And I took the entire risk. They simply gave me their addresses and stated which book they needed. That is all I ask of you. I will then mail you an order on your druggist for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. You may take it a month on trial. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. Secretary James Healy, of the board of school inspectors, against whom charges of discrimination and delaying of bills were filed at the last meeting of the board by the St. Paul Book and Stationery company and Melady & Casey, will most likely be exonerated when the investigating committee meets next Wednesday afternoon to prepare its report.

Paid When Money Was in Treasury. The principal complaint came from the St. Paul Book and Stationery company, which was represented by C. W. Sanders, and this was based on the charge that Secretary Healy had opened the treasury when money was in it.

SHE MADE A CHANGE. A Charleston Mother Did so With Advantage to Herself and Children. A mother living in Charleston, Mass., the happy possessor of four children, writes: "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough remedies, croup mixtures and throat medicines for my children, for somehow or other they seem to be free from colds, coughs or sore throats."

This fall I made a change in the usual programme. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them on my children. Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be used for catarrh, coughs or colds.

APOSTLE OF IRELAND WILL BE HONOURED TUESDAY

Private Entertainments by Various Churches and Clubs Will Mark Anniversary of St. Patrick in St. Paul This Year—History of Patron Saint.

No civil demonstration will mark the observance of St. Patrick's day this year in St. Paul. Not for several years have the sons of Erin paraded the streets, with stove-pipe hats and "the bit of green" proudly exhibited.

In the village of Sarsfield, near Green Dumbarton and Glasgow, Scotland, toward the close of the Roman period of rule in Britain, a man named Patrick, with a son, Suthach, of Victor, afterward known as Patrick, or Kil-Patrick, which means Church-Patrick. This child was a future years to be the apostle of Ireland. He was very carefully trained by his father for the church, but at the age of sixteen years he fell into the hands of some Irish-raiding pirates from the north seas, who constantly made fierce incursions upon the Scottish and Irish coasts.

Exactly a decade after his escape from Ireland, in the famous monastic city of Lerins, he was again captured and returned to the island to impart the faith he had learned in Gaul.

It appears that he was an ideal missionary. Skilled in the knowledge of humankind, so essential an acquisition, he was able to successfully cope with those fierce old Druid priests with whom the Roman missionaries had vainly. From these priests and the lords he knew would come his greatest opposition, and knowing their greatest weakness—which was their clan or community system—he devoted himself to studying how he could best combine the merits of this system with the desires of the Christians.

After he had been about twenty years in the missionary work, he found the lieutenants of the devil in his see at Armagh, and two of his disciples were ordained as bishops. In 490 he died, at the age of ninety, at a place called Saul, near Downpatrick, where his relics were preserved until the time of the English Reformation, and to this day the spot is venerated by his worshippers.

YACHT CLUB HAS FINE PROSPECT

White Bear Sailors Look Forward to Good Season—Elect Officers.

"I feel no hesitancy in saying that we have before us the most promising year the White Bear Yacht club has ever had looming in its fore," said returning Commodore O. L. Taylor at the annual meeting and election of the club held at the Aberdeen last night. Mr. Taylor continued: "The conditions shown by the reports of the various officers are of the rosiest nature, and the many invitations tendered us by large clubs of the East show, more plainly than the most glowing and wordy eulogies, the esteem in which we are held there."

Ways and means were discussed and the treasurer reported that the club had 250 members in good standing; and the treasurer showed that the sum of $139 is in the coffers of the club.

A motion was introduced by W. C. Read, of the house committee, advocating the abolition of the rental lockers, giving as his reason the fact that some would pay and others would not, thus rendering the custom unfair. The lockers it was decided will be assigned to the boat owners and active crews and will be taken out of the rental.

Retiring Capt. Worrell Clarkson gave a brief resume of the season of 1902, telling of the two regattas in which the W. B. Y. C. had taken part, the one at Montreal and the other at Peawaukee. He suggested, in view of the phenomenal increase in membership in the club and the prospect of a greater record in this coming season, the advisability of enlarging the dock room. He also suggested that steps be taken to recover all the cups and trophies belonging to the club, and that was decided that the incoming captain be empowered to recover all such by April 15, and have the cups left at a jewelry store for repair and exhibition.

College Professors Talk of Foods. The New York papers recently contained a long account of the so-called discovery of a celebrated professor in regard to the teaching of universities. The "discovery" related in a new and successful way of treating wheat and barley to prepare the starch part by dry distillation. It would be made more digestible and nutritious. The professor, Prof. Livingston, commenting on the discovery of the other professor, said that it was a discovery of a man first and a scientist afterward found that such foods could be made more digestible when cooked with dry heat instead of by boiling in water, and has already placed on the market the food which he discovered prior to Dr. ... This refers to Grape-Nuts, the most scientifically made food known. Grape-Nuts can be easily digested by babies or anyone with a weak stomach, and the food contains the most powerful rebuilding element known, particularly as relates to the rebuilding of the brain and nerve centers. It is a delicious food, good for the stomach, but ready for instant service just as it comes from the package. A recipe book free in each package describes many delicious dishes made from Grape-Nuts.

INDIANA GIRL FINDS HER MAN

Through an Advertisement They Arrange Meeting and Nuptials.

Marion Adams, a pretty girl of Warsaw, Ind., sat on her trunk in the Milwaukee depot at Minneapolis yesterday, and wondered where her future husband was, what he looked like, how he could be at once so enthusiastic and so so.

Miss Adams was a school teacher four weeks ago. She is still, for that matter, if the worst had come to the worst, she believes she could have convinced Supt. Jordan of her usefulness in the primary grades.

Miss Adams answered the advertisement more in a spirit of fun than of seriousness. The answer to her letter filled her gentle heart with pity for the lone man whose life on the plains of the northern prairie had prompted him to search for an Indiana wife in the newspaper columns.

A correspondence followed, which convinced Miss Adams that McInafter was really a farmer in fair circumstances, that he really wanted a wife, and that he would rather have an Indiana wife than any other sort. Very little encouragement induced McInafter to pop the question by mail, and Miss Adams has no living relations except a distant aunt, it was up to her.

She studied the McInafter photograph and saw a long-haired, raw-boned, evidently thirty years of age, more than the spiketails in the thick steak crusade of a somewhat dubious future, so McInafter got a letter to meet her Adams at the depot in Minneapolis on Saturday, March 14, with a marriage license and a parson.

Unidentified Man Suicides on the Milwaukee Tracks. An unknown man, about fifty-five years of age, was run over yesterday afternoon before he was on the Milwaukee freight train at Fourth street and Sixteenth avenue south. Several people who saw the accident say that it was a deliberate case of suicide. The man was walking on the side of the track, they say, and that when the train approached he threw himself on the tracks.

FARM HAND HANGS HIMSELF.

Fred Berdman, Employed by Lewis Palmer, Commits Suicide.

Fred Berdman, a man employed by Lewis Palmer on a farm near Bloomington, Minn., was found hanging from a tree near the farm yesterday morning. Berdman had been drinking for several weeks. He was forty years old, and had a history of which the barest outline is known. The man came originally from Germany, and he has no relations in the United States. He has told enough of his family connections to establish the fact of his belonging to an aristocratic line on the other side of the water. Palmer speaks of him as having been a good workman when sober, inclined to moroseness, but pleasant.

Berdman came to this country and went to work for Palmer five years ago. Two months ago he drew his wages and left the farm. No one knew where he had gone, but there were rumors that he had been engaged in a prolonged debauch. Last Friday Berdman returned to the farm, and was evidently suffering from extreme nervousness as a result of his drinking.
