NEWS OF THE SHOPS.

An excellent quality of lining silk is to be purchased for only 35 cents a yard.

Deep capes of lace are seen on many of the elaborate summer gowns shown in the shops.

The newest automobile bag is shown in a bright scarlet leather, with clasps and trimmings of gilt.

In a robe gown is shown a blue linen which is trimmed with an effective applique of heavy white lace.

Skirts of fine India linen to be worn under the fine white summer gowns are marveled of elaboration and are richly trimmed with lace, ribbon-run beading and tucks.

Silk undershirts come in thirty-seven or thirty-nine inch lengths and are called golf undershirts and differ in no particular from the ordinary silk petticoat save in their length.

For women's wear are shown Italian silk pajamas that are very attractive to those who like this style of a night garment. Very pretty also are the nightgowns made in bishop style and lace trimmed, that come in this desirable silk material.

Nothing exceeds in daintiness the Italian silk underwear and if it seems rather extravagant in the beginning its splendid wearing qualities and easy laundering recommend it. One can find many beautiful garments in this line in the shops and the corset covers are particularly pretty and range in price from $3 up to $6 each.

Three tiny collar buckles to match the belt buckle are now considered a part of the shirtwaist set.

Silver crumb scrapers that look like miniature carpet sweepers are on the counters and cost from $5 up.

Good values in foulard silks in several colors and combinations of colors are to be purchased for 50 cents a yard.

From 75 cents up one may purchase a dainty pair of black or white lisle stockings with an all-over-embroidered design done in colors.

A handsome brocade paper in pinkish gray is shown in the house decorating departments and is said to make a charming drawing room paper.

A new idea in sponges that is intended to be used in cleaning windows and mirrors consists of thin shreds of cambric fastened together in a big bunch.

Women who desire an elaborate all-white dress can hardly do better than to purchase one of the robe gowns shown in the shops. They are a dress complete and require very little work to make and certainly are most beautiful.

From the splendid displays of white silks and other white fabrics one is forcibly reminded of June wedding and graduation gowns. A good value in white lousine is on sale for 69 cents a yard and white taffeta can be purchased as low as 75 cents a yard.

The Insuperable Difficulty.

"Why don't you take up golf?" "What's the use?" inquired the indolent man. "I might learn to hit the ball, but I could never master the vocabulary necessary to tell my friends how it happens."—Washington Star.

FOR and ABOUT WOMEN

HOW TO LIVE 100 YEARS

OLDEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD GIVES BEGINNERS ADVICE

Has List of "Don'ts" That if Obeyed Insures One at Least a Century of Life—Mrs. Mary McDonald Followed Them, and Has Attained the Age of 133.

In order to live to a ripe old age; that is, a very ripe old age, you must smoke at least three pipes of tobacco daily. At least so we are told by the oldest woman in the world, who has lived 133 years and is as strong and capable-minded as in years of her youth. This old woman, Mrs. Mary McDonald by name, is an inmate of the Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Persons, Philadelphia, and a source of much valuable information to students of history; as her memory is quite remarkable.

But those who want to live to be centenarians she is fully as valuable, for she has made something of a study of hygiene and has even gone so far as to draw up a series of "Rules of Right Living." Some of these rules follow:

- "Smoke after each meal and before going to bed."
- "Marry young."
- "Rise with the sun, winter and summer, but always retire early enough to have had, by sunrise, eight full hours of sleep."
- "Drink as little as possible."
- "Never take cold baths."
- "Keep the mind occupied with work during the day."
- "Do not work at night."

Now, of course, these rules have worked admirably with Mrs. McDonald, for she tried all of them before recommending them to the public. But what are we to believe? Mrs. McDonald, who has tried it, says "never take cold baths." Some eminent physician says, "take cold baths daily," and some one else says, "take tepid baths only." Mrs. McDonald, who has tried it, says to "smoke at least three times each day;" our eminent physician says that every time you smoke you abstract one day from the allotted number of days of your life. Mrs. McDonald, who tried it, says "marry young," and the eminent physician says that no woman is fit for marriage before she is twenty or twenty-five.

The question is, who is right, Mrs. McDonald, who has tried it, or the physician who has studied it? And would any one, every one, live to be a centenarian by following all Mrs. McDonald's "Rules of Right Living?"

CLUBS AND CHARITIES.

Mrs. A. O. Powell, of Wilder avenue, will entertain the ladies of St. Mary's Episcopal church, of Meridian Park, and the St. Luke's Aid Society of St. Paul's Episcopal Church this afternoon at a silver tea.

Miss Laura Riley and Miss Hattie Sloum will entertain their Sunday school classes of the First M. E. church this afternoon at the home of the former, on Virginia avenue.

There will be a musical and literary most as many ways of carrying their worldly wealth about with them as they have changes of heart.

The most common place for a woman to carry greenbacks is in her stockings. Since the days when Eve's daughters began to wear this article of dress it has been a favorite safe deposit vault. It is safe to say that three out of every ten shoppers in a department store will have a little roll of money tucked away in her stocking, and when she decides to make a large purchase she will seek a secluded spot and dive down for the money.

When a woman is calling she usually carries a little change in her card case, especially if she is obliged to ride on the street cars. If she is traveling she wears a tiny chambric skin bag about her neck for the purpose of safeguarding her money and jewels. The glove is a favorite place for carrying money, especially on Sunday, when the hands are busy taking care of a prayer book and the train of a Sunday-go-to-meeting gown. The little space between the glove and the palm of the hand holds just enough for the offering and car fare. The school girl carries her change wrapped up in the corner of her handkerchief. There it remains until noon-

Mrs. George Baer, who, before her marriage to the nephew of the coal baron, was Miss Mabel McKinley, daughter of Abner McKinley, and niece of the late president, is going on the stage. She will appear in vaudeville at a salary of $1,000 per week. She has always been ambitious to follow a stage career, and when she married she made her husband promise not to try and deter her from her aspirations.

SOCIAL.

Mrs. Charles Schuneman gave a large reception yesterday afternoon at her home on Summit avenue, in honor of her sister, Mrs. F. M. Hopkins of Leavenworth, Kan., who is visiting her. Over 300 women called during the receiving hours, which were from 4 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. Schuneman and her sister received alone in the large drawing room, which was decorated in red, red roses and tulips being used in profusion, with palms and ferns for a green background. Assisting throughout the rooms were about twenty-five St. Paul women. Punch was served in the den, which was also decorated in red, and the dining room was entirely in yellow and white daffodils.

time or recess, when she unties the knot and buys her lunch, dandy, chewing gum or a lead pencil.

Now that the sleeves resemble nothing so much as a good-sized satchel, they are used for carrying money tied up in handkerchiefs. The full-front shirt waist is a convenient hiding place for money and other feminine belongings. A petticoat pocket often is used by women for their valuables. They know this pocket is an impossible thing to find, and would as soon think of having the garment made without a band as without a pocket.

Many girls wear little finger purses and tiny-silver bags suspended from chains to carry their change. A bracelet purse of leather or silver is worn by the fad-loving maiden; but one would never suspect that there was money in it. Perhaps the girl who carries her car fare in her mouth is the least common of all, but she exists.

Motherhood is woman's natural destiny—actual barrenness is rare—comforting words to childless women.

Many women are denied the happiness of children simply because of some enable development of the generative organs.

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is overcoming cases of supposed barrenness. Thousands of children owe their existence to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This great medicine is so well calculated to regulate every function of the generative organs that its efficiency in this respect is vouched for by multitudes of women.

Nine Years Without a Child.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—We had been married nine years and never had children, and now we have a little baby girl nineteen months old, the joy of our life. She owes her existence to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a constant sufferer. I had pains in my back and sides, especially before menstruation. I had doctored but received no benefit. Hearing so much about the Vegetable Compound I decided to try it, and after taking six bottles was cured."—Mrs. T. H. GOULBEY, 1223 Nevada St., East Toledo, Ohio.

"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for me. I hope all childless women will see this letter."—Mrs. JOHN UBER-LACKER, 1111 Broadway, Cleveland, Ohio.

Another Happy Case in Brooklyn.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wrote to you a year ago telling you of my troubles. I had pains in the ovaries, menses were painful, and I had never borne children.

"You answered my letter and I followed your advice. I was completely cured. Have just given birth to a fine, healthy babe, and during childbirth had a very easy time.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines are a God send to women who want to be mothers."—Mrs. SCHULTZ, 12 Luzer St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Many women whose letters we print were utterly discouraged, and life lacked all joy to them when they wrote Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., without charge of any kind. They received advice which made them strong, useful women again.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wrote to you some time ago asking why I could not have a child. I explained that I had displacement of the womb and ovarian trouble, and suffered with backache and headache. You sent me a nice letter in reply giving me full instructions how to treat myself, and in accordance with your directions I took your Vegetable Compound, and followed your kind advice faithfully in every respect, and now I have a little girl, the joy of our home. I never would have had my baby if it had not been for your advice and medicine.

A Shocking Luncheon Party.

A debutante who lives in New York went for a ride with a man the other day. So congenial were the two as they cantered along the bridge path that they were loath to part company when the ride was over. The girl asked the man to lunch, but when she telephoned to the servants she was told none of her family was in. That meant she and the man would be alone. It was a shocking thing to do, of course, but the girl looked upon the luncheon party as a lark. When she and he sat down for the meal in the dining room she enjoined the maid to stay in the room as a chaperon. The meal was going on merrily when the parlor maid interrupted with the announcement that the girl's father was coming down the street. "The governor" is exceedingly strict. The luncheon was ended speedily and the young man disappeared through the basement when her father took the young man's place and praised her for providing so toothsome a luncheon for him!

Fortune for Poet's Great Grandson.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 22.—Walter L. Chapman, whose whereabouts is unknown, is heir to $50,000 under the will of his father, Dr. Andrew L. Chapman, a grandson of the poet Thomas Campbell. Walter Chapman ran away from home thirty-five years ago, and is now fifty years old. He is a grand nephew of Alexander Campbell, founder of the Christian church.

Only Two in White.

Not the least interesting feature of the day was Mrs. Dore Lyon's white gown. It was of mousseline de soie, with great insertions of Irish point lace and a skirt effect that pleased the women mightily. Her clever toque was becoming. "Wasn't it clever for Mrs. Lyon to be the only one in white?" This is a white spring, for toward afternoon another white gown appeared. Mrs. Charles Fryer's Naething was the wearer. The frock was of white etamine, with one of the new cape effects. The gown was trimmed richly with antique lace and broad silk braid. In addition, Mrs. Naething wore her pearl necklace, with an emerald clasp. Her hat was chip straw, with a black plume.

One Man's Opinion.

At the City Federation meeting in New York there were many amusing incidents. Husband of the broad-minded women tarried in the anteroom waiting for their spouses to go home. One of these patient escorts was Leroy Sunderland Smith. He gazed through the glass doors once, sighed and returned to his chair. Men would come, inquire for their wives, and then retreat to the safe below. One man heard a few minutes of a certain paper. He said: "If these women's clubs did not struggle with the problem of
