WOULD USE CONVICTS TO MAKE MATERIAL FOR ROADS

President Cooley, of Good Roads Association, Favors Using Prisoners to Produce Wherewith to Improve Highways of State—Proposed Bill Is Discussed.

The State Good Roads association, with an attendance of about forty, labored long and earnestly yesterday and last evening in the council chamber at the city hall on the crusade they have undertaken to promote. It was the ninth annual session and the two meetings were quite lengthy and matters decidedly technical occupied the two sessions, and it was at a late hour last night when adjournment was reached. The only matter of interest to the few outsiders attracted was the visit of Gov. Van Sant, who, in a characteristic speech, welcomed the delegates and pledged them his aid in securing the reforms desired. Mayor Smith also tendered them a welcome and the freedmen of the city, and said there was anything "he did stand for" was good roads.

George W. Cooley, of Minneapolis, one of the pioneers in the good roads movement, presided, and in his opening address at the morning session took occasion to congratulate the delegates on the success of the movement so far. In his remarks he spoke of the use of convict labor and advocated it to the extent of having them prepare the material used in road construction. He was opposed to having them employed direct on the roads.

Mr. Cooley was followed by Ole Peterson, of the Nicollet County Good Roads association, and A. B. Choate, both of whom devoted their remarks to the legislative aid and the necessity of co-operation by the farmers. Mr. Choate paid some caustic tributes to the legislature for its persistency in adhering to the convict labor system as against a state commission.

At the afternoon session a paper on paving was read by Assistant City Engineer Wilson, and also one by W. C. Frazer on "Road Building Under the State Aid System." Letters pledging their aid in the good roads movement and endorsing state aid were read from H. J. Rudd, state commissioner of public works of New Jersey; W. E. McCurtick, chairman of the Massachusetts highway commission, and Martin Dodge, of Washington.

The major portion of the afternoon legislative sessions was given over to the reading and consideration by sections of the state aid act, a bill to be introduced at the present session of the legislature and which were read, advanced and some corrections demanded. Papers were also read by H. A. Morgan and Prof. W. A. Hoag.

Another session will be held today, at which officers will be elected and committees for lobbying purposes named.

ASSEMBLYMAN WHITCOMB INTRODUCES A RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR AN INVESTIGATION AND ASSEMBLY PASSES IT—WILL INQUIRE INTO PRICE MANIPULATION IN ST. PAUL MARKET.

After being in session less than a dozen days the January grand jury made its final report to Judge Kelly yesterday afternoon, returning indictments in three jail cases and no bills in two other.

The wine room question, so thoroughly investigated by the previous grand jury, was not taken up, and no indictments were returned in any case.

When the present grand jury was sworn in Judge Kelly, in giving the jurors their instructions, requested them to make a thorough investigation into the wine room evil as well as into the report that a gambling house was being conducted just across the line in Dakota county. The report of the jury did not refer to these matters at all.

After hearing the report of the jury, and being advised by the foreman that there was nothing else the jurors desired to investigate, Judge Kelly excused the members from further service until March 2. Another grand jury will not be sworn in until the May term of court, and it was deemed advisable to have this jury report again in March.

Indictments returned yesterday were against Peter Conley, Timothy Foley and the members of the "Buckeye Club" for stealing an overcoat and $70 from Mathias Clerf on the night of December 15 last. Foley is indicted for being charged with the theft of three turkeys from Swan L. Johnson, a butcher. Johnson is also indicted on a charge of receiving stolen goods in the second degree. He is said to have received $3, Matson of 111 in a Rice-street saloon a few evenings ago.

The grand jury also called to find a bill against Edward Bryant and Belle Yeager, who had been arrested on a charge of illicit cohabitation, preferred against them by Lawrence Seager, a St. Paul farmer, who came to St. Paul in search of his wife and son.

The evidence against H. D. Summerfield, charged with receiving stolen goods in the second degree, was insufficient to secure an indictment, and no bill was returned in this case.

FARMERS' MUTUAL FAVORS RESERVE FUND

Andrew French, of Plainville, Chosen President at Annual Election.

The Minnesota Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance companies association yesterday elected the following officers: President, Andrew French, Plainville; vice president, C. T. Barkley, St. Paul; secretary, K. E. Bullis, West Concord.

The sessions of the association yesterday were devoted to hearing reports from the various companies comprising the association.

The reports gave the cost of insurance for 1922 as $100, 13 cents being for losses and 5 cents for expenses.

The question of arranging for reserve funds was discussed, and while the association has no power to take any action on this question, the sentiment of the delegates was in favor of the establishing of reserve funds.

ASSEMBLY APPROVES PAVING CONTRACTS

Members Applaud When Asphalt Price Is Named.

The assembly last night gave prompt approval to the paving contracts lately awarded by the board of public works, in which the lowest rate for asphalt ever received by the city was fixed by the Barber Asphalt company. The announcement of a figure of $1.75 per square yard was received with clapping of hands.

Bids were opened for the construction of the abutments for the new Arcade street bridge. Neumann & Hoy, whose bid was $23,363, were awarded the contract.

The ordinance licensing all signs reserved the sanction of the board, and the first knowledge of the board's magnanimity was gained last night, when the resolution fixing the salaries of the two was sent to the assembly for approval. It was given without any comment.

Another raise for a public official was made when a resolution was approved fixing the salary of the Sewer Commissioner William Symonds at $125 a month. His former pay was $100.

WAR VETERAN IS ON TRIAL FOR FRAUD

Dr. Rhodes, an Aged Physician, Is in Federal Court.

James C. Rhodes, now seventy-seven years old and barely able to move about, appeared before Judge Lochren in the federal court yesterday and entered a plea of guilty to the indictment in which he is charged with making false affidavits in a pension examination case.

Rhodes was formerly a highly respected Stillwater physician. His case was continued until the June term.

The defendant appeared in court in his G. A. R. uniform, to which was attached a badge and medal tendered him for honorary service in the Civil war. He is very feeble and can walk only with the assistance of a cane.

Breaks Up Cripple's Home.

Mrs. Mary Gadbut, who was arrested last week charged with having stolen a dollar from a helpless cripple, living in a little shack in Mayall's alley, was arrested again Wednesday night on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. She is said to have returned to the home of the cripple, while intoxicated, and started a row, during which she broke what little furniture there was in the house. She was sent to the workhouse by Judge Finehout for ten days.

CONCERN OVER COAL SITUATION

After being in session less than a dozen days the January grand jury made its final report to Judge Kelly yesterday afternoon, returning indictments in three jail cases and no bills in two other.

The wine room question, so thoroughly investigated by the previous grand jury, was not taken up, and no indictments were returned in any case.

MIDGET MAJOR SIGHS FOR TINY MISS LEWIS

Romance of Lilliputians Spoiled by Obscure Young Woman.

Maj. James D. Doyle, of the Royal Lilliputian, takes a pair of not only a "sporty" old boy, and some, what of a sparker," puts a deal of feeling in his song, "I'm Unlucky," which sings in the first act of "Posterland."

Maj. Doyle will not admit the impeachment, but the members of the company, and the manager Kelly are in favor of the statement that the major is head over heels in love with one of the tiny women of the organization.

The young woman for whom Maj. Doyle is sighing was named Miss Lewis, who is considerably smaller in stature than even the major, and is getting pretty popular.

When Miss Lewis, who takes the part of Miss Larks, sings her song, "Roses and Lilies," the major takes a position in the wings and appears to enjoy the song more than the audience.

Miss Lewis, who is a native of Iowa, has declared, before the company, "the man I marry must be a full-fledged American," and this declaration causes Maj. Doyle to look glum, for report has it that he is a native of the Emerald Isle.

Manager Kelly, when questioned last evening about the romance, said there were half a dozen other male members of the company, who appeared to have more than a passing regard for Miss Lewis, but her talk about the American question of the man she would marry had a very depressing effect.

"The members of the company were the guests of the Selby Bowling club yesterday night, and the members of the company were very anxious to show the little women that they were experts on the alleys. Miss Lewis occupied one of the front seats while the game was in progress, and some wonderful scores were being made, when it was suddenly discovered that she had left the game. Her exit brought the game to a close much sooner than was expected."

MAY EJECT OWNERS FROM THE BOARD'S RIGHT OF WAY

Valuable Property Squatted and on Which Many Buildings Have Been Erected Will Be Claimed by Later Board—Title Is to Be Investigated by Legal Department.

Fully seventy-five property owners now enjoying peaceful possession of a strip of land about two hundred feet wide, extending from Lake Phalen to East Seventh street, are in immediate danger of ejectment. Investigations completed by the city engineering department yesterday developed the fact that the holdings of these property owners are on ground the title to which is invested in the St. Paul water board.

In 1880 the St. Paul Water company by condemnation and purchase secured a strip of land several miles in length for its water main connecting city consumers with the supply at Lake Phalen. This right of way was included in the company's assets when it passed into possession of the city.

Though the main was practically abandoned years ago the right of way was still maintained and when encroachments were reported about two years ago an investigation was ordered. This investigation completed yesterday developed the fact that the greater part of the strip has been taken possession of by private parties and in many places is covered with buildings of a substantial character. Among the big structures are the East end barns and power house of the street car company, the factory and sheds of the Bohn Manufacturing company and the yards and plant of the Gribben Lumber company. Adjacent to these are the companies and their holdings are sheds and brick buildings innumerable.

In some instances the water department has granted the right to parties to build on the strip, but in the majority of the cases those now enjoying possession simply "squatted."

While the main has been abandoned the water board's right to the strip is unquestioned and the legal department has been asked to act with a view of either collecting rent or ejecting the tenants. The street car company power house lays directly across the right of way and the same is the case with the two other firms.

RIGHT ON COAL SITUATION

Resolved, That the president of the common council be requested, authorized and directed to appoint a commission of three members, each body of the common council to be composed of two members, to investigate the excessive prices now charged for wood and coal in the city of St. Paul.

Taking its cue from other cities that are now industriously trying to follow in the footsteps of the "member from Missouri," the assembly last night ordered an investigation of the coal combine as far as it relates to St. Paul. The initiative was taken by Assemblyman Whitcomb and it was at his instance that the resolution above was passed.

Ordinarily such a resolution is productive of considerable discussion, but not a remark was made. It was received in dignified silence and given acteristic of the members present. It is expected that the board of aldermen will lend its approval.

What a council investigating committee can do in the way of making public the things and persons responsible for the excessive prices now demanded for both coal and wood is limited, but the members present at least find an opening by which the grand jury may interest itself. The council is limited in the matter of compelling testimony.

President Haas, to whom is intrusted the selection of the committee, says he will name it as soon as the board of aldermen has given its approval to the resolution.

"There is something rotten in the St. Paul coal and wood situation," said Dr. Whitcomb, the members present, "and I propose if possible to find it. There is no good reason for the high prices existing. What opened my eyes was the 300 tons of hard coal disposed of the other day by a dealer for $12 a ton who ordinarily is lucky if he has twenty tons in stock."

MORITZ SUES THE OIL TRUST FOR $25,000

Defective Kerosene Alleged to Have Caused Two Deaths.

Judge Lochren and a jury in the federal circuit court are hearing the case of Moritz vs. the Standard Oil Co. against the Standard Oil company, in which the plaintiff asks damages in the sum of $25,000.

The case is a very peculiar one, in that the plaintiff severely burned during a fire at his home last summer, in which two of his children were burned to death.

Commenced three separate suits against the Standard Oil company to recover damages for his own injuries and also for the death of his children. He claimed that the oil sold him by the defendant was not up to the standard.

CAULFIELD GETS $700 RAISE IN SALARY

Assembly Approves Liberality of the Water Board.

The board of water commissioners has given its secretary, John Caulfield, a $700 raise in salary, and its superintendent, John Lindquist, a $400 raise. Their yearly stipend from now on will be $4,200 and $2,400, respectively.

The first knowledge of the board's magnanimity was gained last night, when the resolution fixing the salaries of the two was sent to the assembly for approval. It was given without any comment.

Another raise for a public official was made when a resolution was approved fixing the salary of the Sewer Commissioner William Symonds at $125 a month. His former pay was $100.

BOB FITZSIMMONS IS DOING THIRTY DAYS

Namesake of Prize Fighter Has a Berth at the "Works."

Bob Fitzsimmons is now serving a thirty-day sentence in the St. Paul workhouse, having been sent there for vagrancy by Judge Finehout yesterday.

The noted prize fighter, who is a well known crook, arrested together with John Callahan and Mickey Hines. Callahan was also given a thirty-day sentence, but Hines, who demanded a separate trial, got off with fifteen days.

Fitzsimmons and Callahan are said to be well known in the police office of several cities, and the former admitted having served time for burglary.

Mr. Heuer Was Not Hurt.

In a fight between the students of the Rice street school and the students of the German Lutheran school Tuesday it was reported that the Rev. Charles J. Heuer, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, was injured. This report, however, was erroneous, as the minister took no part in the playful fight between the students.

Holly Is Found Guilty.

Charles Holly, who was recently arrested at the instance of Emma Glenn, was yesterday found guilty of assault by Judge Finehout and will be sentenced this morning. Miss Glenn says she rented a room at a lodging house conducted by Holly and that he ordered her out, and followed up the order by striking and choking her.

FATHER CONWAY TALKS ON MASS

Explains the Sacrifice to Large Non-Catholic Audience.

In the mission conducted for non-Catholics at St. Luke's church last evening, Rev. B. L. Conway spoke to a large audience of the "Sacrifice of the Mass." He said in part:

"The mass, according to Catholic doctrine, is not only a commemoration of the sacrifice of the cross by which Christ obtained for us eternal redemption (Heb. ix, 12), but also a true and proper sacrifice. Its priest is Jesus Christ, the priest of the altar, acting in His name and with His authority; its victim, Jesus Christ, merely present under the appearance of bread and wine; its sacrifice offering in the mystical rite of consecration.

"All down the course of history sacrifice has been the principal act of external worship. Just as man gives gifts to his fellow man to express externally his inner feelings of love and gratitude, so reason taught men the innate aptitude of gifts to God or sacrifices to manifest our worship of the giver of every good gift.

"Among the Jews, by divine appointment, sacrifices were expressly commanded and ordered by God in the most minute detail of the law of Moses.

"There were sin offerings, peace offerings, holocausts, burnt offerings, to foreshadow the one great sacrifice—the death of the Son of God upon the cross for man's salvation. The epistle to the Hebrews continually points to them as types and shadows of Christ, who by His own blood entered once into the holy of holies, having obtained eternal redemption for all Christians centered in the daily eucharistic sacrifice called the mass.

"In the church of Corinth we see that mass was offered up. St. Paul, in writing the early Christians against taking part in the idolatrous worship around them, plainly makes a comparison between the pagan sacrificial altar and the altar of the Christians. He declares further that eating the flesh of a victim made the pagans sharers in the sacrificial offerings, and that therefore a Christian who ate the altar of the Lord received Jesus Christ's body and blood even not eat victims sacrificed to idols. If there were no eucharistic sacrifice of the Christians partook, the argument of the apostles would be utterly without meaning.

"St. Paul now well the story of the last supper, which he records faithfully with St. Matthew, St. Mark and St. Luke. Jesus said plainly: 'This is My body; this is My blood.' He changed the substance of the bread and wine into the substance of His own body and blood.

"He set forth mystically the real effusion of His blood, which was to take place the next day upon the cross.

"So in the Catholic church alone is fulfilled the ancient prophecy of Malachi: 'From the rising of the sun, even to the going down, My name is great among the Gentiles, and there is offered to My name a clean oblation (Mal. i, 10-11). For everywhere is set up the Christian altar. From the first century, when men were ministering (going through the liturgy) of which term for mass, to this day) to the Lord' (Acts xii, 2) in a small portion of Palestine to the twentieth, when the world is encircled by myriads of gold and silver chalices filled with the blood of the Redeemer, the sacrifice of the cross has been daily perpetuated among the sons of men."

ASSEMBLY PASSES OWL CAR BILL

Schurmeier's Measure Is Passed by One House of Council.

"Owl cars" are a certainty as far as the assembly is concerned. With three members only, Assemblymen Van Slyke, Haas and Whitcomb, dissenting, that body gave its approval to the measure last night, and now all that remains is the sanction of the board of aldermen.

The ordinance, which originated with Assemblyman Schurmeier, provides that a car be run over every line in the city every night between midnight and 5 o'clock in the morning. The company's franchise, which permits council interference when the convenience of the public is involved, is the assembly's authority for its act.

While three voted against it last night, Assemblyman Haas was alone in explaining his stand. He said that the running of the cars all night would bother the sick and the patients in the hospitals, many of which were adjacent to car lines.

The board of aldermen is not favorable to the all night cars and it is expected that the board will make strenuous efforts to beat the bill in that body. Four members, it is known, will vote against the owl car measure.

The assembly last night also passed an ordinance calling for five and ten-cent services on the Lafayette and Grand avenue street car line. Assemblyman Van Slyke made an effort to have the measure sent to the committee on streets, but failed. Supt. Burdick, who was present, said that the patrons were already enjoying a ten-cent service and he saw no reason for the passage of the ordinance.

The legal department says that the council can compel the maintenance of the service demanded.

STRONG MEN OF HAMLINE BANQUETS

Football Heroes

The Hamline college football team recounted their victories of last season over the banquet board at the Ryan hotel last evening. The spread was given by President Erdman of the college, and twenty-two guests were at table.

After the banquet speeches were made by President Erdman, Dean Batchelder, Dr. S. M. Kirkwood, E. T. Marlette, manager of the team, and Paul Rader, team coach, who was so seriously injured at one of the games last fall.

The banquet would have been given at an earlier date had it not been that Coach Rader was so ill that he could not attend, and for that reason the affair was postponed until it was well enough to be present.

Following the toasts there were a number of college songs sung and the games played over again.

Ray Lee was elected manager of the team for this year and Harry Gould captain.

INVENTOR ASKS FOR INJUNCTION

Charles W. Gordon, of St. Paul, yesterday commenced an action in the United States circuit court against Abraham Rosenthal, who is charged with infringing upon a patent held by the plaintiff.

Gordon says in his complaint that he is the inventor of a useful improvement known as the "Apparel Cap," and that he applied for a patent for the same. He claims to have expended large sums of money in perfecting the patent, which says is now being used by the defendant. He asks for an injunction.

MONEY IS VOTED TO ENTERTAIN SCHLEY

Assembly Appropriates $500 Out of Mayor's Contingent Fund.

When Admiral Schley pays his intended visit to St. Paul he will be royally entertained. The assembly last night lent its aid to the extent of promising $500 from the mayor's contingent fund, and citizens generally are expected to contribute as much more.

The mayor's contingent fund was also "touched" for $200 to assist in paying the expenses of the Afro-American council, held in St. Paul last year. The local entertainment committee, which is headed by Attorney McGhee, claims to have a few unpaid bills.
