

MAY WANT AN HEIRESS

HEIR APPARENT OF SIAM IS TO VISIT THE WEST

Suggested That Visit Will Afford an Opportunity for Some St. Paul Girl to Capture a Title and His Highness at One and the Same Time.

The heir apparent to the throne of Siam is to visit St. Paul. Naturally the announcement awakens the liveliest interest. For besides being a prince the royal visitor is an opportunity. He is described as matrimonially eligible and distinctly handsome. It has long been the fashion for American girls to aspire to titles. But up-to-date in everything else, the St. Paul girl has been sadly remiss in this particular. To her own knowledge not a single St. Paul girl is to be found in the ranks of either the English or the Siamese nobility. The loss, of course, is on the other side of the pond, but the fault undoubtedly rests with the St. Paul girl. Like the mountain, she has steadfastly refused to go to Mahomet. Is it possible that Mahomet, in the person of the prince of Siam, has decided to come to her?

To be consort to a king—even a king of Siam—is, we think, a position distinctly worth while. Of course, as an objection, there is the matter of color. We fancy the heir apparent is not blonde. But after all the prejudice against color is largely local. It has not prevented English maidens from forming alliances with Indian rajahs. And doubtless in time one would get used to a husband who was a perpetual reminder of an oriental cosy corner. The prince will visit America to inspect the "factories." Phya Akhanaj, Vradhara has assured us. Phya is the Siamese minister. We suspect the Siamese minister of diplomacy. It is a long journey to the Siamese factories, and rumor has it that the royal coffers of Siam are low. And from time universal low royal coffers have a general search among reminiscences. The following is very characteristic of the great writer, Dumas, it is well known was often in special difficulties, and was well acquainted with the ways and means of bailiffs. One day a per-son called upon him and asked him to subscribe 20 francs toward the expenses of burying a bailiff. Twenty francs to bury a bailiff? quoth Dumas. "Well, I'm not in funds just now, but here's 40 francs. Go and bury a couple."—Exchange.

Make Your Own Sashes.

Any woman who knows what to do with a thimble and thread can make her own sashes, and very gorgeous, expensive looking ones at that, for very small outlay. The best and latest made in sash drapery requires mention, for a round knot at the belt and two floating ends is considered the refuge of the common place. There is the sash that has a knot at the belt, and a short loop on top of the ends, and finally the knot that is pulled through a long, narrow buckle, which is shaped and bent to follow the curves of the waist line.

Don't Talk Shop.

You never hear a really cultured, tactful man or woman "talk shop" in society, or anywhere outside of his or her office or place of business.

If you wish to make yourself agreeable to other people, do not make your business or your occupation, whatever it may be, a subject of conversation with those whom it cannot possibly interest. Read, think, observe, visit, picture galleries, and museums, and learn to talk about things which other people will enjoy. You will be surprised to find how much more popular it will make you, and how much it will add to the joy and beauty of your life.

For Prickly Heat.

Prickly heat is due to various causes. The treatment is simple. If the eruption is local, bay rum or cologne is a cooling application, and should be followed by the use of powdered starch or mixture of starch and oxide of zinc in the proportion of four to one. The skin should be gently dried with a soft towel.

If there is much itching, a lotion of arising from the oyster shell clean off the bricks.

The Smart Parisienne.

When she takes her morning walk in the Avenue des Acacias attired in a costume of linen, with a well-fitting corset, or bolero coat and stitched or plaited skirt, clearing the ground, she is certainly a figure of interest to all who study smart dress.

The little linen-covered hat, sailor-shaped, encircled by a pretty application lace veil or lace drapery, is especially dainty for morning wear, and essentially in keeping with a simple walking frock.

LACE TRIMMED LOUISINE GOWN.

This exquisite imported model evening gown is made of pale blue Louise, with accordion plaited founce of blue chiffon to match. Bands of white lace hold fluff ruffles of the chiffon, and are outlined with black velvet dots. The lace, chiffon and velvet dots appear also on the waist. The sash is of the silk, with bars of velvet.

bicarbonate of soda and water, one part of the powder to one hundred parts of water, may be applied to the affected parts with a soft cloth and allowed to dry.

If the whole body is affected, alkaline or bran baths nearly always give relief. For the former, four ounces of sodium bicarbonate to the tub of water may be used.

Bits of Femininity.

Among new ribbons is one of crepe de chine.

Of course, black and white checks are to be seen in bathing suits this year. As the black and white checked frocks are trimmed with bright red, the bright red bathing suits are trimmed with the black and white check. One red suit has the sailor collar, with the sailor tie, and the sash knotted in front of it; the ruffles on the short puffed sleeves also of the check as is the bathing cap, this one of the ordinary padded variety.

Remember the Hosts.

The American Seed Trade association has presented Mr. and Mrs. L. L. May with a handsome oxidized silver fern dish. Mr. and Mrs. May entertained members of the association at their recent convention in Minneapolis. The gift is very artistic in design, ornamented with figures in relief, suitably inscribed. It is an appropriate expression of the good will of the delegates to the convention.

THE REASON WHY.

Said an owl to a fly. "Passing dolefully by."

"Pray rest a while, madam, and tell me your trouble; I'm wiser than birds go."

"And perhaps would know if my sorrow is weighty or simply a bubble."

"Your pardon I pray."

"Subbed the fly. "But they say that my eyes—it seems strange—Number over one hundred! And think if you will, Of my owl's bill should I live to be aged! This, sir, is my one dread!"
