BULLET JUST MISSES HAMMES

Jailer at Central Station Narrowly Escapes Being Shot—Shooter Is Arrested.

John Hammes, jailer at the Central police station, narrowly escaped being shot while walking along Wabasha street, near Seventh, shortly after mid-night yesterday morning.

Just as he reached a point in front of Middlestadt & Elmer's saloon, opposite Lennon's clothing store, a man standing in the saloon doorway fired a revolver, the bullet whistling past the officer's head and through one of the large plate glass windows in the Lennon store.

The bullet came so close to Hammes that he was almost staggered for a moment, but he recovered his composure in time to arrest the man who did the shooting. Officer Engleson having appeared from across the street in the meantime.

The bullet also passed close to Pug-leson, who was standing in front of the clothing store. When arrested, the man denied his guilt, but upon being searched, a revolver was found with an empty chamber and the barrel of the gun still warm. The man gave his name as Mike Lynch, and in the police court yesterday pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and will be sentenced today.

Two other men, who were with Lynch at the time, were arrested by Officer Engleson. They gave their names as Oliver Morgan and Joe Collins. Judge Hine decided it would be best to retire them until after the holidays, Mersan going to the workhouse for thirty days and Collins fifteen.

LEADERS IN RETAIL ASSOCIATION

Plans Are Being Carried Out to Perfect Solid Organization.

Mr. Gillilan was emphatically a self-made man. He was left an orphan when a mere child and began life on his own account at eleven years of age, when he came to the Cheong county, New York, and became one of the household of a farmer. He worked on a farm and in a saw mill for about five years, meanwhile attending the district schools in the winter seasons and studying his books during every leisure hour. He was naturally intelligent and receptive, learned fast and thoroughly, and when he was but sixteen passed a successful examination and received a school teacher's certificate. His scholastic education was completed at Hamilton college, New York, where he was a student for about two years.

In 1850, when but nineteen years of age, he settled in Missouri and became the assistant principal of an academy at Potosi, where he taught during the fall of 1851 and the winter of 1851, and during his administration his school increased, largely through his efforts, from 35 to 115 pupils.

In the spring of 1851, having saved from his salary about $500, the young teacher determined to seek another field. A copy of James M. Goodhue's Minnesota, published at St. Paul, chanced to come into his hands, and its glowing descriptions of the advantages to young men of the then new Minnesota territory induced him to come to Minnesota. He located at Stillwater, and for the next eighteen months taught the public school, spending his spare time in the study of law under the instruction of the gifted and accomplished Michael E. Ames.

Served as Town Recorder.

In 1855 he was admitted to the bar, and soon afterward formed a law partnership with Gold T. Curtis. In the spring of 1854, at the first municipal

PIONEER LAWYER DIES SUDDENLY

CHARLES D. GILFILLAN, WELL-KNOWN JURIST, GOES TO HIS REWARD

ONE OF ST. PAUL'S FOREMOST BUSINESS MEN

Had Been Ill Since Last Summer, When He Was Injured in a Run-away Accident at His Farm in Redwood County—Death Was Unexpected.

Charles D. Gillilan, one of the oldest, most prominent and distinguished citizens of Minnesota, died suddenly at 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning at his apartments, Farrington place and Pleasant avenue.

The fatal stroke, caused by heart failure, came unexpected. A few moments before he had spoken cheerfully to his nurse and attendant, saying that he was feeling unusually well and would walk to the dining room and eat breakfast. He had taken his morning bath and looked bright and happy.

Mr. Gillilan had not been well for about a year. While on his farm, near Morgan, Redwood county, last winter, he was injured in a runaway and confined to his bed. Heart troubles and other complications supervened and he was brought to St. Paul for treatment.

The physicians found that his heart was affected. During the early summer he partially recovered, rode and walked about the city and attended to business matters with the last fortnight. For the past week, however, he was confined to his bed in a precarious condition. He did not seem to suffer, except from inability to breathe naturally, which caused sleeplessness and distress generally. The end came painlessly and he passed away without an expression of any sort.

Well Known in Minnesota.

While his death was not wholly unexpected, it came as a terrible shock to the city and state, where Charles D. Gillilan had lived so long, where he had been so prominent and useful and so sincerely esteemed and beloved, and the grief at his departure will be fully as poignant in many communities throughout the country.

Of all the members of his family only his wife, Mrs. Fanny S. Gillilan, was present at his death. Not dreaming that the end would come so soon, his son, Charles, and his daughter, Miss Emma C. Gillilan, were on the farm in Redwood county. His younger son, Frederick J. Gillilan, was in Tacoma, Wash., and his other daughter, Mrs. Kingsland Smith, resides in London. The funeral arrangements will be determined later.

Charles Duncan Gillilan was born at New Hartford, Oneida county, N. Y., July 4, 1831, and was therefore in his seventy-second year. His parents, James and Agnes Gillilan, were both natives of Bannockburn, Scotland. They came to the United States in 1830, and Charles D., their youngest child, was the only member of the family born in this country.

Worked as a Farm Hand.

LOOKS FOR A NIGHT'S LODGING IN A BOX CAR

Minneapolis Youth Lands in Police Court and Is Given Car Fare to Get Home.

Thomas Phillips, an eighteen-year-old youth, who wandered from his home in Minneapolis Wednesday, and finally landed at the Empire theater in the evening, where he spent all of his money, was dragged yesterday morning while looking for an empty box car in the levee yards of the Great Northern in which to sleep.

In police court Judge Hine at first sentenced the boy to ten days in the workhouse, but upon the recommendation of City Prosecutor Keller the sentence was withdrawn and Phillips was presented with 10 cents with which to pay his car fare back to Minneapolis.

Phillips' open countenance and frank manner of speech gave him the appearance of an unsophisticated youth who had not seen much of the hard side of the world, and it was decided best to send him home.

CHIEF ORDERS OUT THE SLOT MACHINES

Trade Instruments Are Overworked and Police Closes Them All Up.

Chief O'Connor yesterday issued an order prohibiting slot machines in saloons and cigar stores.

For several months "slot machines" have been allowed, but some of the dealers have abused the privilege by paying the winnings in trade checks instead of in merchandise. The order to cease operating the machines was issued early yesterday morning, and last night the machines had disappeared. All the down-town saloons and cigar stands were notified, and many of the waiting saloons were also served with the order.
