HEISEL MISSING AND SO IS CASH

Charged That He Is Short in Accounts and Guilty of Forgery.

Harry H. Heisel, a traveling man who was in the employ of the H. E. Driese company, cigar manufacturers, of St. Paul, is accused of embezzling a large sum of money from the company and also with having forged a check in the name of his father-in-law.

Heisel was employed by the H. E. Driese company for six years, and during that time discharged his duty satisfactorily. On March 24, however, Mr. Driese discovered that the man had become short in his accounts, and investigation indicated that he was about $1,000 shy. Soon after Heisel, who was living at West Superior, disappeared, leaving his wife and family.

Heisel had formerly lived at Stillwater for many years, where he had conducted a hardware business. He became sick about six years ago, and his business became crippled. He was then engaged by Driese to represent the H. E. Driese company, which at Stillwater Heisel was regarded as an honest and capable business man. Some time ago Heisel was transferred to West Superior.

The present whereabouts of Heisel are not known. A warrant was issued for him at West Superior, and the police are looking for him.

WIFE MAY ASSIST IN HANGING SALOON BAR

Council Committee Finds No Reason to Refuse License to Reitzman on Complaint That He Allowed His Family to Aid Him in His Work.

Because Henry Reitzman, a saloonkeeper at 757 Mississippi street, permitted his wife and two children to dispense liquid refreshments during his absence, the temperance committee of the Pacific Congregational church yesterday afternoon demanded of the committee on streets of the board of aldermen that it refuse Reitzman another license, but the request was refused.

Rev. Mr. Gray, of the Pacific Congregational church, and C. A. Fowble, a member of the congregation, headed the delegation that appeared before the committee yesterday afternoon. They protested against the renewal of the license. They admitted that Reitzman kept an orderly place, but for his family's sake they either wanted the license refused entirely or Reitzman made to sign an agreement that he would not employ them in the saloon any more.

No Law Against It. "We cannot impose any such conditions as you ask. There is no law against a saloonkeeper using his wife and children to aid him in his work," said Miss Mary Shaw, who was present. "Unless you can show us that his place is a disorderly one, we probably cannot help you," answered Fowble, who was inclined to be unduly aggressive. "We do not want to take the law in our own hands, but we may be compelled to."

At a protest made against a rival saloon, Reitzman's place was that held up as a model, and some of the members of the committee were inclined to call the attention of Rev. Mr. Gray and the delegation to the fact that they were not in favor of the license.

Thinking of the Family. "We have nothing against Reitzman," answered Rev. Mr. Gray. "It is his family we are thinking of, and when he refuses to look to their future welfare, we think it is time for the neighbors to act."

"Well, I have a good family, and it's no hardship for them to do a little work," interrupted Reitzman. "It would be all right if they were employed in the right kind of work," said one of the women members of the delegation.

"Well, my family and children are as respectable as any in the neighborhood. The children go to school, and they are good children," retorted Reitzman.

After consulting the statutes, Ald. Bantz declared that there was nothing against a man's wife and his children helping him in a saloon, and on motion of Ald. Moriarty the license was granted.

Reitzman's saloon is within a block of the Pacific Congregational church, and the members of the congregation, it is understood, are making an effort to have it removed. A year ago they made a strong fight against a saloon which the Hannan Brewing company opened near their edifice but because of the fact that Mississippi street is considered a business thoroughfare and the congregation had never objected to Reitzman's place, which had been in existence for nearly eighteen years, they were overruled.

Gov. Van Sant Presents Trophy to Unity Tent, No. 3, L. O. T. M.

Three hundred members of Unity tent No. 3, Knights of the Maccabees, gathered at Bowley hall last night and celebrated the winning of the prize banner which was awarded to Unity for its work in securing fifty-one life benefits during the last quarter. Carr, chairman of the committee on program and entertainment, largely responsible for the pleasant evening spent by the members who were out last night.

Gov. S. R. Van Sant, in a few appropriate remarks, presented the prize banner to the Unity tent, which was followed by Sir Knight Carr and dedicated to Liberty Hivc, L. O. T. JAMES O'NEILL'S STAGE CAREER

Man of Many Roles Though Long an Actor of One Role.

The story of James O'Neill's career is an interesting one and shows the struggles and trials of the patient beginner. His career dates back to the days of the old National theater in Cincinnati, one of the best of its time, where the young aspirant for dramatic honors was glad to secure the opportunity of carrying a spear in the performance of the great Edwin Forrest.

After a season of standing around and an occasional chance to appear, "What ho, my lord, the coach awaits you," or something equally as important, he was offered a position to play small parts in a new company, commonly called barn-stormers in the old days. Before the season was over, however, he got a chance to show his sprouting ability and was accepted during the year until at its close he was trusted with the parts usually allotted to the leading man.

Like many of the strolling players of that time he had his share of ups and downs, with a preponderance of the latter, but after almost unlimited hardships and then accepted a position where he was given a small part by Col. Bob Miles, at that time the big theatrical manager of the country.

Mr. O'Neill's ability landed him after the first week in the position of "walking gent," a term which is obsolete now. O'Neill remained with Col. Miles but one season and then accepted a position with John Ford, of Baltimore, who is today one of the old-time managers who is still in harness, and is now proprietor and manager of Ford's opera house in that city. Here he remained two seasons, and then joined John E. Mason, who was then in Cleveland.

From this time on his rise was rapid and sure, and it was but a short time when he was recognized and known as the best leading man on the American stage. He was shortly after engaged by McVicker, of Chicago, who had come to the front and was running the golden opinions from many admirers. He then received a very flattering and alluring offer from Tom Maguire, manager of the Baldwin theater, San Francisco, which he accepted, and for three seasons the people of the far West made him a favorite.

His success was instantaneous and continuous, and for eight consecutive seasons the Chateau D'Ivry has his nightly abiding place. Growing tired of the constant repetition, he followed this with several productions, including "The Dead Heart" and several Shakespearean plays, but always retaining "Monte Cristo" as his specialty. Finally he was obliged to give

ALDERMEN OVERRIDE THE MAYOR'S VETO

They Unanimously Pass Resolution to Gravel Summit Avenue.

Summit avenue property owners, who want that thoroughfare surfaced with gravel from Dair street to the river in lieu of other paving won a victory before the board of aldermen last night, when the order for the work was passed over Mayor Smith's veto. Not a dissenting vote was heard.

J. W. Cooper, H. M. Stocking and a number of other Summit avenue property owners were present at the meeting and the members of the board of aldermen next to go to the board of public works, and it will determine whether the work should be done or not.

Quite the reverse was the action of the board on the veto of Mayor Smith of the knickerbocker street to the river in the Tenth ward. In this case the mayor's veto was sustained by every member of the board.

WANTS HEARINGS ON PAVING REOPENED

Ald. Huber Insists East Summit Avenue and Franklin Street Be Paved.

Ald. Huber is not satisfied with the recent action of the board of public works in passing adversely on the proposed paving of East Summit avenue and Franklin street, and has asked that the hearings on the two be reopened.

The Summit avenue property owners, almost to a man, voted against the paving of their street, and in the case of Franklin street the opposition was almost equally as great. Both streets are in a bad condition, and as some of the most valuable property in the city is located on them Mr. Huber thinks they should have pride enough to have them paved.

ITS BREATH

Came Stealing in the Doorway.

The aroma from a neighbor's kitchen was the curious starting point for a great change in the life of a woman in Kansas City, who had coffee kept in bed for days at a time with stomach trouble and severe headaches.

She says: "One day I was attracted to a fragrance from the kitchen of a neighbor who told me that it was Postum Food Coffee and asked me why I did not quit coffee and use Postum to get well. I absolutely cannot drink coffee without getting right back in a few days my headaches disappeared, stomach got better and I began to get well. That was about nine months ago."

"I have steadily used Postum since and am now so well that I can eat practically anything, but I absolutely cannot drink coffee without getting right back in the old trouble. I wish I had known of Postum years ago." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
