construction and repair of wooden sidewalks during the year showed P. T. Ryan to be the lowest bidder, but the contract was not placed, the board wishing to make a full inquiry first. For henlock an white pine lumber he bid $16 and $18.23 per 1,000 feet respectively. The contract amounts to about $30,000.

SCHOOL MEN CONFERENCE

NATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF SUPERINTENDENCE MEETS IN CHICAGO

MINNESOTA EDUCATORS THERE

Many of the Educational Leaders of the Country Will Discuss Questions of Vital Import.

State Superintendent John W. Olsen left last night for Chicago, where the National Department of Superintendence will open a three days' session this morning. The meeting is one of the most important educational conferences held during the year, and is attended by representatives of the National Educational Association, which will be held in Minneapolis in July. The most distinguished educators of the country attend this conference, among them being such men as Paul H. Hanus, of Harvard; Dr. Jacques W. Redway, City Superintendent of Chicago; United States Commissioner of Education William T. Swanwick; Dr. Frank Gunsalus, president of Armour Institute; Dr. G. Stanley Hall, M. G. Baumhart, commissioner of education for Porto Rico, and others.

MIDWAY PARK TRUST TAXES.

Kittson Trustee Asks Permission to Draw From Trust Fund.

The St. Paul Trust company, as trustee under the last will and testament of Norman W. Kittson, deceased, has petitioned the district court for permission to draw from the trust fund for the expenses of the company. The company holds in trust for Mary Elizabeth Baker and Mario Baker, taxes upon certain property included in that will, and the action which is now pending is the "Midway Park" tract, consisting of six lots in Hall and Brown's addition to Hyde Park, and containing about 100 acres of land.

It is set forth as reason why the taxes should be paid from the principal of the trust fund that Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Baker and her daughter, who are now at work on plans which, when completed, will give the new movement a good start in this state. The Chicago conference is expected to give the movement a boost, and it will help Minnesota as much as any other state in the Union.

EMPIRE HAS A GOOD BILL.

Some New Features Have Been Added to the Program.

The bill at the Empire this week is a good one, in which a number of good features are introduced. Some of these features are well known to the regulars of the place, but they have been given at previous times, but some of the new ones are new, and are being given for the first time.

and because my constituents are opposed to its enactment. You are taking the position of Yandell when he said, 'The public be damned, and you are treading on dangerous ground when you decide to defy the will of the people and cram down their throats a law which you know they do not want.'

Mr. Anderson scored the Wallace amendments as a blind drawn in the interest of the urban city of the bill and under the lash of the party whip. He said their sole object was to conciliate the members representing the cities and to allow the great property interests to escape at the expense of the farmer.

Speaker Dowling, James Larson and Burns & Pillsbury came out with ringing speeches for the bill, and each took the opportunity to open Anderson's wounds by calling attention to the fact that he voted for the Wallace amendments. Anderson had proposed to introduce a bill which would amend the commission's code, a tax bill which he said would relieve the situation temporarily, but which would result in the adoption of the constitutional amendment to be proposed by the judiciary committee. He said that the bill would be an uncomfortable five minutes by sarcastic references to the modesty of the Wallace amendments, and that he would not have faith in himself as at the worst refreshingly. He offered to solve at one fell swoop the problem which had been the ground that a crippled law would be better than the present bad law.

Laybourn caused consternation by his own camp, as well as in the camp of the "friends," by moving the previous question. Dowling parried the motion long and put a very mild request that Laybourn withdraw his non-debatable motion, so that debate on a very important matter might not be shut off. Laybourn was not disposed to submit to the house, and Dowling tactics and was preparing to insist on his motion, which would have shown up the "friends" when Sherman Smith saved Jacobson by demanding a call of the house. That allowed the question of consideration to go to a vote and it was lost. Then the motion to adjourn came through with a whoop, a fair percentage of the house voting in favor of the motion.

The finishing touches put on the bill in the way of amendments were actively harmless from either the standpoint of the friends or the opposition. Every material change in the bill was promptly made in the morning and had been called to the attention of the house by a preliminary step to the inauguration in this important branch. The bill was passed by a vote of 11-10, and it will help Minnesota as much as any other state in the Union.

Shortly after midnight a woman giving her name as Ella Bauman, who claims to be the widow of the dead motorman, was arrested by Officer H. J. O'Connell in the city of Minneapolis.

The woman made no response to this inquiry, and later when questioned by the officers, and she was taken to Central station. One of the first statements Wundra made after being brought face to face with the woman was: "I suppose you intend to implicate me in the death of your husband."

Wundra told the officers that he is the son of a well known contractor of that name, with office on Seventh street, St. Paul. He had been living with the woman as man and wife since the first of last September, when her husband was buried. Previous to that time intimate relations had existed between them, and according to Wundra's statement, the woman had deserted her husband and had children in order to be with him. Since last September the couple have been in Chicago, St. Louis, Duluth and St. Paul. They came to Minneapolis two days ago, and have been staying at the Pacific Hotel, Third avenue south and Washington. The police were unable to make out a case against Wundra, and after questioning him closely were forced to permit him to go.

Satisfactorily Explained.

"It seems to me," said the young housewife, "there's entirely too much water in the milk you serve. It won't do for my baby. I'll get the fatted milk man. You see, the farmer's man has been giving the cows too much salt and after questioning him further the farmer got a new man up."—Philadelphia Press.
