CATHOLIC SUMMER SCHOOL.

An interesting phase of educational activity finds expression through the Catholic summer school, which opened its session last evening at the state

The Catholic summer school is not exclusively a scholastic movement. It is designed to promote the educational interests of persons of the Catholic faith, while at the same time offering an opportunity for summer enjoyment and relaxation. The movement of the Catholic summer school is of recent origin. It is a limited expression of the disposition prevailing among the Catholic people for closer relations and for co-operation among the Catholic people throughout the various sections of the country for the promotion of the Catholic religion. The movement, as light of the marked tendency among all classes of Americans identified in thought or action to come together, there is little doubt that within a few years the Catholic summer schoo! movement will have reached extended

Movements of this general character may be said to have found their inception in the Chautauqua organization. As long ago as fifteen years the Chautauqua society assembled at Mahtomedi in fulfillment of a purpose essentially the same as that which animates the movement for Catholic summer schools, and then and since has enjoyed at intervals the high privilege of listening to men highly distinguished in the several walks of life, including the Rev. Washington Gladden and others, like him, identified with the moral, ethical and religious development of society.

There is no city in the country, as Mayor Smith indicates in his address of welcome, in which the representatives of the Catholic summer school could expect to receive a more cordial welcome than in the city of St. Paul. St. Paul had its beginning under Catholic auspices. From the day when there was established on Second street a rude hut under Catholic auspices, consecrated to Catholic worship, to the present hour. Catholic advancement in this community has kept pace with urban development, and the Catholic religion, like the city of St. Paul. from rude and apparently hopeless beginnings has in the Northwest developed The present situation of the finances into magnificent proportions of public nd private usefulness.

Every citizen of St. Paul, and especially those of them professing attachment to the Catholic faith, is called upon to promote the comfort and enjoyment of the ladies and gentlemen school. ways at a disadvantage. The ladies and gentlemen of the Catholic summer ties should not be permitted to realize at any time during their stay in St. Paul that they are strangers here. Their stay should be made as pleasant as possible, and if the Catholic people like what they can do to promote the success of the Catholic summer school, the result will be one promotive both of the enjoyment of our visitors and the good name of our city.

> FIGURES OF ASSESSOR VERY SATISFACTORY

Inflated Values Punctured Over Million Dollars, But This Is Offset by 10 LUTHER LEAGUERS Per Cent Increase on New Buildings and Improvements-Total Valuation $74,000,000.

St. Paul will have almost $4,000,000 of additional taxable property this year from which to draw a revenue for the conduct of its municipal affairs and the other burdens which the taxing power has seen fit to inflict. And all this is in the face of the 10 per cent cut which the state board so arbitrarily imposed a year ago. County Assessor Conley yesterday completed the compilation of the returns which his deputies have been so industriously securing the past two months, and the results are decidedly satisfactory. Of real estate and improvements in St. Paul the total valuation figured $73,777,125, an increase of $2,902,126 over the valuation of 1900. In the county proper, the vilwe say, is in its beginning, but in the lages showed taxable property to the value of $905,799, and the townships $2,331,921. The grand total of real estate improvements for both city and county is $77,938,400.

In computing the value of unimproved real estate Mr. Conley considerably punctured the inflated values that have been imposed on outlaying holdings, by dropping the previous figures over $1,000,000. This, however, was considerably offset by the addition of 10 per cent to the value of new buildings and the many improvements that have been made since the last assessment was taken.

In the matter of personal property the compilation has not advanced far enough to give exact figures, but the advance over the returns of 1900 will be fully $1,000,000, making a total increase in the taxable property of St. Paul of nearly $4,000,000. The entire value of personal property figures about $15,000,000.

COMMITTEE LIKELY TO UPHOLD GEDNEY

This scheme was vigorously advocated by Assemblyman Arnold, and finally accepted by the other members. The ordinance authorizing the lease speaks of the employment of men only, but on the pay roll were the names of two women. Mr. Arnold was of the opinion that rightfully interpreted the ordinance meant persons. He did not think it was the intention to discriminate between the sexes. Of those employed constantly eight were given as salesmen and office employes, one a teamster and one a manager. Mr. Gedney himself. Others employed were by the day, their number varying with state of businss.

Health Commissioner Ohage was in attendance, but he took little part in the investigation except to introduce Ambrose Young and F. C. Pendergast, who testified to having visited the Gedney plant, and while incidentally asking for employment, succeeded in securing from the foreman a statement of the number of persons employed at this time. According to the information secured by these two men the number of employes consisted of three men and two women. Assemblyman Arnold started to vigorously cross-examine the two men, and Mr. Gedney

But he welcomed them, nevertheless, he said, and he hoped that they would go away with a good opin-ion of Minnesota, for he was sure the state was deserving of it.

There were no doubt, delegates there from New England, he said, and he knew that New Englanders were generally pretty proud, but it was never-theless a fact that New England was pretty small compared with Minnesota. Those few little states could be lost in a big state like Minnesota, he said, and it might be quite difficult to find them. But big as the state was, he was sure that the delegates were welcome to the best there was going.

Dr. Johnson, pastor of the First Swed-ish church, welcomed the delegates in the name of the oldest Lutheran church in St. Paul. He said that the gates and homes of the city were open to the delegates of the Luther league, and that they were royally welcome—welcome to the church and welcome to the city. They came as the army of the later in the shape of a report which the Lord, he said, and he hoped that they would accomplish much good for the Blast Played Havoc.

While blasting rock in the sewer work being done on Tuscarora avenue yesterday morning, a large stone was shot high into the air. It landed on the rear portion of the roof of 537 Tuscarora avenue and crashed through into a bedroom onto a bed. None of the family was in that portion of the house at the time and no person was injured. The damage to the roof was considerable, as nearly one entire side was caved in.

Charged with Larceny Arnold started to vigorously cross-examine the two men, and Mr. Gedney entered a protest on the ground that the information was surreptitiously secured, but both were quieted by Chairman Schurmeier, who informed them that the statements of the two men were substantiated by the pay rolls of that date. This concluded the investigation and the members agreed to ad-

PROMINENT CLUB WOMEN VISIT ST. PAUL

Mrs. Ruffin, of Boston, and Mrs. Yates, President of the National Federation, Speak Earnestly of Their Efforts to Help Their People to Make Progress.

Mrs. Josephine St. Pierre Ruffin, of Boston, believes the members of the Adelphi colored club were quite justified in the recent effort they made to gain admittance to the Minnsota State Federation of Women's Clubs. Beyond this expression of her approval of the action of her sister club women, Mrs. Ruffin had little to say yesterday in regard to the color question as it affects the white club women. Mrs. Salome Yates, president of the National Federation of Colored Women; Mrs. Fannie Williams, of Chicago, and Mrs. Ida Barnett-Wells, of Chicago, Mrs. Ruffin was the guest of honor yesterday afternoon at a reception given by the Adelphi club at the residence of Mrs. W. G. Francis on St. Anthony avenue.

Notably handsome is this woman. who was made famous by the action of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in refusing to accept her credentials at the biennial of that federation in Milwaukee, because she was colored. Mrs. Ruffin is very light for a colored woman. Her hair is gray and she wears it in a high pompadour Her eyes are large, very dark and very bright. She is well educated, a bright and fluent speaker and she possesses magnetism

"I want the people of my race to progress," she said yesterday. "And I think they are justified in embracing every opportunity that is offered them or that lies in their way. When a colored woman is morally and mentally the equal of a white woman she stands on the same plane with that white woman.'

Mrs. Yates, the president of the Colored Women's Federation, is a different type from Mrs. Ruffin, but she is equally interesting in her way and has the interest of her people close to heart. Mrs. Ruffin and Mrs. Yates are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mc-Ghee, of University avenue.
