

TALK WITH KUBELIK

HE HAS FACE OF A MYSTIC AND DRESSES LIKE A DANDY

A TOUCH OF THE MERCENARY

Rates Chicago's Musical Standard by Size of Crowds Hearing Him Play—Discourses on Slang.

To look into Jan Kubelik's eyes is to believe implicitly that story of a Paganini reincarnation, for the mystery of life and death and life again, broods in their black depths. He is an exquisite, this odd-looking little Bohemian. His appearance, somehow, explains the violet throwing moths of New York, the reckless shekel-washing crowds of Chicago. Above all, he is a mystery, this fiddler of fiddlers, an Orpheus to lead a volatile, sensation-craving femininity a reckless dance over broken conventions. His soft voice, his anxious-to-please manner, his pushing behind of his own personality, as it were, make him so unlike the lions that have roared for America, that just at first one wonders if a mistake has not been made—if this not very tall and very slender youth can really move people with his playing.

Of Social Interest.

Mrs. J. P. Frye, of Arundel street, will give an informal party Sunday at her home tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Sperry, of Holly avenue, will give a whist party this evening.

Miss Cook, of Marshall avenue, entertained Monday evening at her home. High scores were made by Miss Arnold.

CABBAGE AU GRATIN.

Cut a small, firm white cabbage into quarters and soak it in cold salted water for one hour. Cut it into strips with a knife or on a vegetable slicer, and cook in twice its depth of boiling water for ten minutes. Do not put on the cover of the kettle, as cabbage should always be cooked uncovered. Drain and fill a one-quart earthen baking dish, pour over one cup of melted butter, and mix with buttered crumbs. Bake until the crumbs are brown. For the sauce use the proportion of two level tablespoons each of butter and flour, one-half level teaspoon of salt, one-quarter level teaspoon of nutmeg, and one-quarter level teaspoon of pepper. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, and cook for five minutes. Add the milk, and cook for ten minutes. Add the salt, nutmeg, and pepper, and stir until thick, then turn in the remainder slowly.

of salt, one-quarter level teaspoon of nutmeg, and one-quarter level teaspoon of pepper. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, and cook for five minutes. Add the milk, and cook for ten minutes. Add the salt, nutmeg, and pepper, and stir until thick, then turn in the remainder slowly.

the bath-well, that is necessary." The little Bohemian shrugged his shoulders. Suddenly his foreign little face lighted up.

"If you could come back in half an hour, yes? Then the bath it will be over, yes-yes, am sure you will, see him. But it will be quite half an hour. He looked uncertainly at the visitor, as if he would apologize for the impertinent suggestion. When told the visitor would return he at once became cheerful.

Face of a Mystic. "I myself will here meet you," he assured her, bowing deeply. And half an hour later, in a cheerful, sunny room at Ryan, the little Bohemian, true to his word, introduced Kubelik. A slim young fellow stood up in response to his name, a youth with the clothes of a dandy, the face of a mystic.

There was no hesitancy in the grasp of the slim, cold hand that just for a second touched the visitor's. There was only formality in the stiff little bow. But the lips smiled a little and the eyes smiled even more.

"You do not speak German? No?" The big eyes looked instant regret. "I speak the language so badly it will be difficult to converse," he explained sadly. "I have no country. I like all countries," announced the slim study in black and white, rattling softly the arm of his chair with his long, narrow white hand. "Your country," graciously, "I like very much. Plenty people come to hear me play. Of all your cities I, perhaps, like Boston best. And Chicago, that, too, is a pleasant city."

Some reference was made by the writer to a recently expressed opinion that Chicago was the musical center of America. The great eyes looked puzzled, then they flashed comprehendingly.

"Yes, that is true," he said with delicate naïveté. "Many, many people come to hear me play in Chicago."

It is this mingling of the spirituelle with the purely mercenary that is one of the fascinating things about Kubelik. It is being so entirely natural that makes him mysterious.

"You have never been abroad? Ah, that is too bad. You do not, then, know Bohemia, Prague? Everybody in Bohemia plays. Everybody who you call it?" He tapped his white forehead despairingly. "Understand? Yes, that is the word. They all understand. Your language is, I think, difficult. Slang, do you not call it?"

The visitor endeavored to explain how not composed entirely of slang. "Yes," responded this fascinating little fiddler. "But I think you all speak slang." He insisted, unconvinced.

As he stood for a moment chatting in the doorway, his profile stood out in sharp relief. The hair is so very black and so very thick that it emphasized the delicacy of every feature. The forehead is low and broad, the nose is long and just a trifle sensuous, the mouth and chin singularly refined and beautiful.

"You will hear me play tonight?" he asked as he bowed farewell. "There will be many there, you think? Yes?" The assurance seemed to delight him and as it were, make him so unlike the lions that have roared for America, that just at first one wonders if a mistake has not been made—if this not very tall and very slender youth can really move people with his playing.

Herr Kubelik has apparently surrounded himself with his own soft-spoken, gentle-mannered countrymen. One of them came down when the Globe sent up a card at the hotel yesterday.

"You wish to see Herr Kubelik, yes?" he queried softly, respectfully.

The reply was that she would.

"Ah, that is too bad now," said the little Bohemian, his voice eager, pathetic. "Kubelik is taking a bath now. You cannot see him, you know."

The visitor comprehended, and, perhaps, looked discouraged.

"You see, it was a long journey, and

Behind a Mask. Some grocers will try to sell you a package made to imitate

NONE SUCH MINCE MEAT claiming it is "just as good"—it is not. Look at the box carefully—see that it reads "None Such" and has the picture of the mince meat girl.

Write us if your grocer refuses to immediately supply you.

Merrell-Soule Co. Syracuse, N. Y.

visiting in St. Paul for two months, has returned to Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Craig, of Dayton avenue, is entertaining Mrs. Martha Craig, of Milwaukee.

Miss Gray, of Iglehart street, is entertaining Miss Anna, of Grand avenue.

Miss Laura Harms of Tilton street, has returned from New York.

Mrs. C. P. Noyes, of Virginia avenue, is entertaining Mrs. Noyes, of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Herbert Davis, of Fairmount avenue; Mrs. Thomas McDavit, of Grand avenue; and Mrs. Forrest, of Holly avenue, will leave next week to spend some time at Hot Springs, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Lovell, of Holly avenue, have gone to New Orleans to visit relatives at Lock Haven, Pa.

Mrs. George Grant and Miss Grant, of Holly avenue, have gone to New Orleans to spend several weeks.

Mrs. G. L. Spencer, of West Fifth street, is entertaining Mrs. J. J. Nelson, of Ipewich, S. D.

Mrs. Albert Schuneman, of Portland avenue, is in Chicago. She will also visit in Empass, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schuneman, of Summit avenue, have gone to New Orleans for several weeks.

Miss Flora Maurer, of Lincoln avenue, has been entertaining Miss Edith Bohn, of Browtown, Minn.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Bridgman, of Hamline, left last night for the South.

St. Paul Branch of McCall Mission.

An auxiliary to the McCall mission will be established in St. Paul, James J. Sullivan, 429 Holly avenue, will have charge of the auxiliary, and he will be assisted by a number of women representing the various denominations in St. Paul. Rev. S. E. Kossler, pastor of the mission, will give the address in this country, delivering the address yesterday afternoon in the House of Commons, which was confined exclusively to France, and which includes the various Protestant denominations.

The work was started by Rev. S. E. Kossler, and has grown from a single mission hall in Paris to eleven in that city, seven in England, and five in France and fifty-four in the other cities and villages of France. Last year America sent $100,000 towards the support of the mission, but Dr. Rossier explained yesterday that he desired that this be increased to $250,000.

The auxiliary of the McCall mission is expected to have two meetings during the year, one Aug. 18, which begins at 10 o'clock at night, when every member of the mission will be present, and an open meeting held Jan. 17.

Benefit for a Cobbler.

A benefit concert was given last night at Dayton W. Presbyterian church for Victor Aisterberg, the cobbler, whom illness and poverty have overtaken, and who now lies at Bethesda hospital. The Orpheus quartette sang several numbers, and the choir, consisting of both by Adams, "Annie Laurie," by Buck, and "Hannah." Miss Hilda Hirschman contributed piano solos, "Wedding Day," by Gies and "The Owl," by Febvre-Vely. Mrs. Nellie M. Schofield, piano, and "The Owl," by "For All Eternity." She was accompanied by Harry Dorr on the violin. Hugo Lutgens gave a play in five acts, "The Tale of a Dog," and "The Owl," by "For All Eternity." Mrs. Russell Dorr was the accompanist. The audience was large, and the sick cobbler will be substantially aided by the proceeds of the concert.

Bates Avenue Concert.

A lecture and concert was given last night at the Bates Avenue M. E. church. Prof. R. W. Cooper delivered an address on "The Church as an Educational Force." The church as a spiritual force was the subject of a talk by C. G. Nelson. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Frank O'Meara, Mrs. Katherine Gray and Mr. Butler, and Mrs. Loney discussed "The Church as a Social Force."

Nathan Hale, D. A. R.

Mrs. S. E. Day, of Summit avenue, entertained the Nathan Hale chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon at its February meeting. The meeting was largely social in nature. Mrs. Samuel Joy read an extremely interesting paper on "Women of New York in Revolutionary Times." She dwelt particularly on the life of Catherine Schuyler, wife of Gen. Schuyler. Mrs. D. S. Ellicott, the historian of the chapter, gave the usual historical news digest.

To Organize Next Week.

The date for the meeting for the organization of the artists and craftsmen of St. Paul into a league for the promotion of art and industries has been changed from this evening to Monday evening, March 3. It will be held as previously announced in the studios of the children, Miss Ellicott and Miss

CLUBS AND CHARITIES.

The Ladies' Social Club of Plymouth church will hold an all-day meeting in the church parlors Friday evening at 6:30 in the church parlors.

St. John's Episcopal church will celebrate its annual quiet day Tuesday. Bishop Edgall will conduct the services and the ladies will serve luncheon at noon.

Mrs. S. E. Malbon, of Iglehart street, entertained the Red, White and Blue Euchre club Monday evening. Favors were won by Mrs. W. E. Bagshaw, Mrs. E. Davis, Eugene Ward and Gen. George C. Lambert.

Mrs. C. W. Fisher, of Irvine park, entertained the Hamline Euchre club Monday evening. The meeting was given by Mrs. Van Duzen, Mrs. Emery Mortensen, Mrs. Tostevin and Mrs. Fisher. Mrs. J. D. Mitchell was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Linn and a group of young ladies, assisted in serving refreshments.

The Sunday school of Park Congregational church will give an acquaintance social Friday evening, March 7, for the members of the church and congregation and the parents of the pupils of the school. A programme will be given by the children, and refreshments will be served.

The Ladies' Social Union of St. Paul's Universalist Church held an all-day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. E. Lamb, on Laurel avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Reed entertained the Young Ladies' Euchre club yesterday afternoon.

The women of the Goodrich Avenue Presbyterian church gave a social last night in the church. A large number of the members of the church and congregation were present. A brief musical and literary programme was given, and refreshments were served. Rev. and Mrs. D. Mitchell were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Linn and a group of young ladies, assisted in serving refreshments.

Myrtle Temple No. 2, Rathbone Sisters, will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Pythian Temple.

Evening Star lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, will give a progressive euchre party this evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Moses Clapp and Miss Katrina Clapp, of Holly avenue, have gone to Florida.

Mrs. S. O. Brooks and Miss Brooks, of Holly avenue, left last evening for St. Louis. They were accompanied as far as Chicago by Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. William Race, of Summit avenue, will leave tomorrow for St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. E. Macartney, of Dayton avenue, have gone to Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Philip J. O'Neill, who has been shoes. This fact may be verified by a visit to any good shoe shop or by an hour's mending on Fifth avenue any social afternoon.

The military heel may be high or low, according to the stature of the woman who wears it, but the shoe should be fixed. It is small at the top, compressed with the common-sense style. It sets firmer under the heel of the foot, not forward, like the French variety. The inner line of the popular heel is in design to the ground; that at the back of the sole inclines in shapely.

This cut heel sets up the foot, giving a neat and small appearance without the odium which attaches to the wearing of the French heel in the highways.

BARE SHOULDERS.

Some social wisecracks of London are prophesying that bare shoulders at daylight functions will not be the mode during the reign of Alexandra.

Even in the earlier years of her reign Queen Victoria was short and fat. In those days she cared more about her personal appearance than she did later, and she knew that a decollete would be infinitely more becoming to her than a high collar.

So decollete was the rule at court functions during Victoria's reign, and the younger women would almost invariably through drawing rooms and took home a cold as a souvenir of the function.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Bridgman, of Hamline, left last night for the South.

St. Paul Branch of McCall Mission.

An auxiliary to the McCall mission will be established in St. Paul, James J. Sullivan, 429 Holly avenue, will have charge of the auxiliary, and he will be assisted by a number of women representing the various denominations in St. Paul. Rev. S. E. Kossler, pastor of the mission, will give the address in this country, delivering the address yesterday afternoon in the House of Commons, which was confined exclusively to France, and which includes the various Protestant denominations.

The work was started by Rev. S. E. Kossler, and has grown from a single mission hall in Paris to eleven in that city, seven in England, and five in France and fifty-four in the other cities and villages of France. Last year America sent $100,000 towards the support of the mission, but Dr. Rossier explained yesterday that he desired that this be increased to $250,000.

The auxiliary of the McCall mission is expected to have two meetings during the year, one Aug. 18, which begins at 10 o'clock at night, when every member of the mission will be present, and an open meeting held Jan. 17.

Benefit for a Cobbler.

A benefit concert was given last night at Dayton W. Presbyterian church for Victor Aisterberg, the cobbler, whom illness and poverty have overtaken, and who now lies at Bethesda hospital. The Orpheus quartette sang several numbers, and the choir, consisting of both by Adams, "Annie Laurie," by Buck, and "Hannah." Miss Hilda Hirschman contributed piano solos, "Wedding Day," by Gies and "The Owl," by Febvre-Vely. Mrs. Nellie M. Schofield, piano, and "The Owl," by "For All Eternity." She was accompanied by Harry Dorr on the violin. Hugo Lutgens gave a play in five acts, "The Tale of a Dog," and "The Owl," by "For All Eternity." Mrs. Russell Dorr was the accompanist. The audience was large, and the sick cobbler will be substantially aided by the proceeds of the concert.

Bates Avenue Concert.

A lecture and concert was given last night at the Bates Avenue M. E. church. Prof. R. W. Cooper delivered an address on "The Church as an Educational Force." The church as a spiritual force was the subject of a talk by C. G. Nelson. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Frank O'Meara, Mrs. Katherine Gray and Mr. Butler, and Mrs. Loney discussed "The Church as a Social Force."

Nathan Hale, D. A. R.

Mrs. S. E. Day, of Summit avenue, entertained the Nathan Hale chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon at its February meeting. The meeting was largely social in nature. Mrs. Samuel Joy read an extremely interesting paper on "Women of New York in Revolutionary Times." She dwelt particularly on the life of Catherine Schuyler, wife of Gen. Schuyler. Mrs. D. S. Ellicott, the historian of the chapter, gave the usual historical news digest.

To Organize Next Week.

The date for the meeting for the organization of the artists and craftsmen of St. Paul into a league for the promotion of art and industries has been changed from this evening to Monday evening, March 3. It will be held as previously announced in the studios of the children, Miss Ellicott and Miss

CLUBS AND CHARITIES.

The Ladies' Social Club of Plymouth church will hold an all-day meeting in the church parlors Friday evening at 6:30 in the church parlors.

St. John's Episcopal church will celebrate its annual quiet day Tuesday. Bishop Edgall will conduct the services and the ladies will serve luncheon at noon.

Mrs. S. E. Malbon, of Iglehart street, entertained the Red, White and Blue Euchre club Monday evening. Favors were won by Mrs. W. E. Bagshaw, Mrs. E. Davis, Eugene Ward and Gen. George C. Lambert.

Mrs. C. W. Fisher, of Irvine park, entertained the Hamline Euchre club Monday evening. The meeting was given by Mrs. Van Duzen, Mrs. Emery Mortensen, Mrs. Tostevin and Mrs. Fisher. Mrs. J. D. Mitchell was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Linn and a group of young ladies, assisted in serving refreshments.

The Sunday school of Park Congregational church will give an acquaintance social Friday evening, March 7, for the members of the church and congregation and the parents of the pupils of the school. A programme will be given by the children, and refreshments will be served.

The Ladies' Social Union of St. Paul's Universalist Church held an all-day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. E. Lamb, on Laurel avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Reed entertained the Young Ladies' Euchre club yesterday afternoon.

The women of the Goodrich Avenue Presbyterian church gave a social last night in the church. A large number of the members of the church and congregation were present. A brief musical and literary programme was given, and refreshments were served. Rev. and Mrs. D. Mitchell were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Linn and a group of young ladies, assisted in serving refreshments.

Myrtle Temple No. 2, Rathbone Sisters, will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Pythian Temple.

Evening Star lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, will give a progressive euchre party this evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Moses Clapp and Miss Katrina Clapp, of Holly avenue, have gone to Florida.

Mrs. S. O. Brooks and Miss Brooks, of Holly avenue, left last evening for St. Louis. They were accompanied as far as Chicago by Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. William Race, of Summit avenue, will leave tomorrow for St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. E. Macartney, of Dayton avenue, have gone to Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Philip J. O'Neill, who has been shoes. This fact may be verified by a visit to any good shoe shop or by an hour's mending on Fifth avenue any social afternoon.

The military heel may be high or low, according to the stature of the woman who wears it, but the shoe should be fixed. It is small at the top, compressed with the common-sense style. It sets firmer under the heel of the foot, not forward, like the French variety. The inner line of the popular heel is in design to the ground; that at the back of the sole inclines in shapely.

This cut heel sets up the foot, giving a neat and small appearance without the odium which attaches to the wearing of the French heel in the highways.

BARE SHOULDERS.

Some social wisecracks of London are prophesying that bare shoulders at daylight functions will not be the mode during the reign of Alexandra.

Even in the earlier years of her reign Queen Victoria was short and fat. In those days she cared more about her personal appearance than she did later, and she knew that a decollete would be infinitely more becoming to her than a high collar.

So decollete was the rule at court functions during Victoria's reign, and the younger women would almost invariably through drawing rooms and took home a cold as a souvenir of the function.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Bridgman, of Hamline, left last night for the South.

St. Paul Branch of McCall Mission.

An auxiliary to the McCall mission will be established in St. Paul, James J. Sullivan, 429 Holly avenue, will have charge of the auxiliary, and he will be assisted by a number of women representing the various denominations in St. Paul. Rev. S. E. Kossler, pastor of the mission, will give the address in this country, delivering the address yesterday afternoon in the House of Commons, which was confined exclusively to France, and which includes the various Protestant denominations.

The work was started by Rev. S. E. Kossler, and has grown from a single mission hall in Paris to eleven in that city, seven in England, and five in France and fifty-four in the other cities and villages of France. Last year America sent $100,000 towards the support of the mission, but Dr. Rossier explained yesterday that he desired that this be increased to $250,000.

The auxiliary of the McCall mission is expected to have two meetings during the year, one Aug. 18, which begins at 10 o'clock at night, when every member of the mission will be present, and an open meeting held Jan. 17.

Benefit for a Cobbler.

A benefit concert was given last night at Dayton W. Presbyterian church for Victor Aisterberg, the cobbler, whom illness and poverty have overtaken, and who now lies at Bethesda hospital. The Orpheus quartette sang several numbers, and the choir, consisting of both by Adams, "Annie Laurie," by Buck, and "Hannah." Miss Hilda Hirschman contributed piano solos, "Wedding Day," by Gies and "The Owl," by Febvre-Vely. Mrs. Nellie M. Schofield, piano, and "The Owl," by "For All Eternity." She was accompanied by Harry Dorr on the violin. Hugo Lutgens gave a play in five acts, "The Tale of a Dog," and "The Owl," by "For All Eternity." Mrs. Russell Dorr was the accompanist. The audience was large, and the sick cobbler will be substantially aided by the proceeds of the concert.

Bates Avenue Concert.

A lecture and concert was given last night at the Bates Avenue M. E. church. Prof. R. W. Cooper delivered an address on "The Church as an Educational Force." The church as a spiritual force was the subject of a talk by C. G. Nelson. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Frank O'Meara, Mrs. Katherine Gray and Mr. Butler, and Mrs. Loney discussed "The Church as a Social Force."

Nathan Hale, D. A. R.

Mrs. S. E. Day, of Summit avenue, entertained the Nathan Hale chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon at its February meeting. The meeting was largely social in nature. Mrs. Samuel Joy read an extremely interesting paper on "Women of New York in Revolutionary Times." She dwelt particularly on the life of Catherine Schuyler, wife of Gen. Schuyler. Mrs. D. S. Ellicott, the historian of the chapter, gave the usual historical news digest.

To Organize Next Week.

The date for the meeting for the organization of the artists and craftsmen of St. Paul into a league for the promotion of art and industries has been changed from this evening to Monday evening, March 3. It will be held as previously announced in the studios of the children, Miss Ellicott and Miss

CLUBS AND CHARITIES.

The Ladies' Social Club of Plymouth church will hold an all-day meeting in the church parlors Friday evening at 6:30 in the church parlors.

St. John's Episcopal church will celebrate its annual quiet day Tuesday. Bishop Edgall will conduct the services and the ladies will serve luncheon at noon.

Mrs. S. E. Malbon, of Iglehart street, entertained the Red, White and Blue Euchre club Monday evening. Favors were won by Mrs. W. E. Bagshaw, Mrs. E. Davis, Eugene Ward and Gen. George C. Lambert.

Mrs. C. W. Fisher, of Irvine park, entertained the Hamline Euchre club Monday evening. The meeting was given by Mrs. Van Duzen, Mrs. Emery Mortensen, Mrs. Tostevin and Mrs. Fisher. Mrs. J. D. Mitchell was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Linn and a group of young ladies, assisted in serving refreshments.

The Sunday school of Park Congregational church will give an acquaintance social Friday evening, March 7, for the members of the church and congregation and the parents of the pupils of the school. A programme will be given by the children, and refreshments will be served.

The Ladies' Social Union of St. Paul's Universalist Church held an all-day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. E. Lamb, on Laurel avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Reed entertained the Young Ladies' Euchre club yesterday afternoon.

The women of the Goodrich Avenue Presbyterian church gave a social last night in the church. A large number of the members of the church and congregation were present. A brief musical and literary programme was given, and refreshments were served. Rev. and Mrs. D. Mitchell were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Linn and a group of young ladies, assisted in serving refreshments.

Myrtle Temple No. 2, Rathbone Sisters, will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Pythian Temple.

Evening Star lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, will give a progressive euchre party this evening at Odd Fellows' hall.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Moses Clapp and Miss Katrina Clapp, of Holly avenue, have gone to Florida.

Mrs. S. O. Brooks and Miss Brooks, of Holly avenue, left last evening for St. Louis. They were accompanied as far as Chicago by Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. William Race, of Summit avenue, will leave tomorrow for St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. E. Macartney, of Dayton avenue, have gone to Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Philip J. O'Neill, who has been

The Globe's Daily Short Story

Pietro's Daughter.

By JOHN NELSON.

(Copyright by the Daily Story Pub. Co.) Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in the Plan- editorial rooms, and the men, the old men, that is, had begun to look upon him as something of a nuisance. The new men, those just out of college and breaking in on little assignments, thought him an interesting character and often forgot the city editor's injunction "to encourage the Dago."

Pietro was a familiar figure in