BONDS ARE FALLING DUE
NEXT YEAR CITY WILL HAVE TO PAY OUT $200,000

It is thought that other bonds will be issued to pay a portion of them—more heavy payments will have to be made in the year 1909.

The wiping out a few days ago of $50,000 of St. Paul's bonded indebtedness has directed considerable attention to the $200,000 worth of bonds that will fall due next year, and also the possible attitude of the conference committee at its next regular meeting toward their redemption.

Several of those composing the conference committee are in favor of refunding the greater portion of the amount, and this view is shared by Mayor Smith. All feel that, in view of the severe financial demands that will be made at this

JACOBSON HAS CALL
Madison Statesman Is Uncertain Factor in Republican Field

MAY SEEK SATISFACTION

Candidates With Contests Now Fully Realize House Leader Is Dangerous, and Some Have Reason to Fear His Anger.

The cards stacked by the Republican state makers seem to be in a fair way for a most uncomfortable mixing in the draw. Last night some of the cleverest politicians in the Republican party were ready to admit that Ray W. Jones is the only one of the slated bunch standing to get out with a whole skin, and he is not out of the woods.

The fight for the nomination for state auditor, or rather the attempt to keep Jacobson and Halden from getting runs for their money, is largely responsible for the horribly mixed state the conventionists find themselves in. They now realize that if Jacobson and Halden get together in a spirit of retaliation, the whole slate will be smashed and that the smashing may start with Ray W. Jones.

In all probability neither Jacobson nor Halden would consent to carry the game that far. Jones has so far no real opposition and probably none will be introduced, but his absence will be caused only by the fact that Jones is no longer held entirely responsible for the conditions in the Hennepin delegation, which time, that to pay the amount would be too heavy a burden.

In all St. Paul's bonded indebtedness now amounts to a fraction under $3,000,000 and, according to the books in the comptroller's office, must all be met within the next twenty years. If wiped out as the various amounts fall due and no other bonds are issued, St. Paul would be entirely free from this burden in September, 1921. On that date $3,000,000 worth of bonds issued in 1891 for the improving of Lake Como and its shores falls due.

The heaviest "touch" that the taxable property of St. Paul will have to suffer for bonds issued will be in 1909, when $3,000,000 worth of bonds will fall due. They were issued in 1884 and the money secured was used in the extension of the St. Paul waterworks. Something like $1,500,000 more of waterworks bonds are yet to come, but they are distributed over a period of years that will make their payment comparatively easy.

The privilege of refunding its bonded indebtedness is the only thing permitted by the St. Paul charter in the bond line. On anything outside of that, the people must be called upon to give their views.

while it is for Jones, is hopelessly divided in other directions, and it is extremely doubtful if Jones can deliver more than a third of it to anyone.

Much the same thing is true in Ramsey county. The leaders of the delegation now claim that each of the candidates for auditor will receive his share of the Ramsey vote. This is a decided change from the original position which contemplated practically a solid delegation for Iverson and nothing for Jacobson on the first ballot, but they are conceding a new idea of the Ramsey situation. They believe naturally enough that no one is in a position to handle the Ramsey delegation or, in short, that the Ramsey candidate has "nothing to deliver."

Country Against the Cities.
The result is a tendency to line up the country against the Twin Cities, which again makes it hard for Iverson, who started popularly recognized as the Twin City candidate. Its effect on the Reese campaign is not altogether cheerful. The Ramsey men claim they will nominate Reese on the first ballot, but they are between three fires on the auditor question and with Reese at the foot of the ticket the delegation must guess right or go up against a far more complicated game.

Halden is in a pretty comfortable frame of mind. He will not admit it, but his friends are not so confident in their admissions of the generally recognized fact that both the Twin City delegations are enthusiastic about the Duluth man in a degree not greatly exceeding their extreme admiration of the turbulent Jacobson, of Lac qui Parle and the state at large. They have been making what looks like steady gains, and their candidate can not fail to arouse personal popularity in the country districts. They would appreciate the hearty support of the cities, but say if they must they will worry along without it and still land their man. In one thing Halden is strong. The support he brings down from the Eighth district is his to do as he pleases with a fact which makes him an uncomfortable proposition, viewed as an enemy.

Jacobson is not nearly so good-natured. In fact he is saucier than when he arrived Friday. He realizes that he has a white hand and if not strong enough to land the nomination for himself he will still be strong enough to determine the nominee and after that or even before for that matter, mete out summary punishment upon those who inform the public generally and the manipulators in particular, that he has no use for votes that will do him no good.

Jacobson Is Suspicious.
He thinks much of the profers of division are simply calculated to let him in strong enough to beat him and realizes that it could be done. On the other hand he also realizes that he can retaliate when it comes down to a question of clerk of the supreme court and that he might be able to cause a flurry for lieutenant governor. With reference to the clerkship he sign on the ticket and that if he is downed out for breakers. In other words he demands a fair division of the Twin City support until three candidates has the call, which of its three candidates has the call. Iverson is satisfied with the situation, at least so far as his public utterances go, and his friends while no longer claiming that he will be nominated on the first ballot are still confident of ultimate success. Another element representing a large proportion of the advance guard of the country delegations seems to be entirely satisfied after looking the situation over that the fight is between Halden and Jacobson.

If Jacobson finds that he cannot land the nomination, which he probably will discover, it is fair to presume that he will be more friendly to Halden than to any other candidate in the field with the possible exception of Hanson and Douglas, who have no opposition and will probably be nominated on one order, just as a part of the necessary form.

Several Sore Spots.
Jacobson cannot be friendly to Jones and be half true to himself. He looks on Jones as the personal representative of the administration and the attempt to strut him out of the Hennepin delegation as mighty poor reward for the administration dirty work he performed without a complaint both in the last regular and the special session of the legislature. Iverson as the beneficiary of the attempt to shut out from Twin City support has little to expect from Jacobson.

my Johnson, of the public examiner's office, is still numbered among the missing.

J. Adam Bede is not afraid to leave his campaign for the Eighth district congressional nomination long enough to lend a helping hand for the Duluth man; is everlasting at it, and he has not started a secret service bureau to discover whether or not his course is popular with the rest of the state, either.

J. F. Hilscher is the forty-third Ramsey county man to deposit his $10 with County Auditor Johnson for the privilege of entry to the primary race for political preferment. Mr. Hilscher is a Republican and a candidate for state senator from the Thirty-seventh district, which comprises the Tenth and Eleventh wards and the country districts, and which is represented in the senate by Postmaster A. R. McGill. Mr. McGill has not taken the public into his confidence to the extent of announcement that he will not run again. If the postmaster is not ready to give up his services to the state, and Hilscher is half as hard a campaigner, the fight in the Thirty-seventh bids fair to be a counterpoint of the fierce struggle which made history in Manitoba and C. E. Hamilton mayor of Winnipeg.

J. T. Wyman, of Minneapolis, seems to have first call on the permanent chairmanship of the Republican state convention.

In spite of the veiled threats of the candidates who have axes to grind, the nomination of Ray W. Jones for lieutenant governor by the Republican convention Tuesday is a good even-money proposition, with highly few takers in sight.

Yesterday a stray rumor to the effect that the nomination of Lieutenant Governor would be taken out of its regular order and placed at the foot of the ticket to insure the delivery of Hennepin's promises, gave the Minneapolis crowd a few chills, but the indisposition was temporary.

The Mill town rosters soon came to realize that it was a game one of the candidates would dare father, and the unattached trading stock in the convention is not so deeply interested in the fate of Ray W. that it would attempt to pull off the projected coup for the benefit of the aspirants for auditor and clerk of the supreme court.

The talk of Senator Bert Miller looming up as a candidate stalks around the hotel lobbies, and some of the Jones people are now beginning to laugh at the creature of wild imaginations. They feel, and not unjustly, that they have the situation so well rounded up that Miller cannot get in if he wishes.

PURE AND DELIGHTFUL DRINK
One That Satisfies the Thirst and Gives Vigor and Energy to the System.

The common want of the common people in hot weather is a cooling drink—a beverage that is pure and wholesome. The injurious effects of the overindulgence in ice water or the drinking of preparations of unknown ingredients are well known. The beverage that meets all the requirements of hot weather, that is absolutely pure and non-alcoholic, that is not a stimulant, but a refreshing, invigorating and healthful drink for the hot days is Hires Rootbeer.

It is Nature's gift to humanity—composed of roots and herbs, hops, ginger, nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves, lemon, birch bark and dog grass. It contains more sarsaparilla than any blood purifier. When the temperature is too high or the vitality too low it will strengthen and revive you. For children there is nothing better. It adds to the joy of childhood and the happiness of the home.

It is now almost twenty-five years since it was first introduced. During the time it has become the Nation's great temperance drink, and its sales have reached enormous proportions. Unscrupulous dealers have not hesitated to put upon the market dangerous and unwholesome counterfeits. It is well to bear in mind that a package of Hires makes five gallons of rootbeer—the most refreshing and purest drink for hot weather. In buying it from the grocer or druggist always insist upon getting Hires, thus getting the best and also discouraging the practice of substitution.

The state pardoning board held a special meeting in Gov. Van Sant's private office yesterday noon and granted a pardon to Joseph Quinn, a janitor for Brown & Bigelow, who is serving a sentence of ninety days for drunkenness.

POSTAL CLERKS HOLD ANNUAL SATURDAY

At the Same Time Resolution on the Death of C. J. Robinson Will Be Passed.

The St. Paul branch of the tenth division of the National Association of Railway Postal Clerks met at the Windsor hotel last night and enjoyed a short social session.

The annual meeting was to have taken place last night, but those present deemed it advisable to adjourn until next Saturday, when officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

There is also considerable important business to come before the meeting, and it is likely that resolutions of condolence on the death of C. J. Robinson, the mail clerk who was killed in the Omaha wreck at Ashton, Wis., last Sunday, will be passed.

Organize Cutters' Association.
Members of the local tailoring fraternity have arranged for a meeting at the Ryan, at which a cutters' association will be organized. Those who have so far signified their intention of joining the association are W. W. Penno, F. A. Schab, Nelson, Fred A. Reed, G. A. Clippard, W. L. McGrath, August Whitman, J. W. Duncan, Charles Friedman, Sam Reisman, E. G. Norain, Charles F. Pusch, John Lindstrom, H. Gall, O. Seaguit, Frank Gaestner, S. O. Wilson, E. H. Schusted, John Sandell, C. A. Thornquist and S. So far this year the local health department has cared for 193 smallpox patients, all of whom have been inmates of the pest house on Dale street. Yesterday the number housed at that institution was four.

FEW HIGH BUILDINGS GOING UP THIS YEAR

Building Law Blamed for Reluctance of Capitalists to Invest in Skyscrapers.

Of the building permits issued by the city department of public works there has been for a building over four stories in height. Few have exceeded three stories.

The officials of the building department say this is due to the severity of the St. Paul building laws, which demand that all buildings over four stories in height shall be absolutely fireproof. Other exacting requirements are made and to meet them all entails a sum that the average owner is loath to invest.

Avoid the crowd on July 3 and make your deposit now at the State Savings Bank, Germania Life Bldg., 4th and Minn. sts.
