TRUSTED PAL MORE THAN GRL

Thrifty Suitor Deposits $350 in a Friend's Name, and $250 of It Is Withdrawn.

A desire on the part of a suitor that his girl should know nothing of a deposit of $350 in a savings bank, and the advice of a whilom, but trusted friend, by which that deposit is supposed to have disappeared, were interestingly disclosed before Judge Hine in the trial of a suit brought by Harry Arkofsky against the German-American bank.

Harry Arkofsky, a tailor and repairer, and plaintiff in the suit, upon the witness stand, told the story of his loss. By hard labor he had accumulated $350. He and "this girl," as he expressed it, already had a deposit of $60 in a local bank, and Arkofsky, desiring to surprise her, decided to keep his $290 deposit a secret.

To Harry Sachs, a friend of a week's acquaintance, with whom he often played an occasional game of pool, he confided his desire. Sachs advised him, he told the court, to put the deposit in somebody else's name.

Suggests His Own Name.

"Why, anybody's name; Shapira's or mine," he said. Sachs, however, suggested his own name. After further discussion, Arkofsky placed the money in the State Savings bank, in the name of his friend, Harry Sachs.

The money was deposited on Sept. 8, and on Sept. 20, according to Arkofsky, the bank book was presented at the bank and $250.52 withdrawn. Arkofsky said he believed the bank officials of the loss of his book, and upon payment of $1 the loss was advertised. Nothing was heard of the book, however, until during the middle of October, when it turned up at the German-American bank. It had been sent by a bank in Cincinnati for collection. The State Savings bank refused to pay the balance of $93.48 remaining on deposit.

Arkofsky, who says he made the deposit under the name of Sachs, demanded the book. The bank refused to comply, whereupon Arkofsky brought suit to recover the money. He believes Sachs took the bank book, he said, led the city some time after the money was deposited.

Judge Hine gave judgment in Arkofsky's favor, and he will obtain possession of his bank book. He says he will also bring suit against the savings bank for the $250.52, which, he claims, was paid out without his authority.

EXAMINEE JOHNSON IS SORELY GRIEVED

PUBLIC EXAMINER SAYS HIS MOTIVES ARE ENTIRELY MISUNDERSTOOD

DESIRES TO KEEP OUT TWO OBJECTIONABLE CONCERNS

He Claims He Has Sold His Interest in the Minneapolis Bonding and Brokerage Concern Which Still Uses His Name—Contemplated Competitive Bidding for Big Contracts.

Public Examiner Samuel T. Johnson says the public is entirely at fault in its estimate of his scheme to save money for county officials compelled to furnish bonds.

Mr. Johnson admits the scheme is a departure from anything ever attempted by his predecessors, but denies that there is anything in his plan which will return him any pecuniary reward. He insists that he has sold his interest in the S. T. Johnson & Farrington bonding and brokerage business in Minneapolis, and that while his name is still used he has no direct connection with the concern.

His interest in the scheme outlined in his letter of Nov. 14, Mr. Johnson says simply in a desire to save money for county officials, increase the number of corporation bonds and keep out the companies not authorized to do business in Minnesota. Two Dakota companies, Mr. Johnson says, have solited Minnesota business and he is not in possession of information satisfying him that they can comply with the Minnesota law.

Gov. Van Sant is out of the city and his views of his public examiner's scheme are in consequence denied the public for the time. Mr. Johnson yesterday said:

Johnson Explains.

I do not see how any ulterior motive can be ascribed to the plans I have submitted to the court officials. I am out of the brokerage business and I have not talked with any bonding company about this plan. I am emphatically in favor of every bond of corporation officers for county officials instead of personal sureties. In cases throughout the United States where default has occurred 90 per cent of the corporation bonds have been realized upon, and less than 20 per cent of the personal bonds. The surety bond system is growing, and the officials are paying premiums ranging from 1/4 of 1 per cent to 1 1/2 per cent. I thought I could save the county money by getting officials and at the same time keep the business out of undesirable hands. Thirty or forty counties have already asked me to take up a matter and my intention was to secure a favorable rate by asking for competitive bids from all the companies authorized to do business in the state. Yes, any of the five or six companies which have been admitted by the insurance commissioner. Some of them think I had not any intention of playing a favorite.

Not All Are Satisfied.

Mr. Johnson's explanation is not entirely satisfactory to some of the interested parties. There are six bonding companies operating in the state under warrant of the insurance commissioner. Some of them think Mr. Johnson has not been friendly to them in the past and can see no assurance of a check-burying in the plan proposed by him. Only a few counties are permitted by special laws to pay the premiums on the bonds of their county officials. All county officers, with the exception of superintendent of schools and county commissioners, are requested to furnish bonds. The appointment of personal sureties and avoid the payment of any premium, which, in the case of a bond of $250,000 even at a premium of only 1/4 of 1 per cent amounts to $1,250 per year, and cuts a big hole in the official's salary.

MAY ELECT A DARK HORSE.

First District Caucus Fails to Settle Fight for Speakership.

The First district caucus yesterday at Austin, which was to result, according to the prepared programme, in delivering the First district delegation to Lawrence Johnson and the settlement of the speakership fight, resulted in leaving the race for the house gavel just where it started yesterday morning.

The First district caucus, so far as it helped the plans of the Lowry interest, proved altogether a dismal failure and developments of a day may result in the disintegration of the strength put up in the so-called joint caucus of the First and Seventh districts Tuesday night. Part of the Seventh district delegation did not attend the joint caucus and yesterday there was trouble and loud mutterings. At 9 o'clock last night there were discussions in the Fifth district delegation threatening a break there.

The plan mapped out late Tuesday contemplated a withdrawal of all the candidates in opposition to Babcock in favor of Johnson. The First district was to be delivered to the Hennepin man yesterday and the fight for the speakership was not made good and the race is still open. Babcock has apparently 44 votes, and Johnson 26. Fifty-three are necessary to elect, and also by a new candidate may yet land the coveted plum. Burns, however, now appears to be out of the running, as his district yesterday endorsed Edward Fanning for sergeant-at-arms, and it can hardly hope to land two officers.

The First district men got together at Austin early in the afternoon. Fanning was quickly endorsed for sergeant-at-arms, and, as Babcock, of the Seventh district, landed an indorsement for chief clerk. That apparently left the First district out of the speakership fight, except as a band wagon proposition, and later that view was confirmed by the appointment of a steering committee. That apparently leaves the fight between Babcock and Johnson. Johnson, as a Hennepin candidate, seems an impossibility, and the field looks good for the entry of a dark horse.

EXPERTS IN WOODCRAFT HAVE A DISAGREEMENT

Tree Nursed by Mr. Oehlrich Is Discredited by Brownson, Who Said He Would Buy It.

The suit brought by C. Oehlrich against Ralph Brownson, like the good old song of the nursery, centered about a mulberry tree, except that several times during the interminable trial of the cause before Judge Hine, in the

HER AFFECTION WAS CHILLED BY APPLICATIONS OF WATER THAT WAS ICED

Because her husband threw ice water upon her while she was lying sick in bed Fannie Scheunk is suing Samuel Scheunk for divorce.

Mrs. Scheunk further complains that when she had been married but five weeks Scheunk kicked and beat her because she would not give to work. Furthermore, she alleges that on Nov. 20, 1900, he willfully deserted her and civil division of the municipal court, the court looked as if he were forsaking his memory for the lost chords of "Here we go round the mulberry tree, the mulberry tree," to enliven the ordeal.

Mr. Brownson, in the fall of 1901, emulating, according to the late Mr. Donnelly's view, the alleged William Shakespeare, ordered a mulberry tree for his yard, testified Mr. Oehlrich. As it was then too late to set out the tree, the planting was postponed until May, 1902. The tree was planted and cared for by Mr. Oehlrich, who is a carpenter. When the tree was well started and had rooted itself firmly in the soil, Mr. Oehlrich presented a bill to Mr. Brownson for $10. Mr. Brownson demurred and offered $3. Mr. Oehlrich refused the offer and sued for his bill.

The difference in the values placed by the plaintiff and defendant led to the calling of expert witnesses in the persons of L. L. May and H. Bunde. Mr. Oehlrich described the tree as being four and one-half inches in diameter at three-fourths of an inch thick. It was worth about $5, he thought, and his services in attending it were worth as much more. The expert witnesses, however, failed to agree with him as to the value. Mr. May thought the tree was worth about 50 cents, and that $10 was really an unusual charge for the services rendered.

Judge Hine took a like view of the matter and gave Oehlrich judgment for $3.

SAYS SALOON BAR WAS HIS SAVIOR WHEN ORNATELLO STARTED SHOOTING

"I ducked behind the bar about that time," said Carmine Ruberto, proprietor of the "Bucket of Blood" saloon on South Washington street, at the trial of Toni Ornateello before Judge Brill yesterday on a charge of attempting to shoot a woman.

"Ornateello rented apartments from me," said Ruberto yesterday. "I decided not to let him live in the saloon, and he told Ornateello that he was provoked at having to move."

"Ornateello entered the saloon with Ann Grosell, the woman who lived upstairs. He called me back to the lunch counter and talked with me, calling me names. We returned to the front part of the saloon and I told him if he didn't get out I would call the police. I caught him by the telephone and at that Ornateello pulled a gun and started to shoot. Then I dived down under the bar. Ornateello and Grosell turned him around and the gun went off shooting the woman in the leg."

"Oh, yes, I have two guns now back of the bar. I won't take any more chances," he said in answer to a question. Several witnesses were called, and the court, however, was compelled to adjourn until today in order to secure the presence of material witnesses.

Whittier Will Run STATE TRAINING SCHOOL

Board of Control Appoints State Agent to Succeed J. W. Brown, Resigned.

The board of control accepted the resignation of Supt. J. W. Brown, of the state training school for delinquents, and appointed Frank A. Whittier to succeed him. The salary is $1,800 per year and living for superintendent and his family. The appointment of Whittier will become effective as soon as Mr. Brown retires, which will be within a week or so.

Mr. Whittier has held the position of state agent for the penitentiary and reformatory for five years, having been appointed by Gov. Clough. His duties as agent have been to look after paroled prisoners from the two institutions and see that they secured employment and lived up to the rules laid down for paroled prisoners. His successor has been agreed upon, but the state board of control is not ready to make their selection known to the public.

THE LIFE OF

The Man Behind the Desk.

"Coffee soaked me hard for about 3 years, and I was troubled with indigestion, headaches and drowsiness. I had no appetite and could not sleep and I was steadily losing flesh all the time. I had spent a small fortune on medical and doctor bills. I consulted several doctors, one told me that I had kidney trouble, another told me that I had kidney trouble, and I finally looked upon my bad stomach as a part of my miserable existence, giving up all hope of ever being myself again."

"I knew that the cause of it was all due to office work, which precluded sufficient bodily exercise and the use of food, not nourishing and non-digestive food, and the drinking of tea and coffee. I had to quit my work, as I lost my mental faculties."

"A friend of mine, who weighs about 240 pounds, and who looks the picture of health, advised me to use Grape-Nuts as a food and drink Postum Coffee. He said that his perfect health was due to the use of these two cereals. He said that they would build up the delicate cells of the brain and body and restore me to health."

"I acted on his advice and have no cause to regret it. I have now been using Grape-Nuts and Postum Coffee for some time and am in perfect health and weigh ten pounds more than I ever did."

"Grape-Nuts food is the crystallized essence of all cereals. I eat it four times a day, prepared with cream, and also by pouring some of it over my porridge and my hand and then eating it. Postum Coffee has also helped me greatly. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich."

MAY REBUILD STAR OR ERECT NEW THEATER

O. F. Miller, of Milwaukee, One of the Owners of the Local Playhouse, Visits City.

Next spring may see either a new Star theater or an old one, and the playhouse in St. Paul. O. F. Miller, who is financially interested in the Star and Dewey theaters of St. Paul and Minneapolis, was in the city yesterday, and he announces that either may be done.

Mr. Miller is in charge of the Northwestern theater, and he will visit here one of inspection, and also to see if arrangements cannot be made with the owner of the Star theater to have it remodeled. If this cannot be done, a new theater will be built.

Mr. Miller is quite pleased with the prosperity attending the theaters in the two cities, and says it is due to the superior class of attractions that have been booked. All the companies arranged for this winter will come direct from Hopkins' theater, Chicago. He left last evening for Minneapolis to inspect the situation in that city.

Business to Start With.

"This, you see, will give us considerable business to start with, although it may not all come in at once. The $450,000 in applications which we have already secured is from points throughout the state, and everything looks most encouraging for the new company."

Minneapolis Mutual company, with which I am connected, and which started some time ago, has done remarkably well, and there is no reason why the St. Paul company should not make a success of it. I don't suppose the insurance companies like the idea very much, but they are naturally opposed to mutual companies. You understand that the new company will not have to accept the application of any one for insurance. The applications are made, and if the officers consider the firm a desirable risk, it can be issued. We expect to commence business within a short time."

Headquarters in St. Paul.

Articles of incorporation of the new company were filed with the state insurance commissioner yesterday. The company will have its headquarters in St. Paul. The incorporators are A. Jones, A. J. Birmingham, John W. Lux, Fred Mason and Henry G. Allen, of St. Paul; Fred Lorenz, Herman J. Dahn, and J. E. Main, of Minneapolis, and J. A. Laitch, of Winona.

PRISONER WEEPS WHEN JUDGE BRILL SENTENCES HIM TO THE REFORMATORY

When Judge Brill sentenced Carlton E. Biggs to a reformatory sentence at Stillwater for snatching a watch from Joseph Buckhorn in a saloon on Minnesota street Oct. 20, the prisoner broke down and wept. He had nothing to say when asked why the sentence should not be passed upon him.

Biggs, on the way out to jail, stopped his attorney, Harry C. Judson, and held a whispered conversation with him. Judson handed him something and the prisoner went on.

"Oh, he wanted a nickel to pay his paper boy with," said Judson.
