

FRESH SEQUEL TO BONACCI-MURPHY CONTROVERSY

Cardinal Gotti and Mgr. Vecchia Will Not Testify in the Suit of Nebraska Priest Against the Bishop—Struggle That May End Only With Time.

ROME, March 14.—Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the propaganda, and Mgr. Vecchia, secretary of the congregation, have both refused to give evidence in the suit before the American civil courts, which Father Murphy, former pastor of a church at Tecumseh, Neb., has instituted against Rt. Rev. Thomas Bonacci, bishop of Lincoln, Neb.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 14.—The contest between Bishop Bonacci and Father Murphy is of long standing and grew out of an attempt on the part of the bishop to force Rev. Murphy, pastor of St. Andrew's congregation at Tecumseh, to compel his parishioners to contribute a large sum of money for the erection of a palace for the bishop at Lincoln. Cardinal Satolli enjoined the bishop from erecting so costly a palace, but the injunction was spurned. Rev. Murphy took up collections in his church and appointed committees to collect funds outside.

The amounts contributed did not satisfy Bishop Bonacci, however, and he issued a decree against Rev. Murphy of expulsion from the diocese. Murphy appealed to the apostolic delegate at Washington, who ordered the bishop to rescind the decree. The bishop thereupon filed charges against Rev. Murphy and summoned him to Lincoln to make answer. Rev. Murphy filed a challenge for prejudice and an appeal. These the bishop ignored and reissued a decree of suspension and excommunication. The bishop then began proceedings to oust Rev. Murphy from the use of the church and its properties. Six civil suits took place, in all of which the bishop lost, and the case has twice been taken to Rome.

The Grocers of our Retail Grocers' Association

Looking to you to fatten their purses, have for some time past upheld an agreement to demand and maintain unreasonable prices on the staple necessities of life. We understand that they have had a "card price" on Sugar, Flour, Butter, etc., etc., each member of the association agreeing to maintain an exorbitant price and thereby assist each other in fleecing the public. All was lovely until the new firm entered the field. In the course of events the agreements were presented for the New Store to sign. Instead of signing we refused, and we not only punctured their greed-inflated demands, but we cut them wide open. Now it's up to every grocer to set his own prices or to Meet Ours if You Can. We have always been taught that it was unlawful to conspire against another man's purse. We have always been taught that a Hold-Up was the same as a robbery. We have always been taught that a merchant should protect his customers and not his competitors—what do your teachings tell you? Think it over—Consider the past grocery conditions of St. Paul. Determine who has had the benefits—Decide whether it is best for you to have an open field and FAIR competition or to have prices so tied up that You dance to the grocer's fiddle. If you believe in the latter Pass Us By. If you want the former, Uphold Us. Support us and we'll Protect you. We want no friends among the grocers but upon the people we must depend.

BENSON WOULD TAX ALL GRAIN IN STORE MAY 1

Continued From Fifth Page. The legislators to reach Duluth, see part of the sights and prepare for the banquet at 7 o'clock Friday evening. It would be necessary for the special train to leave St. Paul at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

It was probably entirely due to a feeling of friendliness for Mr. Dowling which prevented the registering of a single vote against the addition of a tax to the rice, which is ordinarily the case for half the cash artists in the house to make violent speeches about "now it's about time for us to get down to work."

GIRLING WAS HOST. Hennepin Legislator Entertains at Unique Dinner Party. Friday evening, March 13, Representative Thomas Girling entertained a dinner at McGee's. Girling was host as a result of holding the losing end of an open deanship fight.

In open defiance of the hostess who sat upon his wager Mr. Girling bunched hits at the fates. Besides entertaining on Friday, the 24th, covers were laid for thirteen, the invitations were bound in black and the favors were miniature skeletons.

Several waiters revolted when they figured up the combination, but the dinner and the subsequent exchange of good fellowship, which was prolonged until after midnight, proved the most pleasant as well as the most entertaining of the legislative session.

EDITORS TAKE A HAND. Association Objects to Jeppson Bill in Its Present Form. At the request of the State Editorial association, Senator Somerville, chairman of the legislative committee, had the Jeppson bill to prevent collection for publications not subscribed for under the list of legal fees come up.

The bill was reported out with a favorable recommendation. It was referred to the committee to allow the opposition an opportunity to file protests and arguments.

RECOGNIZE BARBED WIRE. Magnuson Would Give Fences Under Ban a Standing at Law. Representative Magnuson, Washington county, does not share the prejudice that many horses and cattle owners have cultivated for the insinuating barbed wire fence.

In fact, the Washington county legislator thinks so well of the barbed wire divider that he would include it among the list of legal fees. His bill introduced yesterday provides that three barbed wires, forty perches to the rod, strung on posts not more than two rods apart, shall have standing among the fences now recognized by law.

MINUMENT FOR VICTIMS. Wilson Would Mark Graves of Settlers Massacred at Chetek. A monument to mark the graves of settlers massacred by the Indians at Lake Chetek in Murray county, is proposed by a bill introduced in the house by Judge Wilson yesterday.

Twelve persons were massacred by the Indians at Chetek Aug. 10, 1852, and Judge Wilson would have the state continue the work done by the citizens of Murray county, by appropriating $500 for the purchase of a suitable monument.

SENATORS CHANGE MINDS. The senate, after amending and passing Nyquist's boiler inspection bill yesterday, asked for its return on the plea that some of the senators had not understood its provisions. Mr. Nyquist was disappointed in his attempt to send the bill back without giving him a chance to express his wishes in the matter was quickly overruled, and the senate rejected granted.

LEGISLATIVE GOSSIP. By a bill introduced in the house yesterday Mr. Nelson would have all roads opened and road and bridge repairs in counties of 20,000 inhabitants under the supervision of the county surveyors.

Representative Gregory's bill for publicity of board of control methods and award of board of control work as yesterday recommended for indefinite postponement by committee. Mr. Gregory said only one side had a chance to be heard in committee and asked for recalculation of the measure. The bill was sent back.

Senator Cole's bill providing for a bounty on wolves was recommended for passage by the senate yesterday. Senator Cole explained that his bill was designed to do away with all fraud in the collection of wolf bounties.

The senate judiciary committee reported the Swedenback and Peterson municipal court bills back for indefinite postponement yesterday morning, and the report of the committee was adopted.

FAILED TO RATTLE WITNESS. Lawyer Had Forgotten That Defendant Had Only One Leg. "Arlo is some time blinding in business as well as in love," said a young lawyer, "I have observed members of the bar, ordinarily sedate and staid in their demeanor, grow excited in conducting a case and make serious blunders that would be surprising to their friends. A famous lawyer once said that in the cross-examination of a witness the lawyer was shrewd accordingly as he was either the witness or the witness's lawyer. The lawyer or the witness becomes over-anxious to score on a certain point disaster is likely to result.

An amusing incident occurred in the civil district court few days ago which illustrates this point. A damage suit was on trial. The plaintiff, to the suit was a one-legged man. He was injured in a way by the defendant company, and had sued to recover damages. The young lawyer, who had testified for the plaintiff, went to him in such a manner that it was plainly apparent that he was trying to trap the witness in some shape or so to confuse him. He forced the witness to answer questions of a very general nature, asked him if he did not see more than any other person; if he had not noted every small detail with such precision that one would think he expected every circumstance with care and certainty. He asked if the witness could tell the direction of the wind at the moment he knew the angle of the shadow, and "Finally, leaning over the table and looking keenly at the witness, the lawyer asked: 'Now, are you prepared to tell this court that you saw the plaintiff step 34 feet he raised?' 'Yes, sir,' said the witness, quietly. 'Very good,' said the witness triumphantly. 'Then I'll ask you to please state which foot the plaintiff raised first when he stepped on the chair with a self-satisfied air, glancing first at the court and then to either side of the witness. 'Now, which foot did he raise?' he had," replied the witness. The young lawyer, who had only one leg, got down to the moment had forgotten that the plaintiff had only one leg. The witness was accused. "—New Orleans Times-Democrat.
