

PENNELL INQUEST IS INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

Unexpected Outcome of the Re-opening of the Burdick Inquest—Friends of Pennell Opposed to Investigation of His Death.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 30.—Justice Murphy is to announce his findings in the Burdick inquest in police court tomorrow morning. No arrests will be made, no warrants will be issued. The court's findings will be interesting as a closing count in the famous case. The inquest was closed formally by Judge Murphy today after hearing the testimony of Quinn and King, the former bartender and cashier of the Hotel Roland in New York, about Pennell's alleged statement to them of his willingness to kill one man even if he went to the gallows for it. No other witnesses were called.

The Pennell inquest, which Judge Murphy announced would begin this morning, was postponed indefinitely. The reason announced was the absence of witnesses from the city. District Attorney Conner, Pennell's attorney and confidential friend up to the time of his death.

When the Pennell inquest will be held, it will not be settled. When it is held the probability is that neither in Pennell's papers nor effects will be found anything to throw light on the affairs of the deceased. The valuable information to the Burdick case. The Pennell heirs have been reluctant from the outset to have any of the dead man's papers made public. When Justice Murphy was about to begin the Pennell inquest last week at the close of the Burdick inquest, Attorney Thomas Pennell appeared before Judge Murphy in private and argued earnestly against beginning the inquest at that time and opposed holding any inquest. Mr. Pennell insisted upon the postponement and Judge Murphy yielded, but announced that the Pennell inquest would begin at 10 o'clock this morning. After considering the matter and learning that Attorney Thayer was out of the city Judge Murphy postponed the inquest indefinitely. It is possible that between the lines of Justice Murphy's findings tomorrow may be found something indicative of the circumstances that might cause it to be deemed necessary to prolong the Burdick case or delay the beginning of the Pennell case.

What the Witnesses Said.

Alex G. Quinn, the bartender from New York, was the first witness today. He said he made the acquaintance of Arthur Burdick early in December last at the Hotel Roland. Asked to relate the conversation he had with Pennell at that time, Quinn said: "Mr. Pennell commenced conversation with the cashier and myself. Mr. Pennell had several drinks. He gave me his card. During the conversation Pennell said he did not know what he was passing through my mind. There is one man whom I could kill now even if I hung for it. I remarked that his man must be out of the state, as we have more improved methods here now."

"Is there anything else you recall of the conversation between you, Pennell and the cashier?"

"Nothing, except matters of ordinary conversation."

P. G. H. King, former cashier of the Hotel Roland, who was present during the conversation related by Quinn, was the next witness. Detailing this conversation, King said: "Pennell discussed a picture that was hanging on the wall of the room, and after having a few drinks, he said: 'There is one man I could kill, although I might swing for it.' After having another drink I proposed a toast, which was responded to by Mr. Pennell. I think he said: 'I could kill, although at the same time he said he was having the greatest time of his life, although it was at the expense of another.'" commissioners was not relaxed through fear of a coup on the part of their opponents.

Intervention by the grand jury in the election recount dispute was asked of State's Attorney Deneen tonight by Attorney John J. Knickerbocker, who demanded that William Lorimer, Edwidge Haney, Sheriff Barrett, John A. Cook and J. A. Linn be summoned into the jury room on a charge of criminal conspiracy. The object of the intervention in the court because of the alleged closing of their offices in the superior and circuit courts Saturday afternoon, was the supposed object of preventing the election commissioners from securing writs of habeas corpus after their arrest for contempt of court.

Attempt to Procure Strike in Lawrence Hosiery Will Likely Fail.

LOWELL, Mass., March 30.—Organized textile labor today showed its strength in the shut down of the seven largest cotton mills here, and not content with this, the textile council, the delegate body of the shut down union, considered the advisability of compelling an even wider application of the shut down order by bringing about a strike in the Lawrence hosiery mill. OLD-TIME BLOW-UP ON THE MISSISSIPPI

Mark Twain's Idea of a St. Louis Exposition Steamboat Race.

Mark Twain wants a genuine reproduction of the old-time race, with negro roustabout chantly singers; the use of the torch basket rather than the searchlight, and the extinguishment of the latter day government lights so that the quality of the piloting would count, where the boats are evenly matched in speed.
