SENATORS PREPARE BILL FOR TWO NEW STATES

Republican Advocates of a Compromise Measure at Work—Oklahoma and Indian Territory in One State and Arizona and New Mexico in Another.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—The Republican senatorial advocates of a compromise statehood bill have prepared their measure for the admission of the two states, Oklahoma and Indian Territory comprising one state, and Arizona and New Mexico the other. They will bring it before the committee on territories at the first opportunity, but are holding it back because of the opposition of the Democratic senators and also because some of the Republican supporters of statehood are not entirely reconciled to the change.

There is renewed talk of pressing the omnibus bill as an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill, and the advocates of that course contend that they have pledged support from a majority of the senators.

IN THE TWO HOUSES.

Conference Report on Commerce Bill Adopted by Representatives.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—The house today adopted the conference report on the department of commerce bill by a vote of 251 to 10. One Republican (Mr. Littlefield) and two Democrats voted against this action. Several Democrats took the position that the Nelson amendment to the bill regarding corporations was a weak and ineffectual attempt to provide the machinery for corporation publicity. Mr. Mann (Ill.), on behalf of the Republicans, contended that it was a better measure of publicity than had been presented in any other bill.

The remainder of the day was devoted to the sundry civil appropriation bill. Mr. Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, gave notice that he would make two amendments, one to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a three story 400-room office building for members, and the other to provide for a subway and to cost $1,000,000. The other an appropriation of $2,500,000 to carry out the original plans for beautifying and enlarging the main wing of the capitol. The notable feature of the general debate on the bill was a speech by Mr. De Armond (Mo.) on the bill to pension ex-slaves. He spoke in a very able and interesting subject assumed a serious phase when Mr. Richardson (Tenn.) said that adherents of the South were using the bill to impose on ignorant negroes, and called on Mr. Cannon to give assurance that the passage of such a measure was not contemplated. The assurance Mr. Cannon gave. The statehood bill again came up in the senate, and Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, spoke on it. He referred to bills regarding the purchase of land had been kept back and would be kept back until it is too late for consideration regarding them. The time of the senate was being wasted on the purchase of a "peaceful political blockade" on the statehood bill when more important measures were awaiting consideration. The conference report on the general staff bill was agreed to.

A bill was passed increasing the limit of cost of a public building at Evanston, Wis., to $175,000.

ANTI-TRUST LEGISLATION.

Nelson Amendment and Elkins Bill the Limit.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—In order that the administration's anti-trust program be not rendered entirely symmetrical, it is known that President Roosevelt desires that the Nelson amendment and the Elkins rebate bill should be enacted into law. The president has had a conference with Speaker Henderson. It is understood that while the speaker is not wholly in sympathy with the Elkins bill, he will not stand in the way of its consideration by the house. It is the consensus among members of congress that the Nelson amendment will be enacted into law, and that it is scarcely likely that congress will go further with anti-trust legislation at the present time.

The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce today agreed to favorably report the Elkins anti-rebate bill with certain amendments. The committee recommends an amendment to section 3, striking out the words "or corporation," so the provision which provides that no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing connected with interstate or foreign commerce, shall be amended to read: "and hereafter brought under the provisions of this act to expedite the hearing and determination of suits in equity pending in any court of the United States, on or hereafter brought under the provisions of July 2, 1890, entitled "an act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies, an act to regulate commerce," approved Feb. 4, 1887," or any other acts having a like purpose that may be hereafter enacted, approved Feb. 18, 1890, and a supplementary currency act under the direction of the attorney general in the name of the interstate commerce commission."

Still More Pensions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Senator Mason today introduced a bill providing for the payment of a bounty of $150 to all soldiers of two-year regiments who enlisted prior to July 22, 1861.

A bill was introduced by Senator Burton which provides that henceforth $12 shall be the minimum pension allowed. It provides for an increase to that amount of all pensions now below that figure.

Municipal Statistics.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—The house committee on census today authorized a favorable report on the bill directing the director of the census to collect municipal statistics in 1905 and biennially thereafter.

Supplemental Currency.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Representative Pugsley, of Ohio, a member of the house banking and currency committee, today introduced a bill providing for the issue and circulation of a supplementary currency for the deposit of public moneys with national banking associations.

To Buy Off "Lil."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Senator Blackburn has introduced an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, making an appropriation of $200,000, "in full satisfaction of all claims or pretended claims" of ex-Queen Liliuokalani, of Hawaii.

Commerce Bill a Go.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—As it is almost assured that the bill creating the new department of commerce will become a law, President Roosevelt is resolutely pressing requests for appointments to positions in the new department.

ESCAPED ON HIS BREATH.

Weather So Cold the Colonel Climbed Down a Ladder of Ice.

Sold Col. Stringer, as he drained his fourth martini and his pipe was "cold," I should say it was cold! Why gentlemen, it was so cold that a big gray cloud hung over one corner of the fort all that month. Just frozen fast to the atmosphere, that's all. I was so cold that my captors couldn't fire a cannon. A spark would simply freeze stiff before it would reach the gunpowder. And yet, gentlemen, it was this intense cold that saved my life.

I was to be shot at 10:30, as soon as the temperature would permit, and, in the meantime, I was imprisoned in the top of a high tower, with absolutely no means of escape, unless I chose to dash myself to death on the frozen ground one hundred feet below. One morning I awoke with a sense of suffocation and found my breath frozen in my nostrils. I hesitated no longer, but took the chance, desperate as it was. Holding fast with both hands, I swung out of the window and blew my breath on the ladder of ice. To my delight the breath froze fast in this new place and I cautiously lowered myself to it. In this way, I reached the ground, and I gradually worked myself to the ground, a foot at a time.

I neared the bottom I found myself dangling in front of the messroom window, and a shout within told me my escape was discovered! With my hands and feet I tried to advance a messroom window with ice, but got my hold and dropped to the ground. Scrambling to my feet I started to run, but the guards started to come lumbering out.

Gentlemen, more than that fearful temperature came to my rescue. As the squad of guards reached the door they found the opening blocked with a solid chunk of the ice from the messroom window. They attacked this obstruction with their bayonets and broke it down, only to encounter fresh difficulties. The ice had frozen so hard that a solid wall of congealed breath formed in front of them, and every foot of their slow progress was won by hard work, chopping and prying. In a few minutes they were compelled to give up the attempt and I got away safely, running every step of the three miles to our own winter quarters to keep from freezing.

"I suppose," ventured the new member of the George Washington club, after a moment's thoughtful silence, "that you had to hold your own breath in order to run?"

"No, sir," said Col. Stringer kindly, "I ran backwards."

The Accommodating Grocer.

She was newly married and did not know a little bit about grocery shopping or shopping, and she was giving her first order. "What is a cranberry?" asked the grocer, who was a clever man, and used to all kinds of orders, and could interpret them easily.

"I want two pounds of paralytic sugar," she began.

"Anything else?"

"Two tins of condemned milk."

"Yes, ma'am."

"I've down pulverized sugar and condensed milk."

"Bag of fresh salt. Be sure it is fresh."

"Yes, ma'am."

"What next?"

"A couple of desecrated codlins."

"He wrote gibberish," desecrated cod."

"Nothing more, ma'am? We have some nice preserved just in case you want 'em."

"No," she said, "it would be of no use to us; we don't keep a horse."

"No, sir," said Col. Stringer kindly, "I ran backwards."

An enthusiastic sightseer in London was telling his friend that she had been fortunate enough to get a good view of the tower of London. "I suppose he is a very bad man," said the friend. "Oh, no," was the reply, "quite slim, thin, and very good looking."

Early lesson in orthology: Squire (to rural lad)—Now, my boy, how do you know an old partridge from a young one? "By the color of his feet, ma'am."

Boy: You ought to know better. A partridge hasn't got any teeth. "Boy—No, sir, but have—Funch."

Mrs. Emmons, saved from an operation for Ovaritis, tells how she was cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I am so pleased with the results I obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it a duty and a privilege to write you about it."

"I suffered for over five years with ovarian troubles, causing an unpleasant discharge, a great weakness, and at times a faintness would come over me which no amount of medicine, diet, or exercise seemed to correct. Your Vegetable Compound found the weak spot, however, within a few weeks—and saved me from an operation—all my troubles had disappeared. I found myself once more healthy and well. Words fail to describe the real, true grateful feeling that is in my heart, and I want to tell every sick and suffering sister. Don't dally with medicines you know nothing about, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and take my word for it, you will be a different woman in a short time."

TWINING SAYS HE WAS THE ANGEL

Sad Faced Englishman Wants the Receipts Taken by Bellew.

"A Gentleman of France" ran against a snag in Minneapolis yesterday, but he faced the situation with his usual sang froid and smiled imperturbably when informed that there was a tall, sad-faced Englishman after the box receipts.

"A most infernal boah, you know," said the actor, "but really, perhaps the peach chap's not exactly—er—reliable, eh?"

But Thomas V. Twining went about his little job as though used to it. He figured as angel in the unlucky Australian trip of the Potter-Bellew combination and asserts that he lent Mrs. Potter $2,000 to keep the game going at a time when collapse seemed inevitable. The unwisdom of this course he now admits, and in fact Mr. Twining points out that he doesn't care a rap for the money involved, but what jars his memory is the treatment he received from Mrs. Potter when he asked for an accounting after the crisis.

"By Jove, you know," said Twining, "the woman actually snapped her fingers in my face when I asked her for my money—fact, really. It's beastly exasperating to have a woman snap her fingers in your face, under any circumstances, don't you know, but when you've been—ah—angled in chief and—er—that sort of thing, why it's beyond a joke, don't you see, by Jove—far beyond a joke."

"I've nothing at all against Bellew, don't you see, nothing at all. Bellew's a devilish decent fellow—very, but Bellew happens to be the only representative at hand of Cora Urquhart Potter, and I can't help going after him,
