NORTHROP ADVISES FARMERS TO BE OPTIMISTS

President of State University in His Address to Minnesota Agricultural Society Congratulates the Members on Prosperity of the Farmers-Says Minnesota Has Best Agricultural School in Country.

> * TODAY'S PROGRAMME.

Morning Session, 9:30 O'clock.

President's annual address. Secretary's report. Treasurer's report. Report of committees. Election of officers.

Dr. Cyrus Northrop, of the state university, defended the agricultural school and the agricultural college before the convention of the Minnesota State Agricultural society yesterday afternoon in the Commercial club. In addition to the 150 agriculturists who have been attending the convention, a have been attending the convention, a number of outside visitors heard the

The speaker stated that Minnesota had the best agricultural school and the best agricultural college in the country. Referring to a criticism of agricultural institutions, recently pub-lished in a New York paper, Dr. Northrop said that it was undoubtedly inspired by a knowledge of the limitations of agricultural schools similar to the one in Wisconsin, which had no connection with any university. "No coterie of farmers," said the speaker, "is intelligent enough to give to the pupils of an agricultural school or college the opportunities and the training to which they are entitled. Such a school and such a college must be maintained in connection with the broader university."

At the beginning of his address Dr. Northrop explained that he was a farmer's boy, and had been brought up on a farm, and therefore could address a body of farmers with some under-standing. He said that he was glad that the question of land fertilization had been duly considered by the convention, for he thought that this was the most important problem that the Minnesota farmer had to face. The latter part of Dr. Northrop's address was a plea for optimism.

Pleads for Optimism.

"There are two ways of looking at e," he said. "One way is to gaze steadily, carefully and appreciatively at the things we possess. The other way is to look steadily, carefully and appreciatively at the things we do not possess, ignoring all others. The first method leads to optimism, the second to pessimism. You farmers of Minnesota have a right to be optimistic," he concluded. "You dwell in a land of prosperity. Your farms are prosperous and your state is prosperous. If you are always mindful of your rich possessions you will never lose faith yourselves or humanity.

Prof. S. B. Green, of the state agricultural school, also spoke at the afternoon session. His subject was "Progress in Horticulture," and during the course of his address he read a number of statistics which showed that Minnesota had really made progress in this branch of agriculture. Especially had the Minnesota apple crop increased, the speaker declared. The cold and snowless winters were hard on the sensitive roots, he said, but a number of experiments were now being made to see if this root could not be strength-

The speaker declared that the present winter was ideal apple weather, and that if all Minnesota winters were like the present one, the state would have an enormous apple crop. "The small fruit industry is also increasing rapidly in Minnesota," said Prof. Green. "Farmers are handicapped in the grape-raising industry be-cause they are obliged to cover the nes in winter, but the Delaware

About 150 agriculturists attended yesterday morning's session of the convention. Dean W. M. Liggett presided at this as well as the other two sessions.

Prof. Robert Shaw, of the Agricultural College of Michigan, gave an interesting talk on "Economy in the Production of Meats." He criticised the farmer for allowing his stock to run down in breed. Inspectors had found that in the majority of beef cettle down in breed. Inspectors had found that in the majority of beef cattle shipped from the Northwest nearly all varieties of the bovine species had been found united in the individual animal. Many of these composite breeds had come from Minnesota. A. J. Lovejoy, of Roscoe, Ill., read a valuable paper on "Swine Husbandry."

"Indeed I do, and I don't care for how long. He is of little use about the house," the woman replied.

When it was learned that Howbart had more than $100 on his person, he was compelled to give $25 to his wife, which he did in a very reluctant manner. The woman took the money and smiled as her husband was taken to the hold-over.

"It is more money than I have ever had before," she said.

Howbart said he had slapped his wife, but said he had not done so until after she had driven him into a corner and pelted him with plates and other missiles. This enraged him he

SIN OF SIMON MAGUS HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH CHURCH

Father Conway Explains Many Things That Are Not Understood by Non-Catholics—Expounds Law Affecting the Clergy and the Laity.

The chief feature of the Paulist mission at St. Luke's church last evening, as given by Father Conway, was the answer-ing of many very vital questions bearing upon those points least understood by non-Catholics concerning the tenets of the order propounded:

"Why do you charge for masses? Is not this the sin of Simon Magus? (Acts. viti., 18-24)."

"Why do you exact a fixed sum of money to get people out of purgatory? Should not salvation be free to all?

We do not charge for masses. The sin of Simon Magus consisted in his endeavoring to purchase the apostolic gift of miracles. Simony in every form, i. e., the buying and selling of benefices, bishoprics and abbacies, traffic in masses, etc., has ever been denounced as grievous sin by the Catholic church, and the severest measures possible taken to guard against it. (Of Universal Church History—Alzog, Vol. I., 160, 327, 369, 487, etc.) Her words to the simonlacal are the words of her first pope, St. Peter, "Keep thy money to thy self, to perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money * * thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Do penance therefore for thy wick-edness, etc. (Acts. viii., 20-23).

"As for the variations in stipends for a requiem high mass we must take into account the expense incurred by organist, choir, etc."

"Of course abuses have occurred and will occur, for the desire of money is a root of all evil." (Tim., vi.. 10), as the apostle tells us. The logical mind, however, will always ascribe these abuses to the sins of the individual and not to the church which is most zealous to do away with them.

"The religious duty of supporting the clergy as is clearly set forth in the Old and New Testament, and the Catholic church commands her children to do so by special precept.

"In the old law the Jews set aside a tenth of their flocks for their priests." "Of Gen., xxviii., 22). Again God ordered the people to make certain specified donations to the priests when they exercise their ministry. Thus women after childbith offered the priest "a lamb for a holocaust and a young pigeon or a turtle for sin" (Lev. xii., 6), or if too poor, like the blessed virgin (Luke I. 24), two turtle doves or two young pigeon or devention.

What the Church Teaches.

What the Church Teaches.

"I readily grant that many are Catholics, Protestants or unbelievers because their parents were so before them, or because of their early education. But the Catholic church teaches that faith as an act of the intellect based on rational motives of credibility that all may test. needing only a good will on the part of the individual, and the grace of God, which is never refused to those who ask it, to enable a man to counteract the false teachings of his education or environment. The nature of faith can be seen from its official definition at the Vatican council, sess, III. chapter 3: "Seeing that man wholly dependeth upon God as His Creator and Lord, and seeing that created reason is entirely subject to uncreated truth, we are bound to submit by faith our intellect and will to God the Revealer. But this faith, which is the beginning of man's salvation, the church Revealer. But this faith, which is the beginning of man's salvation, the church confesseth to be a supernatural virtue, whereby, with the help of God's grace, we believe what He revealeth, not because we perceive its intrinsic truth by the natural light of our reason, but on account of the authority of God the Revealer, who can neither deceive nor be deceived."

M'CILL INDORSES POST CHECK BILL

Postmaster Thinks Castle's Scheme Is a Feasible One.

"I in every way indorse the post heck scheme which Capt. H. A. Castle is now trying to induce congress to adopt," said Postmaster A. R. McGill last night. "It would be a great convenience to the public and would elimi-Is not religion a question of education and environment rather than of intellectual conviction?

note system has."

The post check scheme which Postmaster McGill so heartily indorses is the outgrowth of a vigorous crusade on the part of the mail order firms and business houses generally throughout the United States, which demand a system that will permit the transfer of small sums of money without resort to the use of bothersome postage stamps or the more cumbersome money order.

In answer the postal department has coiceived what will be known as post checks, a form of paper currency in denominations from 25 cents to $5, denominations from 25 cents to $5, which, when signed by the remitter and indorsed by the payee will be negotiable at any postoffice. The scheme is akin to the "shinplasters" of war times, but instead of being a circulating medium, are retired the moment they are dium, are retired the cashed. The work check more properly cashed. The work check more properly describes them, as each must carry both the names of the remitter and payee and will be cashed when indorsed only by the latter. A 2-cent stamp affixed to each is the pay the government will receive for its trouble.

The scheme is mainly for the purpose of conditions.

pose of sending small amounts of money through the mail, and has the indorsement of all firms whose business is of this character. It will eliminate the use of stamps and coin and do away with the money order, a system that is decidedly inconvenient. tem that is decidedly inconvenient when small amounts are involved. Unlike the old postal note, they will not be subject to tampering and cashing by persons other than the owner. The cashing of each only upon the indorse-ment of the payee will render them safe, while the small fee demanded will make them decidedly acceptable.

There is a general fear that the scheme will have the effect of reducing the business now done by the money order department. Postmaster McGill thinks it will have that effect at first, but not to the extent predicted. The convenience to the remitter and the consequent increase in business he says, will more than offset the loss in the other service. Capt. Castle is now explaining the scheme to the house committee on postoffices and post roads and there is every indication that the act authoriz ing the new service will be approved.

SUM OF $5 SOOTHES FATHER'S DISTRESS

Refuses for That Amount to Prosecute Man Who Broke His Boy's Skull. The payment of $5 to Frank Kizka put a stop to the prosecution of the case against Jacob Pawlske, who was arrested Tuesday on a warrant sworn out by Kizka, who charged him with having fractured the skull of Michael the little son of the complain-Dr. Binder stated that he had been called to attend the boy's injuries and found that the lad's skull had been ractured, that he had suffered a con-ussion of the brain, and that his hearing was permanently impaired. The boy is still in a bad condition and unable to leave his bed.

ka settled with Pawlske for the sum When the case was called yesterday Kizka said he did not care to prosecute, as he had been paid to drop the matter. The case against Pawlske was disnissed but on account of the boy's injuries, which are very serious, Judge Finehout gave the father a good lec-ture. Pawlske is said to have pushed Amount Needed. The demand for gas house coke has hand that the Youghlogheny & Lehigh Coal company, which has control of the coke market in St. Paul, will not take orders for that fuel till orders on hand have been filled. S. G. Russell, sales agent of the company, thinks it will be a week before enough coke is obtained from the daily output to dispose of the orders or hand.

Owing to the fact that the coke sup-ply is so limited the price which has been asked for it has been advanced from $8 to $9. AND YET THEY ARE TWINS.

Girl Bables Born in Olfferent Years. Girl Bables Born in Different Years.

Twin sisters, each with a different birthday—stranger yet, for each was born in a different year. That is the curious situation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stift, 150 Sheffield avenue, Chicago. They are the parents of the twins, and the story of the birth of the bables in different years is now going the rounds of the neighborhood of Center street and Sheffield avenue, where Mr. Stift, who is a fireman at the North avenue and Larrabee street station, is well known.

One of the twins was born at 10:10 p.

EAT SLOW Means Chew Fast, Fine and Hard, but Swallow Slow, "Across the table sat a young man," "Across the table sat a young man, remarked an old gentleman from New Albany, Ind., recently, "with a sickly face, who was slowly chewing in a fashion which led me believe that his teeth were all in such condition that if he should forget himself and bite a little bit herder off would fly the top." little bit harder, cff would fly the top of his head. Finally I remarked:

"You have to be very careful of what the doctor meant was to chew fast, fine and hard, but to swallow slowly. Now you are actually committing suicide, the doctor meant for you to use your teeth. Are your teeth all right?"

Then I told him of my experience in and the way it is prepared corrects any digestive trouble a person may have. I know my lease of life has been renewed for a term of years by its use." Name given by Postum Co.. Battle Creek, Mich.
