SMALLEY GETS PLACE

To Be Special Eastern Representative of the Alaska Central Railway

FINE OUTLOOK FOR ROAD

Will Run Up the Susitna Valley. Which Can Produce Wheat, Barlev. Oats, Flax, Buckwheat and Vegetables in Abundance.

Special to The Globe.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 27.—President G N. Dickerman, of the Alaska Central Railway company, has announced the appointment of Victor H. Smalley, of St. Paul, as a special Eastern representative of the road. Mr. Smalley is editor and publisher of the Northwest Magazine and one of the best known authorities on the West. He will assume his new duties at West. He will assume his new duties at once, which will not, however, interfere with his present occupation.

Mr. Smalley yesterday confirmed the above report to a Globe reporter.

"The possibilities of Alaska are but little appreciated," said Mr. Smalley.
"Alaska can easily sustain a population of 3,000,000 people. Good land is obtainable to furnish nomesteads for 200,600 families, allowing each one 320 acres.

Alaska's Resources Remarkable. "I have made a close study of Alaska's resources and they are truly remarkable. Almost any location in Alaska, south of the Artic circle, is suitable for hardy farms of vegetation, including grains and many verieties of respectables Lida. the Artic circle, is suitable for hardy farms of vegetation, including grains and many varieties of vegetables. I do not include the shores of Bering Sea in this statement, however. The Susitna valley is the garden spot of Alaska. The special agents of the government department of agriculture have matured at the r station at Kenai wheat harley oats flow ment of agriculture have matured at the ration at Kenai wheat, barley, oats, fiax and buckwheat. Many of the coast valleys and plains are comparatively rich, but the inland districts are particularly suited to support large populations.

"The preliminary survey of the Alaska Central Railway was filed and approved recently at Washington. This is the only complete survey complying with the laws in every particular yet filed in the interior department for a railroad in Alaska. It gives the company the absolute right over the territory covered. The route is easy and practicable, being up a heavily timbered valley that is 150 miles broad and crossing the Alaskan range to the Tanara plains over a pass 2,600 feet in altitude. The ascent to the pass is gradual for seventy-five miles.

Great Possibilities in Railways.

"There are great possibilities in railroad building in Alaska. The White Pass & Yukon road was built in 1898-99 to handike the traffic into and out of the Klondike. That mining district, which is fabulously rich, is limited in population. It had never more than 30,000. Yet the White Pass & Yukon earned dividends of 60 per cent on its capital stock in 1891, and its stock is now quoted above $500 per share. It started at $6.50 per share in 1898. These large divilends were earned notwithstanding that the road crosses the St. Elias mountains through a pass that presented all but insurmountable obstacles.

"President Dickerman, of the Alaska Central Railway, is well known here, nav-ing once been general manager of the Northern Pacific."

FARM, FIELD, ORCHARD, GARDEN

Seed catalogues are numerous. Almost every seedman claims special ex-cellence for a few new things in his line. These are always high priced, and the lmost universal desire to try new things eads many to invest their money. Now f these things are good, it won't take ong to find plenty of them on the market. However, in the meantime keep right on planting the things you know something about. right on planting something about.

When a sixteen-year-old boy, unskilled in every particular, can secure as wages on a farm $20 a month, his board and washing, as he can today, he is alone to blame if he is not worth $1.500 by the time he is twenty-four years ald. But how many of them will save anything?

While a possible crop of onions is 800 bushels per acre under exceptional conditions, an average crop may be placed at 300 bushels, or about twice as many

Right now, during the last days of April, is the time to set out strawberry beds. We have sometimes thought that the doing of this might almost come un-der the head of legitimate Sunday work, for the doing of it is certainly a work of

Why don't people visit each other more and learn how each is doing a thing and what it is done with. If our friend is not doing a thing as well as we do, it is our duty to point out a better way. If a neighbor has a better plan than ours we can learn something. Take the women folks and the children along. What is folks and the children along. life without friendship!

Farming is now a better business than it ever was, because farmers are better farmers than they ever were. Science has furnished the knowledge how, and art the means by which hard drudgery may be converted into healthful exercise and healthful exercise into pleasant recreation. And yet there are farmers who still claim an interest in the curse of Adam and refuse to accept redemption because then they would not have enough to gramble about

We know you're busy, but spare just a little time for the flower bed. You can't afford to be without their brightening and refining influence in the homethe dear flowers. If there is time for but one border of flowers—the pansy, verbena, pklox, sweet pea, mignonette, etc., bright and blooming all summer, what a sweet reward for a small outlay of time, money and labor.

Were each farmer to open his eyes and look about his farm as he should without being blinded by his prejudice or the propensity which is usually found in ownership, he will see plenty of fence corners and waste places that are contributing nothing toward the receipts of the farm. "That which is not gathering is scattering abroad."

Every farmer should have a strawberry patch. The strawberry should have place on every table. It is the king of fresh fruits and puts up nicely. A very small piece of ground, properly tended to, will produce most wonderfully. There is nothing to which a small natch of land can be devoted to that will create so much delight in the home.

Nearly everywhere in the West and Southwest inexhaustible wells can be had at a reasonable depth and at a moderate cost, and there are thousands of prosperous farmers who are able to sink a well of this kind. Their prosperity might be greater and their wealth augmented if they would sink a well and build a reservoir to supply moisture for the thirsty crops during the dry months of summer.

No farm house is complete without a few flower beds. We should have beautiful things about us and see them every day in order to develop into perfect manhood and womanhood. Flowers not only build up characters, but influence our lives in many ways.

name has long been obsolete. Durham cattle was a name used later, but now this breed is almost universally called shorthorns in both England and America.

in potatoes is the planting of poor seed. This is not generally realized at a time like this year when there is a greater liability to use poor seed than at any other time.

The alumni of the Minnesota school of The alumni of the Minnesota school of agriculture has organized a farmers' club to have branches in localities where one or more of the graduates of the school reside. Each member of this club when he leaves the college for the farm should feel it his duty to organize the young men of his neighborhood. In this way the influence of the school may be indefinitely extended. Each club will serve as a sort of agricultural extension course, and every farmer, young and old would and every farmer, young and old, would do well to become a member.

Plant a nice patch of peas the first thing. Be sure that they are of the very earliest variety.

Use the knife unsparingly on old currant and berry bushes. Cut away the old shrubs. We mean by this to prune out the old wood and give the thrifty young growth a chance. Good pruning and manuring will insure large berries.

There is no food the farmer can supply for his table that is better or cheaper than eggs. This food is nutritious, is invigorating, strengthens the sinews and equips man well for toil. We prefer eggs to beeksteak or any kind of flesh.

In the rush and hurry of spring work there is a great temptation to plant things in poorly prepared soil. Time gained in this way had beter be lost. A crop well think way had solve the solution to be solved to be planted is half cultivated. "What breed of sheep is best?" Well, hat depends on wno it is that answers

Common sense dictates that whenever a sick sheep is found it should be removed from the flock. Common sense also teaches the same regarding any other stock.

A day off—yes, a day off. Farmers, don't work all the time, but take a day once in a while and have a visit with your neghbors. It will do them a bit of good and you a good deal more. As a general rule, it's work every day and nothing but work, on the farm. Take a day off, same as do men of other branches of trade.

There are few things on earth more delightful than fruits and flowers, Any kind of fruit is desirable. The small fruits fill just as important a place as do the standard fruits. However, they have their enemies also, just the same, and the small fruit raiser, just the same as the apple raiser, must keep up a war upon the insect pest. upon the insect pest. ,

It is often the case at this season, especially when cows have been on dry feed in the winter, that milk will fail in richness. In many cases this may be remedied by a change in the rations. Animals tire of any one single ration if fed too long, no matter how good or nutritious, and a change is always more or less beneficial.

If a farmer expects his women folk to take care of the garden, he should in all fairness prepare a piece of ground for the garden in the best possible manner, and it should be in a long strip, so that he may run his cultivator through it frequently. The small square garden, made up of beds and worked with a spade, hoe and hand rake, is the hardest way of all to care for the garden.

The hens will enjoy the coming of green grass just as much as will the cow and the horse.

The United States furnishes England with 63 per cent of her breadstuffs and 95 per cent of her meats. So long as England is compelled to depend upon the United States for her very living there will be no serious ruction between the two countries.

Darwin once picked up a wounded pigeon by the wayside. Its leg had been broken, and in its contracted claws was a little lump of earth. This Darwin planted to see what vegetable life it might contain. From it he produced fifteen varieties of plant life. This shows how In their early history short-horn cattle were known as Teeswater, so named after the locality of their origin on the banks of the river Tees in England. The

The long time worthless sand hills of Western Nebraska have risen in value from $2 to $12 per acre by the discovery of the fact that alfalfa will grow there and do well, for where alfalfa will grow there will successful farming be assured. Alfalfa promises much for Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Warnings are being sent out by the state commissioners of agriculture all over the northern and eastern parts of the United State against the seventeen-year locust, which may make its appearance next month. After sleeping under ground for nearly two decades the insects will come out in May in great numbers, and fruit growers especially will have reason to fear for the safety of their trees. The locust is the wierdest, and, in some respects, the most interesting of all insects.

The man that produces the eggs he consumes never misses what feed his hens consume and his living is inexpensive in that particular

Most people find that there are always two things which need doing in the spring of the year where there is only time for doing one. So many things must be done right then, if done at all, during the season—the sowing of seeds and planting of trees—and there is always so much cleaning and fixing up to do. It is altogether the busiest season of the year for the real farmer. son of the year for the real farmer.

The wise farmer will plan his work ahead and will change the time-honored aphorism, "Never do tomorrow what can be done today," to read, "Never wait until tomorrow to do that which should be done today," People procrastinate without realizing it. There is too great a tendency to live in the present and without realizing it. There is too great a tendency to live in the present and dream of the past, lamenting the errors and regretting lost opportunities. Remember only the good things of the past and present and strive for a greater improvement in the future.

Instead of hunting for more land some men are searching after the fertility of the land they now own. This is one thing that is sure to come in a certain stage of the history of any country where agriculture is the chief occupation. A father told his sons, while on his death bed, that a large treasure lay hidden on the farm and he hoped they would dig and find it. They dug the farm over and over again and found no treasure, but obtained increased crops. They finally concluded that this was the thing the father had in mind rigious as smallpox what a yearning there would be to "catch it." Some farmers I know would get vaccinated at once, for fear they would "catch" the spirit of "book farmin." Good farming is catching in some localities. One man tries it and succeeds, and others follow suit.

The industries of the farm, are numerous. We doubt much whether in one lifetime a man can learn all of them. It is the most important calling in the world. When the farmer is stiffed the world finds it difficult to breathe.

The hen is the most industrious and by long odds the most profitable thing for the cost of all things on the farm.
